Car - Train Crash Fatal To Child; 2 Women Hurt

A PICNIC OUTING ended in tragedy for the Tommy Brakefield family, of Monroe, Saturday when the seven-month-old Brakefield baby was fatally hurt and the mother critically injured after a train hit their car at Riverton just off U.S. 165 south of Monroe. Another Monroe woman, Mrs. Malise Mapp Russell, was also in critical condition. (Photo by Sammy Franklin)

A seven-month-old baby was fatally hurt and two Monroe women critically injured Saturday when their car was rammed by a freight train at Riverton, about 20 miles south of Monroe just off U.S. 165.

The baby, Allyson Brakefield, died shortly after 6 p.m. at St. Francis hospital from multiple injuries where she had been taken for emergency treatment.

Her mother, Mrs. Joyce Turpin Brakefield, 505 Roselawn Ave., was unconscious and in critical condition, along with Mrs. Melise Mapp Russell, of 3705 Rapides St., Monroe.

All were rushed to St. Francis by Riser and Son ambulance of Columbia.

EXPECTING BABY

Mrs. Russell, who is expecting a baby within the next four weeks, was thrown approximately 40 feet from the car by the impact when the train pulverized the front of the vehicle. She was in surgery late Saturday afternoon, while Mrs. Brakefield remained unconscious.

The baby was believed to have a fractured skull and other wounds, while the extent of injuries to all three was not known by hospital personnel late Saturday.

Investigating state police said the late-model car apparently stalled on the train tracks, and a southbound Missouri Pacific freight train smashed into the vehicle, completely demolishing it from the front seat forward.

The automobile was knocked about 30 feet south by the train and all three occupants thrown out. Late Saturday, it had not been determined who was driving by state police investigating.

The accident occurred at approximately 3:45 p.m. Saturday, some nine miles north of Columbia and approximately four miles away from the scene of another tragic accident earlier this week

U.S. Pledges To 'Watch' Top Targets

British Bomber Withdrawal To Desert Sections

OTTAWA (AP) — The United States has pledged to take over major strategic targets left uncovered by any withdrawal of British V-bombers from Europe.

This evidently new American commitment to Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, supreme Allied commander in Europe — SACEUR — was reported Saturday by a high source in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

U.S. authorities who have been attending the session of the NATO Council of Ministers here this week said they were not able immediately to confirm the information. But one official said, "It makes sense."

Lemnitzer and his staff are currently negotiating with the British government terms under which the Royal Air Force's 180 V-bombers are to be deployed within the new inter-Allied nuclear force.

The delicate and complex problems involved were discussed at some length by Lemnitzer and British Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft in Ottawa last week.

CANCELLED

Lemnitzer already has made firm arrangements with the U.S. government concerning deployment of the three Polaris submarines assigned to his command.

NATO chiefs report privately that negotiations with the British thus far have proceeded smoothly. Final agreement is expected in early July.

Clearly, however, some difficult problems face the experts.

Britain's decision to offer bombers was qualified by the reservation that they could be withdrawn

Legislature Today Begins Third Week

By SAM HANNA
World Staff Writer

Northeast Louisiana solons are returning to the capitol today to push local legislation in the third week of the 30-day fiscal session.

The Senate convenes at 7 o'clock tonight to advance Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' record $546—million general appropriations bill while the House marks time until 4 p.m. Monday.

With reapportionment dead for the fiscal session, the state's $933—million budget for fiscal year 1963-64 heads the list of major legislation remaining.

The Senate should vote on the general appropriations bill—backbone of the big budget — this week, since the House passed it last Wednesday, 99-1.

While the budget will top the Senate action this week, a bill sponsored by about 30 lawmakers to give Louisiana unpledged presidential electors will be the House's major item of the week.

The presidential primary bill was declared fiscal legislation because it contains a $25,000 appropriation to defray the cost of electing electors.

LABOR AGAINST

But labor is opposing it and a fight is sure to come when the House prepares to vote.

Monroe area lawmakers have bills of local interest to advance in the third week of the session.

For instance, resolutions sponsored by the Ouachita delegation at the request of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury and the City of West Monroe to give pay raises to four West Monroe officials are scheduled for a floor vote in the House.

Pay raises would amount to $100 monthly for the West Monroe city judge, marshal, clerk and deputy clerk. A Police Jury resolution requesting the delegation to sponsor the legislation explains that the Police Jury and City of West Monroe would split the costs.

In addition, the local delegation is backing a bill to permit the Police Jury to elect a vice president. This item was sponsored by Rep. Mike John Jr. and Rep. Lawrence Gibbs.

On the senate side, Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe has a resolution to permit municipalities and police juries to contribute financially to a 13-parish industrial development organization.

Joined by area solons, the Ouachita delegation also hopes to correct a clerical error in the $2.6-million budget for Northeast State College.

The minor increase in funds is expected to be added to the budget when it is referred to the Senate appropriations committee headed by Sen. W. J. Cleveland of Crowley.

Rep. Lasley Downes of Rayville has a bill, by request, to give assistant district attorneys a $100 per month pay increase. The bill has been referred to committee in the House.

Downes and Rep. W. S. Peck Jr. of Sicily Island are co-sponsoring, as they have done in the past, the legislative scholarship bill. But Adock is co-sponsoring

WITH FINAL FEEDING

Drive To Defeat Polio Ends Today

Victory Over Polio reaches the climax of local efforts today with the final feeding scheduled. Type III of the Sabin and vaccine will be administered in make-up clinics throughout the Twin Cities and in surrounding parishes.

Today's clinics will be the last offered in the mass immunization project. Types I and II have already been given. At least 20,000 persons are expected to flock to the local clinics today. This is the number needed to make the campaign a success.

Authorities have stated that if at least 70 per cent of the population takes the vaccine, the threat of a polio epidemic will have been eliminated.

The campaign has been sponsored jointly by the Ouachita Parish Medical Society and the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce. Doctors and Jaycees joined Saturday in issuing a joint plea for mass turnouts today.

ENDORSES PROJECT

And Mother Marie Finbarr, administrator of the St. Francis Hospital in Monroe joined in urging widespread vaccination.

"I wholeheartedly endorse the Victory Over Polio program and encourage everyone to take advantage of the Type III vaccine," Mother Finbarr said.

Doctors added that Type III is the most prevalent type of polio in the South and pointed out that Louisiana has already recorded

Clinics will be in operation today at West Monroe High School, Neville High School, Sherrouse Elementary School and Jefferson Junior High for whites.

Clinics for colored will be at Boley High, Clark Elementary, Swayze Elementary and Marble Recreation Center, across from Carroll High on Renwick Street.

Master's

Another Twin Cities resident will become owner of a master's degree when Walter L. Slater of 505 Haynes St. in West Monroe receives a Master of Arts in Teaching diploma along with 24 other graduate students at commencement exercises Monday at Colorado College in Colorado Springs.

Seeks Degree

A candidate for graduation from Louisiana State University, College of Arts and Sciences, in June is Annie Adeline Clay, a native of Monroe. The psychology major maintained a 2.51 grade point average.

Miss Clay graduated from Columbia High School, as second highest ranking student in a class of 31.

She is a member of Phi Kappa Phi and Psi Chi. Following graduation, she plans to work toward a Ph. D. degree in psychology.

Sugar Price Touches Off Third Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soaring sugar prices touched off a third congressional inquiry Friday — This one by the Senate small business committee.

Chairman John Sparkman, D-Ala., said he has directed the committee staff "to go into this matter fully."

Sparkman said in a statement that soft drink bottlers, bakers, confectioners and other heavy users of sugar "are predominantly small and independent businesses."

"They simply cannot withstand the kind of extraordinary and incomprehensible increases in sugar prices such as we have seen in the last several days," Sparkman said.

RESPONSIBILITY

"The Small Business Community Committee has the responsibility to the nation, to the Senate, and to the American small business community to find out what is going on. We intend to do our best."

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., Friday asked the Senate Finance Committee to probe skyrocketing sugar prices. That group's chairman, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va, said his group would hold hearings.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., has said a House banking subcommittee she heads will start hearings on the subject early in June.

Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy welcomed the congressional studies and predicted they would prove that "U.S. sugar supplies are going to be plentiful."

Murphy said a dip in world sugar production created a tight supply situation earlier this year, giving speculators a chance to push up prices.

NO ONE INJURED

Capital Rocked By Two Blasts

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Two predawn explosions Saturday broke windows in the sky-scraper Capitol built by Huey Long and rocked students out of their bunks in a Louisiana State University dormitory.

No one was hurt. The motive and the method remained mysteries as police sifted through a skimpy collection of clues.

"We just don't know what was the cause of it all," said Police Chief Wingate White.

"We don't know whether he is a nut or just a prankster," said Inspector Howard Kidder, who headed the search for the bomber.

Both blasts occurred on open ground away from buildings—the first on the LSU campus in a parking lot in the vicinity of the combination football stadium and dormitory, the second on the edge of a spacious sunken garden in front of the Capitol.

The two sites are about four miles apart in this southern in-

ONLY CLUES

A student told police he saw a car speeding away from the stadium dormitory shortly after the blast. The car scraped a traffic sign and lost its door handle and a piece of chrome trim. Then, it bounced over the neutral ground in the divided road and lost its muffler.

Police found the car 12 hours later and said they could find no connection with the blast at LSU. The car belonged to an LSU student whom officers declined to identify immediately.

Africa Nations Adopt Charter

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) Thirty free African nations Saturday unanimously adopted a historical charter creating an Organization of African Unity expected to turn the continent into the world's largest neutralist bloc.

The heads of state called a meeting to sign the document, which is to replace the rival power blocs which have disrupted emerging Africa. Informed sources said they would select Addis Ababa as temporary headquarters.

Jacob Abrams Dies; Services Are Set Today

Jacob B. Abrams, 67, of 503 Rochelle Ave., died early Saturday in a Monroe hospital after an illness of nine months.

Mr. Abrams had been a resident of Monroe for the past 36 years and operated the Tick-Tock Jewelry Shop on DeSiard Street until his illness. He was a native of Shreveport and had been engaged in the jewelry trade for 42 years.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at Hixson Brothers Funeral Chapel with Rabbi Martin Silverman officiating. Interment will follow in the Jewish Cemetery.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. J. B. Abrams; two daughters, Mrs. Nathan Waldmen, of Kilgore, Tex., and Mrs. Irving Leibowitz of Monroe, and four grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Josh Bodan, Leo Zipkes, Arthur Brueck, Elmer Marshall, Vernon Reddick, Otto Parker, Clyde Gilreath and Louis Masur.

IN STEP WITH TIMES

Tooth Is Sweeter Than 1828 Average

CHICAGO (UPI) — While Congress tries to find out if the price of sugar went up too high too fast, give a thought to Napoleon, Christopher Columbus and various Arabs who helped give you such a sweet tooth.

If you're in step with the times your tooth is sweeter than that of the average American of 1828, who consumed 12 pounds of sugar that year. The latest figure is 100 pounds per capita.

As for the Arabs, they are credited with bringing sugar as we know it to Europe during the Middle Ages. Sugar cane had been cultivated in the eastern world for centuries, but the word was slow to get around.

Columbus, on his second voyage, carried sugar cane plants to the West Indies. During the Napoleonic wars, when France was blockaded, Napoleon made big grants of land and money to get a beet sugar industry going at home. He succeeded.

Sugar had no trouble catching on and consumer demand was stimulated by increasing popularity of cofee. On these shores the first sugar cane was grown near New Orleans in 1751. Twenty-seven years later Britain's exploring Capt. James Cook discovered Hawaii and found sugar cane growing on the island. Sugar beet growing got a later start.

A healthy person probably doesn't have to worry about eating too much sugar, aside from getting too fat, according to an American Medical Association (AMA) expert. Excluding tooth decay the big trouble with letting children eat too much candy is that it destroys their appetites for meat and potatoes and such.

Sugar, according to a spokesman for a distillery, is used in making whiskey, "But I won't tell you to what degree because we have a secret formula." He said that if sugar prices keep rising moonshiners would be hit hard.

Slight Chance Of Rain Today

The weatherman offers only feeble hope for rain as he calls for isolated afternoon showers today and Sunday.

WARM

In the Twin Cities area, a dry May has shed only one-tenth of an inch on May 5. Since then, the Twin Cities have gone 20 consecutive rainless days. Warm weather will prevail through Monday with today's high predicted at 88-94 degrees. Low tonight is set at 65-72. Saturday the sun brought the mercury up to 95 degrees from a low of 66 degrees. Southeriy winds of 5 to 10 miles per hour will flow through the area during the day and at 10 to 18 miles per hour during the night.

Iraq Coup Try Found, Foiled

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Iraq's revolutionary government announced Saturday it has uncovered and foiled a plot by opportunist elements to overthrow it.

Radio Baghdad, broadcasting the government's announcement, said if the attempted coup had taken place it would have "drowned the country in a sea of blood."

WHERE HOARD HIDDEN

Driver Of Armored Car Keeps Secret

TORONTO, Ont. (AP)—A Canadian armored car driver accused in a $325,000 theft from the vehicle in Vancouver smilingly kept a secret Saturday. He refused to tell where the hoard is hidden.

"It's for me to know and up to you to find out," the driver, Douglas John Brown, 35, commented at Idlewild Airport in New York as he was being taken back to Canada, He was picked up Friday in Brazil.

Newsmen at Idlewild asked Brown whether he thought he could clear himself of a theft charge facing him.

"I doubt it very much," he replied. "They're after the money. I know where it is."

Then he added that he wasn't telling.

"Are you going to make a trade or deal?" a newsman asked.

"Right," said Brown.

The implication was that he would reveal the hiding place in return for a light penalty. But there was no indication Canadian authorities would agree to a deal.

Brazilian police took Brown into custody in a Rio de Janeiro hotel at which he had been staying since Monday.

Canada and Brazil have no extradition treaty, but Brazil can deport a foreigner if it so desires.

Vancouver police said Brown had been missing since he and another man employed by the Loomis Armored Car Service had collected about $550,000 in cash and checks from 48 supermarkets last Saturday .

Police later recovered $220,000 in nonnegotiable checks and $5,000 in cash in an automobile abandoned at the Vancouver airport. The other armored car employe was not implicated in the theft.

He was accompanied on the flight from Brazil by an agent of Interpol, the international police agency. Sgt. William Porteuous of the Vancouver police took over for the trip to Canada.

The warrant for his arrest was read to him as the plane crossed the U.S.-Canadian border.

MINISTER ASSURES KENNEDY

De Gaulle Appears Aimed At Coordinating A-Forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville was understood to have assured President Kennedy Saturday that the De Gaulle government aims at eventual coordination of its independent nuclear force with other nuclear forces in the Atlantic Alliance.

This means — as the French have previously indicated — that President Charles de Gaulle is keeping the door open to nuclear cooperation and hopes to narrow the split in NATO that has grown out of his decision to build an independent nuclear force for France.

Couve de Murville and Kennedy conferred at the White House for 70 minutes at midday. Later Couve de Murville and other French officials lunched with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and a party of State Department officials aboard the Navy cabin cruiser Patrick J.

In their wide-ranging discussion Kennedy and Couve de Murville took up the possibility that Communist China will develop nuclear weapons, a prospect which would require a shift in the West's security arrangements.

Couve de Murville, informants said, told Kennedy that France regards the dispute over its insistence on its own nuclear force as the most important disagreement it has with the United States so far as NATO problems are concerned.

But he was reported to have made clear that in the French view this problem should be settled within the framework of the alliance—a principle leading to ultimate integration of French nuclear strategy with that of the other powers in NATO.

U.S. officials found this to be encouraging evidence that in spite of the wide break, De Gaulle wants to limit the damage to the alliance and keep the disagreements under careful control.

Kennedy was reported to have expressed to Couve de Murville his admiration for the way in which the De Gaulle government has been able to expand its industrial production without bringing on serious inflation in France.

This led to a discussion of the U.S. balance of payments problems. Kennedy told the foreign minister that the United States is still deeply concerned about the excess of its dollar expenditures abroad over its dollar income.

For two years, administration officials have been urging the European allies to carry more of the burden of allied defense costs, foreign aid and the like, but informants said the President did not make any specific suggestions along that line to Couve de Murville.

Other subjects covered in the White House conference included:

—Negotiatoin for lowering tariff barries among the United States, the European common market, and other world trading nations.

—Developments in Haiti.

—The efforts to preserve neutrality in Laos against Communist pressures to upset the present coalition government there.

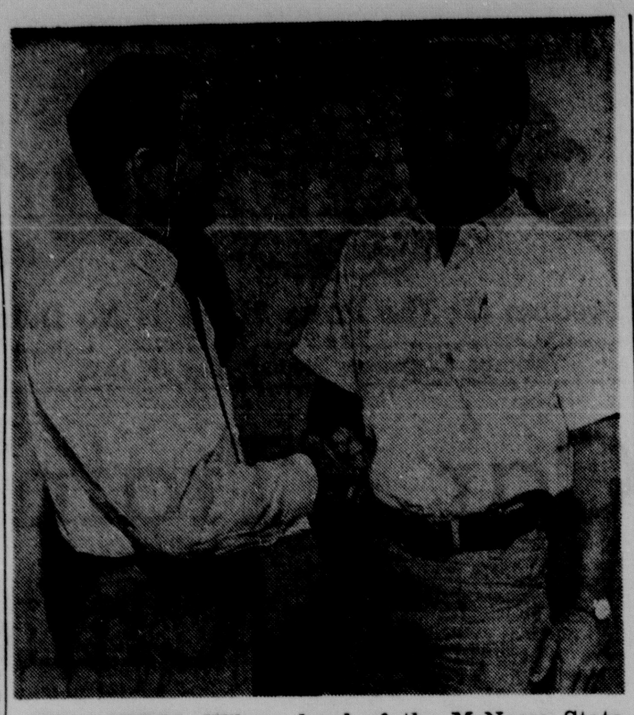

Rusk and Couve de Murville discussed some of these questions in greater detail during their luncheon cruise on the Potomac River. They agreed that one of the big questions in the Laotian crisis is whether Soviet Premier Khrushchev has the influence in southeast Asia to put an end to communist activities against the Laos neutrality policy.

Red Chinese influence has recently increased in southeast Asia and Khrushchev's power to control events there is believed by American officials to have declined.

In talking with newsmen after his White House conference, Couve de Murville said "there are always problems which we must deal with, but which must not be exaggerated."

However, these problems, including De Gaulle's drive for a Europe largely independent of American influence, are great enough to bar an early meeting between Kennedy and De Gaulle.

Waspishly, Couve de Murville said he and the President hadn't even discussed the possibility of a meeting. He noted that since Kennedy had visited Paris in 1961 it was De Gaulle's turn to visit Washington, but no time for such a visit was discussed, he said.

CONFERENCE CONFIRMED

Bob Kennedy Met With Top Negroes

NEW YORK (AP) — A Justice Department spokesman has confirmed that Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy conferred with several well-known Negroes in New York —reportedly about the civil rights in the North and ways to approach it.

But the spokesman said Saturday he had no information about another meeting Kennedy allegedly had with major hotel chain chiefs. They reportedly spoke about racial integration in hotels.

There were reports in Mississippi that business leaders from Jackson, Miss., attended. But this could not be confirmed in New York.

Kennedy's conference with the hotel officials, said to have occurred Friday and Saturday, was announced by Executive House, Inc., a hotel chain, whose board chairman is Morris R. DeWoskin.

He said in a statement that he and other hotel chain heads were "aware of the urgency of this problem (of racial integration in hostelries) and will proceed now to begin immediate plans toward the attorney general's goal."

There was no elaboration or other detail in the statement, nor any indication where in New York City the luncheon meeting was held. A spokesman for executive House said no other information was available.

The Justice Department spokesman in Washington said that the meeting on the civil rights question was attended by what he called civil rights leaders of both sides.

SEGREGATION ISSUE IN SOUTH

Legal Guns Are Primed For Sovereignty Stand

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Legal guns were primed this week for the South's last great sovereignty stand against the power of the federal government on the segregation issue.

Diminuitive Gov. George C. Wallace, a fiery foe of federal sovereignty, vowed his stand would be at the door of the University of Alabama to prevent the enrollment of two Negroes.

President Kennedy grimly warned that federal court orders would be executed, without the use of troops if possible.

Alabama's governor is the last of the Southern state chieftains to defy the federal government. And Alabama thus far remains the only state without even token desegregation of its public schools.

The showdown was set up Friday when the Justice Department petitioned a Birmingham federal judge for an injunction against any interference by Wallace in the enrollment of the Negro students at the university.

"This action is brought by the United States in its sovereign capacity to safeguard the due administration of justice in its courts and the integrity of its judical process," said the complaint signed by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

No governor, the suit said has the authority under any cloak to prevent the execution of federal court decrees.

Wallace, ordered to appear for a June 3 hearing in Birmingham, planned his next move in secrecy.

He pledged Tuesday that under the sovereign power of his state he would personally bar the entrance of any Negro to the once-desegregated university.

This was the same route followed by Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi before the University of Mississippi enrolled a Negro student. And it was similar to the original defiance of Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas over Little Rock integration.

Two Injured In Crashes On Saturday

Two persons sustained minor injuries in separate auto collisions in Monroe Saturday, and police filed four charges against two of the drivers.

Alfred J. Cato, 45, of 3700 S. Grand St. (over the levee) Monroe sustained minor injuries when he collided headon into another car driven by Harvey H. Joiner, 70, 3409 S. Grand St., who escaped injury. Police filed charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, reckless driving, and no driver's license against Cato and held him under a $500 bond.

In another accident at North 18th Street and Hudson Lane at 3:30 p.m., Virginia J. Haneline, 48, of 2207 Dogwood Dr., Monroe, suffered minor injuries when another car collided with her. She was driving east on Hudson, when her car was struck by Sidney Ray, 19, of Rt. 2, Marion, who was driving north on N. 18th Street. Police ticketed Ray for running a red light.

In other action, the Monroe department booked a 26-yar-old woman, Darlene Duncan, of 700 Mathew St., for theft by check. Officers were also probing the report by Dorothy Goldsmith, 606½ Atkinson St., that her billfold was stolen from her house Saturday.

West Monroe police were investigating the report of a billfold being taken from a rootbeer stand which belonged to Mrs. Jewell Norwood, route four, box 81, West Monroe.

West Monroe police charged one with driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and reckless driving at 10:30 p.m. Saturday. Twenty - five - year - old William B. Bennett, Box 344, Columbia, was booked on the counts after being arrested on the Arkansas Road.

Monroe police booked one, Joe E. Scroggs, 50, of 721 Camellia Dr., for DWI and reckless driving at 6 p.m. Saturday. Scroggs was taken into custody at Sixth and Grammont Streets.

The Monroe department was also probing the theft of a couple of skiis and a ski belt from a boat. The incident was reported by Edmund W. Alger, 3714 Grammont St.

A Negro woman, Dorothy Mae Lambs, 23, of 1206 Pine St., was booked for theft in connection with a shoplifting incident.

Capital Rocked By Two Blasts

the city police crime division said the young driver was issued a ticket for recklessness.

These were the third and fourth explosions — all of them unexplained — in Baton Rouge the past two months.

A dynamite blast ripped out the rear of a nearly completed brick building, home of Southern National Life Insurance Co., on March 22. A blast occurred on the LSU campus the night of May 4. It did no damage.

Before that, more than a year ago, the capitol was emptied by a series of telephoned bomb threats. Anonymous callers also threatened several business establishments.

Finally, as mysteriously as they had started, the calls stopped.

Louisiana's Legislature is in its final session this month, but both the House and Senate had adjourned for the weekend.

Baton Rouge hadn't had serious racial demonstrations since December 1961 when police used tear gas to disperse a crowd of marching Negroes protesting lunch counter segregation.

The city council has pending before it a proposal for a bi-racial committee to settle segregation differences.

The explosion on the LSU campus didn't break any windows in the dormitory built into the sides of the university's huge 68,500-seat football stadium.

But at the capitol, a sprawling complex of modern structures interlaced with beautifully manicured gardens and lawns, the blast knocked out about a dozen windows in the needle-like 34-story state house and shattered glass in three other nearby state office buildings. In all, about 40 windows were reported broken.

The bomb went off alongside a blooming magnolia tree on the sunken garden where Long, the flamboyant "Kingfish" who ruled Louisiana as governor and senator in the early 1930s, is buried.

A report that a State Highway Department survey crew had turned up a cache of almost 200 old Air Force practice bombs at Opelousas 60 miles away sparked a quick move by federal and state investigators.

But the bombs turned out to be bomb casings — dummies — collected to outline parking areas at school sites.

U.S. Pledges To 'Watch' Top Targets

Somehow, this qualification has to be reconciled with the necessity that compels Lemnitzer to insure that his plans for the defense of Europe are not jeopardized by any sudden British pullout.

Informants listed some of them:

1. The British are giving Saceur a rundown of what military men call the force generation rate of bomber command. This gives an idea of the time needed for the H-bombers to become airborne and dispersed at a time of rising international tension. These arrangements have to be dovetailed with SACEUR's own dispersal and deployment plans.

2. The British and SACEUR also are coordinating their so-called contingency planning to meet any sudden crisis inside and outside the NATO area. Thus, if the British-protected oilfields of the Middle East fall under a threat it probably will involve withdrawal of some — say one-third—of the bombers assigned to Lemnitzer. SACEUR wants as much notice as possible of any such development. This would enable Lemnitzer to arrange for the Americans to take over targets in Communist Europe left uncovered by the British withdrawal.

Twin Mishaps Occur In Area Town Saturday

JONESBORO (Special) — Traffic accidents happened in pairs here Saturday morning with police investigating two separate mishaps that occurred less than 30 minutes and not many more feet apart.

Each involved a car and pickup truck.

Five children and an adult sustained minor injuries. They were treated at the hospital here and later released.

The first accident which indirectly touched off the second occured about 10:20 a.m. when a southbound car on Hwy. 167 driven by E. Ree Martin, a Negro of Saline, was in a broadside collision with a westbound pickup truck crossing the highway at 10th street, Police Chief Adrian Peevy said.

Driver of the pickup truck, J. C. Martin, 68, was uninjured, but his five grandchildren who were riding in the truck bed received minor injuries. They were Jimmy, Bobby and Mary Martin, Betty Slaughter and Ann Culpepper. The car driver also was uninjured.

While officers were investigating the accident a car driven by Mrs. Sue Hickman of Pineville stopped behind other vehicles waiting for the pickup and car to be towed away. A pickup truck driven by Mrs. Katherine Johnson of Jonesboro struck the rear of the Hickman car, Chief Peevy said.

A passenger in the Hickman car, Mrs. R. Y. Tucker of Alexandria, was treated and later released from the hospital here. Mrs. Hickman was uninjured.

All four vehicles sustained considerable damage.

Rocket Bearing Truck Designed For Saturn '5'

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — A truck to transport the 138-foot long first stage of the Saturn 5-Apollo moon rocket has been developed by the Marshall Space Flight Center, the agency announced Saturday.

The civilian space agency said design was completed of a 24-wheel carrier to be pulled by a towing tractor, a modified tank-retriever. The carrier, needed for moving the rocket between various manufacturing, testing and launching sites, requires a clearance of 38 feet and fully assembled will be 195 feet in length.

Guyton of 3902 Spurgeon Drive, is a graduate of Neville High School. She is the holder of an Alumni Federation freshman scholarship and has served her social sorority, Phi Mu, as pledge president, pledge director, outstanding pledge and as a member of standards committee. She is a member of Lambda Intersorority and has served as a freshman advisor.

Collection

Mrs. Ralph Marionneaux, of 1406 Spencer Blvd. owns a collection of shells said to be one of Florida's most unusual specimens of marine life. Literature from Florida says markings on the shells symbolize the birth, crucifixion and resurrection of Christ. Mrs. Marionneaux said she picked up her collection about five years ago in the Panama City - Fort Walton Beach area.

a bill with Sen. Michael O'Keefe of New Orleans to abolish the legislative scholarships to be substituted with loans for students attending college.

Other area legislation includes an item by Sen. J. C. Gilbert of Sicily Island to give the Franklin Parish assessor's office an increase in expense funds, $16,000, to $22,000, and one by Rep. W. C. Steen of Columbia allowing for an increase in the Caldwell assessor's office, $15,000 to $20,000.

The Senate also will receive resolutions by Rep. Chester Floyd of Jean to establish a court of the union to supercede the U.S. Supreme Court and a constitutional convention to block the federal courts from ordering state legislatures to reapportion.

Five reapportionment plans were rejected by the House last week.

One man, the assistant superintendant of Caldwell Parish schools, K. R. Russell, of Kelly, was killed in the accident which occurred Tuesday night, and a second occupant in his car, Clyde Horn, Columbia alderman, died later in the St. Francis hospital.

The young women involved in the accident Saturday afternoon were reportedly driving to the No. Two locks and dams on the Ouachita River to join their husbands with a picnic lunch. Their husbands, Ed Russell and Tommy Brakefield, had been fishing all day.

The crossing at which the incident occurred does not have electric warning signals, and has a stop sign posted which is reportedly almost overgrown by weeds and grass.

Funeral services will be at 4 p.m. today in Peters Funeral Chapel with the Rev. James R. Edwards, pastor of Parkview Baptist Church officiating.

Burial will be at Memorial Park Cemetery.

Survivors include her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas Brakefield of Monroe; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen T. Turpin, Monroe; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Gracie Brakefield, Monroe.

Davidson Gets Council Seat

FARMERVILLE (Special) — J. L. Davidson received 376 votes in an election held here Saturday to fill the vacancy of the town council of the late Robert Ray James.

T. L. Gaddis was second with 168 votes in light voting in the town which has a potential total of 800 votes.

Ouachita High Band Awards Are Presented

The John Philip Sousa Band Award was presented to Miss Pam Jones at the Ouachita Parish High School band awards banquet held Saturday night at the school cafeteria.

Pam, a member of the band's clarinet section, is drum majorette of the school band. S. T. Howell, principal of the school, made the presentation.

Four Year Band Medals were presented to Shirley Loflin, Sharon Jones, Pam Jones, Syble Boyd, Raymon Emmons, Harold Priestley, Don Hortman, and Ronnie Smith.

Special guests for the banquet were the eighth grade band members from Ouachita Junior High, Logtown, and Swartz schools and their parents. These students will be the freshmen in the high school band next year.

Wafer expressed his thanks to the Band Boosters Club for its support of the band program. Mrs. Guy Popham is the outgoing president, and Mrs. J. M. McIlwain has been installed as president for next year.

Red Scientists Note Fission

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists said Saturday they have observed spontaneous fission of the nucleus of an atom which is in an isomeric, or excited, state.

The observation was reported by Tass, which called it a "hitherto unknown physical phenomenon."

The discovery was made, the Soviet news agency said, at the nuclear research institute at Dubna, near Moscow.

"The lifetime of such nuclei obtained at the nuclear reactions laboratory is about fifteen thousands of a second, whereas for nuclei in the conventional state it reaches a hundred thousand billion years," Tass said.

Emmy Awards Set Tonight

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences presents its Emmy awards to video's top stars tonight in a 15th anniversary celebration sparked by a series of parties from New York to Hollywood.

Television's best actors, writers, directors, producers and technicians are expected to be present when the Emmys are awarded in 28 categories.

NBC-TV will telecast the festivities from New York, Washington, D.C., and the famed Hollywood Palladium. Other award parties are to be held in San Francisco, Seattle, Wash., and Phoenix, Ariz.

Washington, D.C., presenters are National Aeronautics and Space Administration Chief James Webb, Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs Averill Harriman, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.) and Sen. Warren Magnuson (d-Wash.).

Comedian Joey Bishop is master of ceremonies for Hollywood, Arthur Godfrey in New York and Chet Huntley in Washington.

Those seeking the golden statuette for best series actress include Lucille Ball (The Lucille Ball Show), Shirley Booth (Hazel), Shirl Conway (The Nurses), Mary Tyler Moore (The Dick Van Dyke Show), and Irene Ryan (The Beverly Hillbillies). Miss Booth and Miss Ball are previous Emmy winners.

The nominees for most outstanding performance by an actor in a single program are Bradford Dillman, "The Voice of Charlie Point;" Don Gordon, "The Madman;" Trevor Howard, "The Invincible Mr. Disraeli;" Walter Matthau, "Big Deal in Laredo" and Jospeh Schildkraut, "Hear the Mellow Wedding Bells."

Outstanding single performance by an actress nominees include Diahann Carroll, "A Horse Has a Big Head—Let Him Worry;" Diana Hyland, "The Voice of Charlie Pont;" Eleanor Parker, "Why Am I Grown so Cold;" Sylvia Sidney, "The Madman," and Kim Stanley, "A Cardinal Act of Mercy."

Competing for program of the year honors are "The Tunnel," "The Voice of Charlie Pont," "The Madman" and "The Danny Kaye Show With Lucille Ball."

Nominees for the best humor show are "The Beverly Hillbillies," "The Danny Kaye Show With Lucille Ball," "The Dick Van Dyke Show," and "McHale's Navy."

Those nominated for best achievement in drama include "Alcoa Premiere," "The Defenders," "The Dick Powell Theater," "The Eleventh Hour" and "Naked City."

PLEADS FOR WATER

HONG KONG (UPI)—The Chinese Chamber of Commerce has asked Communist China for more water to alleviate a water shortage in Hong Kong caused by prolonged drought, it was announced Saturday. Hong Kong began buying water from Red China three years ago after the Chinese built a huge reservoir in the border town of Shum Chun.

PRICE INDEX SHOWS

Local Consumers Now Paying Less

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Monroe residents are paying less than they were last September for goods and services, a Monroe consumer price index compiled by the division of research of the College of Business Administration at LSU, indicated Saturday.

The index measures average changes in prices of goods and services usually bought by city families of wage earners and clerical workers.

It is based on prices of about 300 items which were selected so that their price changes would represent the movement of prices of all goods and services purchased by wage and clerical families.

They include most of the important items in family spending.

The prices are collected from grocery and department stores, hospitals, filling stations, and other types of stores and service establishments which wage earners and clerical worker families patronize.

The index showed a decrease of six-tenths of a per cent from September of 1962 to March of 1963.

The September-March pricing period is the first six-month period which has failed to show an increase in average retail prices since the March, 1959-September, 1959 period.

According to compilers, "This upward trend leveled off (at least momentarily) as a result of significant decreases in food, housing and reading and recreation indexes.

"The March consumer price index also declined when compared to a year-earlier index, in spite of substantial increases in average transportation, medical care and personal care prices."

'Monkey Trial' Town May Get Big Steel Mill

DAYTON, Tenn. (UPI) — This small, but ambitious Southeast Tennessee town—known principally for its "monkey trial" 38 years ago—rejoiced Saturday over the prospect of getting a $25 million steel mill, employing 600-700 local persons.

Robert Norris, of the chamber of commerce, said apparently all that stands in the way of Rhea County getting a huge Rebel Steel Mill is approval of an Area Redevelopment Administration (ARA) loan.

"We've got our sleeves rolled up and we're ready to go to work," he said. "We're going to work like the dickens to get it."

"We can't assume that the ARA is going to approve" local backing, but he said he thought the chances were good.

A study of area mineral resources, including low-grade iron ore which may be processed to usable grade, also still has to be approved by the Bureau of Mines and Standards.

If complications arise, he said, there also was a possibility local capital could be used more extensively.

Rhea is part of an area declared depressed. The chamber estimates Rebel, started on a 400-acre tract at Watts Bar and capable of producing 175,000 tons of finished steel and the same amount of pig iron annually, would create an additional four jobs per person.

Two Men Face Liquor Charges

ABERDEEN, Miss. (UPI) — Two men face charges of possessing and transferring corn whisky in unstamped containers, authorities said Saturday.

Alcohol tax unit agent Billy Pace said the arrests of Ervin King of Tupelo and Dickie Crews of Pontotoc raised the number of charged to 20 during an extensive investigation in Northeast Mississippi.

King pleaded innocent to the charge Friday before Federal Commissioner Ruth West. He already is under a murder indictment in Lee County in connection with a murder of a man whose body was never found.

Armored Car Messenger's 'Vacation' Ends

PHOENIX, Arix. (UPI)—A veteran armored car messenger who disappeared from his Chicago home and job after a Valentine's Day tiff with his wife was held Friday for pilfering more than $70,000 from a Brink's Inc. money shipment and living it up in the Arizona sunshine.

Arthur Henry Page, 50, was arrested at a swank motel Thursday night. Edward Boyle, chief Federal Bureau of Investigation agent for Arizona, said an estimated $52,000 in cash and property was recovered from the fugitive's room, safety deposit boxes and several banking accounts.

FBI agents said Page had been living lavishly here for about a month with two expensive automobiles, a natty new $2,000 wardrobe and two living quarters—a $20 to $30 a day motel room and an apartment in the suburban university community of Tempe.

He had loaned one of the automobiles — a 1959 Cadillac — to a girl friend, agents said. Authorities were searching for the woman and the car.

He was seized at the motel after a Phoenix police officer spotted in the parking lot of the Sands Motel a 1962 Buick in which the FBI said he apparently fled Chicago. FBI circulars had alerted police across the nation that Page was believed to be driving the red and white automobile, which he had purchased just before the thefts from the Brink's armored car were discovered Feb. 15.

Page was turned over to FBI agents and arraigned Friday before an acting U.S. commissioner. He was held under $50,000 bond in the custody of the U.S. marshal on a fugitive warrant.

J. O. LANCASTER

Lancaster Is Appointed In Concordia

VIDALIA (Special) — James O. Lancaster, supervisor of scholarship, placement and alumni relations at Northeast State College, Monroe, has been named superintendent of Concordia Parish Schools.

The announcement was made by C. J. Sullivan, acting superintendent and secretary of the Concordia Parish School Board.

Lancaster, a graduate of Ferriday High School in Concordia Parish, earned his B.S. degree in accounting at Northwestern State College and his master's degree in educational administration at George Peabody College.

He served during 1949 and 1950 as vocational counselor at Northwestern State College and was math teacher and assistant coach at Ferriday High School from 1955 until 1959 when he was employed at Northeast State College in his present capacity.

Lancaster served in the U.S. Navy during World War II as a medical corpsman. He was commissioned an ensign in the U.S. Naval Reserve in 1950 and now holds the rank of lieutenant.

Lancaster will assume his new post July 1, according to Sullivan.

He is married to the former Betty Eggers and they have three children, Bruce 13, Preston 10, and Marilyn, 8.

Tennessee Hits Light Violations

NASHVILLE (UPI) — State troopers will keep a sharp lookout during the next two weeks for motorists driving vehicles with only one headlight, Safety Commissioner Hilton Butler said Saturday.

Butler said he had asked the courts to consider imposing the maximum fine of $50 on each motorist convicted of the improper light violation.

"We have already arrested 907 drivers this year for violation of this law," Butler said. "The one-headlighter is considered a prime danger on the highway."

Big Gains Expected In Stream Pollution

NASHVILLE (UPI)—Tennessee should make greater gains this year than ever before in the area of stream pollution, a state official said Saturday.

S. Leary Jones, director of stream pollution control, said 19 sewage treatment plants have been placed in operation during the last six months.

During the same period, he said, 14 industries have either built industrial waste treatment works or connected to municipal systems. Jones said that according to a report made during a recent meeting of the state Stream Pollution Control Board, Tennessee now has 273 sewage systems in service.

HEARING SCHEDULED

State Primary Bid Clears High Hurdle

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Rep. Parey Branton said Saturday a proposal for a statewide presidential primary has cleared its highest hurdle in the Legislature.

"We'll have a hearing in the House Appropriations Committee, probably Tuesday," Branton said in an interview from his Webster Parish home.

If the measure clears the committee, Branton said, "We'll probably call a floor vote Wednesday or Thursday. Chances look good for the committee to approve it. We cleared the highest hurdle when we were able to get it introduced."

The Senate returns from the weekend at 7 p.m. Sunday to rush the House-passed $546 million general Appropriations Bill to the Senate Finance Committee for hearings Monday. The House returns at 4 p.m. Monday.

Senate action is expected Sunday night on an amended bill to increase lawmakers' retirement benefits and a resolution denouncing a so-called threat of "government by bayonet" in federal movement of riot trained troops to Alabama.

Also in the Senate is a House-passed resolution seeking to create a national Court of the Union. The proposal asks Congress to create the court, with power to review U.S. Supreme Court decisions affecting states rights, by constitutional amendment.

Companion resolutions would take away U.S. Supreme Court jurisdiction in apportioning state legislatures, and allow legislatures in two-thirds of the states to propose national constitutional amendments directly, without first gaining Congressional acceptance.

Branton's proposal to hold a statewide presidential primary carries a $25,000 appropriation to pay for election expenses. This gave it a fiscal label and allowed it to be introduced in the fiscal session.

Otherwise, it would have had to gain three-fourths majority approval in both chambers of the legislature.

The move would bear hardest on the voters who are registered as Democrats.

There are 1,083,357 registered Democrats in Louisiana, official figures for April 30 show. The state has 10,163 registered Republicans and 4,755 registered in other parties.

Branton, who has been a fighter for states rights and segregation causes, said all the bill requires now "is a simple majority vote in the committee, on the House floor, and in the Senate, to win legislative approval."

COMPLETE ARRANGEMENTS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pickwick International and its British subsidiary said Friday they have concluded distribution arrangements in Belgium, Holland and West Germany. The company also is engaged in an extensive program of spot commercials on Radio Luxembourg, prompting its children's and specialty recording lines, President Cy Leslie said.

GOP Lawmaker Hopes Freeman Will Now Resign

MEMPHIS (UPI)—Rep. William E. Brock, R-Tenn., said Saturday he hoped the overwhelming rejection of President Kennedy's wheat program would cause Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman to resign.

"I think he should resign," Brock declared. "I think he's done a terrible job."

The Tennessee congressman said the wheat vote "struck a blow for freedom which is going to resound to the eternal credit of individual Americans."

Brock was the keynote speaker at the annual meeting of the Tennessee Federation of Republican Clubs. He called for party unity in the state and predicted any GOP presidential candidate "could, should and will carry Tennessee."

Earlier, Brock told newsmen he looks for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona to capture the Republican nomination.

About 300 persons were on hand for the two - day session which ended Saturday night with an address by Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa.

Demonstrators March On U.S. Submarine Base

DUNOON, Scotland (AP) —An old paddlewheel steamer, trailing a wind sock with "peace" painted on it, sailed into Holy Loch Saturday carrying demonstrators from all over Britain to protest the U.S. Polaris submarine base.

The 700-ton Waverley, rented by the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament for $980 paid to the state-owned British Railways, was packed with 1,350 demonstrators when she docked after the three-hour trip from Glasgow.

At least another thousand had been unable to get aboard and traveled by train. They met the ship at the dock and joined in a four-mile march toward Ardnadam Pier, used by American sailors to travel to and from the Polaris depot ship Hunley, moored several hundred yards offshore. One Polaris submarine was alongside.

Ardnadam Pier was surrounded by coils of barbed wire and Scottish police. No special precautions appeared to have been taken by the U.S. Navy against this latest in a series of demonstrations.

Sailors took pictures of the two-funneled paddler and the marchers themselves, who were supported by bands, bagpipers and guitarists.

The marchers stopped several hundred yards short of Ardnadam Pier and assembled at a war memorial, where they passed a resolution demanding removel of the Polaris base.

The Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament charged the passengers the equivalent of $1.22 each and thus stood to make a profit of about $660.

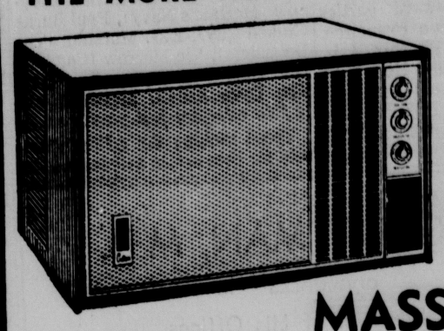

Not a single arrest was made by any of the 200 policemen posted for the demonstration. Officials said the demonstrator cooperated fully with the police.

POSTAGE DUE

WAUSAU, Wis. (UPI) — Arthur Dornstreich had to pay Uncle Sam three cents for a New Year's greeting card delivered 38 years late.

The card was mailed to Dornstreich by an aunt in 1924 but apparently was misplaced by the post office. It bore a one cent stamp, three cents short of the postage rate for cards today.

New Teachers Hit Record; Still Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1963 crop of college graduates trained to teach will be a record 158,357 but there still will be a serious teacher shoratge next fall, the National Education Association said Saturday.

In its annual survey of teacher supply and demand in the public schools, the NEA's research division said about 40,000 of the potential new teachers will not enter the classroom.

Some will go into military service, some to graduate school, some to other occupations, and some women graduates will get married and start raising families.

The balance of 118,000 is just about half the 235,000 new teachers which the NEA estimates will be needed next September.

Part of the shortage will be made up by women teachers returning to the classroom after staying out to raise a family, and by the use of emergency teachers who are not fully prepared. There are about 90,000 such emergency teachers now in service.

Dr. Ray C. Maul, who directed the survey, said enough teachers probably will be found to replace the teachers who are quitting, and to serve increasing enrollments.

Bishop Calls For Support Of Negro Rights

NEW YORK (AP) — The presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church called on the body's 3.5 million members Saturday to actively support the Negro movement for increased civil rights.

In a statement sent to every bishop and minister in the Church, Presiding Bishop Arthur Lichtenberger warned that "Present events reveal the possible imminence of catastrophe."

He referred to racial troubles in Birmingham, Ala., Chicago, Nashville, Tenn., New York and Raleigh, N.C., and said they demonstrate that countless persons have lost patience with the "slow pace of response to their legitimate cry for human rights."

His statement, stressing a sense of urgency, said, "It is not enough for the Church to exhort men to be good. Men, women and children are today risking their livelihood and their lives in protesting for their rights.

"We must support and strengthen their protest in every way possible, rather than give support to the forces of resistance by our silence."

The bishop said "It should be a cause of rejoicing to the Church community that Negro-American and oppressed people everywhere are displaying a heightened sense of human dignity in their refusal to accept second-class citizenship any longer.

"The right to vote, to eat a hamburger where you want, to have a decent job, to live in a house fit for habitation: these are not rights to be litigated or negotiated. It is our shame that demonstrations must be carried out to win them."

Bishop Lichtenberger noted that the Episcopal General Convention has repeatedly stressed Church responsibility for racial injustice.

He urged Episcopalians to take these steps immediately:

1. To become individually involved, in both the North and South, in such community matters as housing, employment, public accomodations and education.

2. To give money to aid Negroes in their struggle for equality.

CONQUERED BY AMERICANS

Going Is Tough On West Ridge Of Mt. Everest

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—Going up the west ridge was tough and, as one of the Americans said, "often pretty rotten." But, then, over a rise they saw the Stars and Stripes whipping in the wind. They homed on it and in a short while stood next to it on the howling top of Mt. Everest.

It was the flag planted in the snow on the 29,028-foot peak on May 1 by James W. Whittaker, Redmond, Wash., and Nawang Gombu, a Sherpa guide.

"It was a sight for sore eyes," the U.S. Mt. Everest expedition reported Saturday.

Standing with the flag on the world's highest peak, William F. Unsoeld, 36, Corvallis, Ore., and Thomas F. Hornbein, 32, San Diego, Calif., made mountain climbing history. They were the first men on record to make a successful on Everest by way of the perilous west ridge.

The climb, Hornbein reported by radio, was "generally pretty unpleasant" with rock ledges sloping downward. When he and Unsoeld saw the flag, he said, "We aimed straight for it."

Hornbein said he and Unsoeld climbed part of the time on Everest's north face, slightly down from the crest of the ridge. According to the latest maps and an expedition spokesman, the north face is technically in Tibet.

Hornbein said most of the going was on rock until they reached the summit snowfield. Westerly winds kept the rock snow free.

These bits of information on the first double U.S. conquest of Mt. Everest began filtering down to headquarters here over walkie-talkie radios carried by the climbers. They held back on a full report because the radio batteries were running low.

Expedition leader Norman R. Dyhrenfurth reported that the team of Barry. Bishop, 30, Washington, D.C., and Luther G. Jerstad, 26, Eugene, Ore., had reached the summit via the south ridge ahead of Hornbein and Unsoeld.

The south ridge team arrived at the summit at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday after getting a late start because a butane fire in their tent at the 27,450-foot camp burned their beards off, Dyhrenfurth reported.

They didn't find the west ridge team at the top and started down. But as they set out they spotted Hornbein and Unsoeld approaching from the west ridge. The west team reached the summit at 6:30 p.m. and the four started down together.

Darkness closed in and they were unable to find Camp 6. They spent the night in the open—without tents or sleeping bags—28,000 feet above sea level.

During the night, Unsoeld and Bishop suffered frostbitten toes and an effort is being made to get them back to Katmandu by helicopter as soon as possible. It may take two or three days.

Bishop reported the temperature was at zero that night but there was almost no wind.

"If winds had been like they are in the day—50 to 70 miles an hour—I would not be talking to you now," Bishop told headquarters here by radio.

Physicians in the expedition requested a helicopter to fly Unsoeld and Bishop back to Katmandu. But the Norwegian pilot of the only helicopter in the country said the air was too thin to land at the 14,000-feet site designated by the expedition for the pickup.

Officials said the helicopter probably could pick them up Monday at the 13,000-foot Thyangboche monastery or on Tuesday at the Sherpa town of Namche Bazar.

This means that Bishop and Unsoeld will have to be carried from the 17,800-foot base camp to the lower area.

Ex Klansman Convicted Of Firing Blasts

ANNISTON, Ala. (UPI)—A former Ku Klux Klansman who once participated in an attack on singer Nat (King) Cole was convicted Saturday of firing shotgun blasts into a church and the home of two Negroes.

The defendant, 42-year-old Kenneth Adams, was sentenced to 180 days in jail and fined $100 on each of the shooting counts.

Adams went free on a $900 appeals bond, but moments later he and a companion, William H. Boyd Jr., 23, were taken into custody by county authorities and charged with intimidating two Negro women with a pistol.

The city of Anniston originally had planned to try the two on the intimidation charges, but the plan was dropped when it was learned the alleged crimes took place 400 feet outside the jurisdiction of city police.

Elsewhere in the South Saturday, the racial front was relatively quiet.

Birmingham, which earlier this week got a new city government that is more moderate on the desegregation issue, appeared less tense than it had been for months.

In Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va., movie theaters which formerly catered to whites quietly lowered racial barriers, and in Jackson, Miss., Negroes held in abeyance their plans to stage massive demonstrations. The Jackson protests apparently were being held off pending talks between Negro leaders and white clergymen.

However, Greensboro, N.C., where nightly demonstrations have been staged, remained tense and a sit-in was conducted by six Negroes at a restaurant in Charlottesville, Va. The owner of the restaurant said he ordered his waitresses to serve the Negroes, but the waitresses refused.

Temporarily out of the spotlight, but still very much alive, was Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's feud with the federal government over a court order directing that two Negroes be admitted to the University of Alabama.

The Justice Department filed suit Friday to enjoin Wallace from carrying out his threat to personally bar the two Negroes. A hearing on the suit has been set for June 3, just a week before the Negroes are scheduled to be admitted.

The shootings for which ex-KKK leader Adams was tried Saturday took place May 12, the day that Negroes rioted in Birmingham over the bombing of a motel and the home of an integration leader.

President Kennedy ordered 3,000 troops into the state that night, and the soldiers still remain and presumably could be used if trouble develops over the desegregation of the University of Alabama.

Adams was arrested in 1956 for jumping onto a Birmingham stage to participate in the attack on Nat (King) Cole. Adams was charged with assault but pleaded guilty to a lesser charge and paid a $50 fine.

Four witnesses were called before the packed courtroom in Adams' trial.

Negroes Tom Dokes and Jesse Clark testified that shots were fired into their homes on Mother's Day afternoon. Another witness testified he was inside the church when it was hit by a shotgun blast.

STATUE OF CHRIST

Black Hills Gain Feature

By DAN PERKES

SPEARFISH, S.D. (AP)—A giant American nomument to Christianity soon will be built in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

A 175-foot statue of Christ giving his Sermon on the Mount will be erected on a mountain top overlooking this small western South Dakota city already famous for its Black Hills passion play.

When completed, the monument, designed by the late sculptor Gutzon Borglum, will be visible for about 100 miles. It was Borglum who created the Mount Rushmore memorial of four presidents, also in the Black Hills.

The Christ on the Mountain statue is expected to be the largest of its kind in the world.

At Case's urging, the non-profit Christ on the Mountain Corp. was formed to select a suitable site for the monument in the Black Hills.

Spearfish was chosen because it is the home of the passion play.

The Christ statue originally was designed as a bayfront shrine at Corpus Christi, Tex. It was to have been Borglum's gift to that community. But the one string he attached started a controversy.

The sculptor asked only that the city provide a suitable setting for his monument. A bond election failed, and triggered discord among bayfront residents.

Before a second bond election could be held, a dam burst and damaged the city's water supply. The bond election to finance the shrine went instead for a water system.

Then the Depression hit, and by the time Corpus Christi got around to approving the project, Borglum was engrossed in the Mount Rushmore memorial and had lost interest.

After Borglum's death in 1941, the model for the statue lay forgotten in his southern Black Hills studio until the Christ on the Mountain committee hired his son, Lincoln Borglum, to design the monument.

Pharmacy's Top Students Are Honored

High ranking students in the School of Pharmacy at Northeast Louisiana State College were recognized last night at the sixth annual banquet of the student chapter, American Pharmaceutical Association.

The banquet and a dance were held on the Frances Hotel roof.

Charles Dansereau, president of the local APhA, won the national organization's recognition award, the first time that the trophy has been given here. It was presented to the Thibodaux student as the most outstanding senior in pharmacy.

Local APhA trophies for high ranking work in three classes went to the following: Leo Schillaci of Napoleonville, sophomore; James Gary of New Iberia, junior; Carolyn Oubre of Prairieville, senior. These were presented by Dr. Frank Martin, faculty adviser of the college chapter.

Ralph M. Wilson, dean of the School of Pharmacy, awarded prizes given by various nationally-known drug firms to the following students for superior achievement: Bristol Laboratories, Inc. award, Robert L Moody, Monroe senior; Johnson and Johnson trophy, C. L. Steva, Morgan City senior, for excellence in administrative subject; Merck Sharp and Dohme award, John O. LaTard, Zachary senior, and C. L. Steva; Rexall Drug trophy, Richard Autin, Jennings senior; McKesson award, Charles Dansereau.

Kappa Psi fraternity recognized students for various activities. Awards and their recipients include: senior scholastic, Richard Autin; undergraduate pharmacy scholastic, Lynn Bourgeois, Donaldsonville junior; active achievement, Lane Ballard, Farmerville senior; pledge achievement, Irby Bourque, Lafayette junior; retiring regent, Richard Autin. These awards were made by Dr. August Danti of the pharmacy faculty.

Mrs. Joseph H. Kern, adviser to Kappa Epsilon, women's pharmaceutical fraternity, presented the organization's outstanding member award to Carolyn Oubre.

Phi Delta Ch fraternity trophies went to the following students: senior achievement, John O. LaTard; outstanding member, Jerry P. Dugas, White Castle senior; outstanding pledge, Roland Miller, Shreveport freshman. These were awarded by Dr. Martin and Rodney Langlinais, Abbeville senior and president of the fraternity.

Troops Leaving Alabama Area; Back To Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Defense said Saturday that some troops moved into Alabama two weeks ago during the Birmingham racial disturbance are being transferred back to Ft. Bragg, N.C.

A spokesman said a rifle company and a military police unit, totaling less than 500 men, were being moved by air and truck convoy Saturday from Maxwell Air Force Base.

The spokesman said the other troops which had been sent to Ft. McClellan, Ala., are not being removed.

On May 12 President Kennedy ordered Army troops trained in riot control to move into Maxwell and Ft. McClellan after a night of rioting in racially tense Birmingham. The troops were not ordered into Birmingham.

Kennedy said he had ordered the troops to the Alabama bases in event local law enforcement officials were unable to cope with the situation.

A week ago Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace asked the U.S. Supreme Court to declare the President's move invalid on grounds that the governor had not requested any federal troops to deal with the situation.

At the time of the original troop movements Pentagon officials said approximately 3,000 men were involved.

The Pentagon on May 13 disclosed that the units moved to Maxwell Air Force Base were elements of the 503rd Military Police Battalion and one company from the 1st Battle Group, 325th Infantry, 82nd Airborne Divison, both from Ft. Bragg.

They were flown to Maxwell, about 80 miles southeast of Birmingham.

A brigade of the 2nd Infantry Division was moved by truck from Ft. Benning Ga., to Ft. McClellan, which is about 50 miles east of Birmingham.

Nelia Gallien, 51, Succumbs; Rites Are Set Monday

Nelia Gallien, 51, of 206 Wilson St. in Monroe, died Saturday in a local hospital after an illness of one week.

Funeral services will be in St. Joseph's Catholic Church at 10 a.m. Monday.

Father Michael Hannon will conduct rosary services at 7:30 p.m. today in Hixson Brothers Funeral Chapel.

Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Mr. Gallien was a native of Derry and had resided in Monroe for several years. He was a mechanic for the state highway department.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Dorothy Gallien, Monroe; a son, Nelia Gallien Jr., Houston, Tex.; a daughter, Miss Linda Dianne Gallien, Monroe; two brothers, Carol Gallien and M. J. Gallien, both of Houston; four sisters, Mrs. W. G. Pfeffer and Mrs. Howard Dougherty, and Mrs. Agnes Bryant, all of Houston, and Mrs. B. A. Steele, Norfolk, Va.; his mother, Mrs. Edna Gallien, Houston, and two grandchildren.

Final Services Set Today For Claude E. Allen

Funeral services for Claude Elton Allen, 68, of 312 Mitchell Ln. in West Monroe, will be at Hixson Brothers Chapel at 4 p.m. today with the Rev. Earl Emmerich officiating.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Mr. Allen died in a Veterans Administration Hospital at Alexandria Friday afternoon following a short illness.

He was a retired post office employe of Monroe. He had resided in West Monroe for the past 27 years.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Ruth Allen, West Monroe; a son, Aubrey Allen, Houston, Tex.; a step-son, Hill Huckabay, West Monroe; a daughter, Mrs. Pearl Campbell, Houston, Tex.; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Ralph Carman, Shreveport and Mrs. John Elmgreen, Los Angeles, Calif. and five grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Bill Dunn, T. J. Mathis, Henery Hall, Fred Dressler, Harold Miles and Russell Miles.

2 Stewardesses Escape Death As Door Blows Off

MANCHESTER, England (UPI) —Two airline stewardesses said Saturday they narrowly escaped death when the door of the Irish prop-jet in which they were flying to Amsterdam blew off at 17,000 feet.

Vera Drescheres, 22, and Bridden Slattery, 23, were alone in the first-class compartment of the British-made Viscount airliner when the door, which had been locked and bolted before the flight, suddenly flew off. The cause of the accident is being investigated.

"I was pouring coffee in the pantry when I suddenly was slammed against the wall," Miss Drescheres said. "My jacket flew off its hook and into space.

"There was a bang and the door near the pantry flew away. . . then a tremendous rush of air," she said. "Pans and crockery started to fly about. We went into a steep dive and the air pressure eased."

"The inside of the cabin became very cold as the air rushed in, but everyone was calm," Miss Slattery said. "The 26 passengers were in fine form. The job lasted only a few second and there was no panic."

Police Probe Safe Burglary

Monroe police were probing the burglary of a Negro federal housing project Saturday in which a large safe containing between $200 and $300 was carried off by burglars.

Major of Detectives H. B. Johnson said the party or parties apparently used the truck belonging to the project office to move the safe. The breakin occurred at Carver Homes Housing Development office located on Texas Avenue and Carver Drive. The truck was found abandoned approximately one block away from the scene of the burglary.

Frank Smith, of 1108 N. 7th St., head of the Monroe Housing authority, told police he believed the safe contained a little better than $200. It was described as a grey safe, approximately 19 by 19 inches in size and around 36 inches high. Police said there was no sign of forced entry into the office where the safe is kept. They were searching for the missing safe Saturday.

Meanwhile, the Monroe department booked a 45-year-old owner and manager of a credit association, Elmer Lee Harman, of 305 Harn St., Monroe, for felony theft. Harman, owner of the Louisiana Mutual Credit Association, 506 N. 3rd St., was booked on a warrant obtained through the district attorney's office for theft of $344 from Green Brothers Dairy, located on the Sterlington Road. He allegedly had been given some accounts by the dairy for collection, and after reportedly collecting the money, failed to turn it over to the dairy. Harman posted a $750 bond late Saturday after he had been transferred to the parish jail.

The Ouachita Parish sheriff's department is still investigating the burglary of the Big Star Bar, on U. S. 80 west of West Monroe, which occurred sometime Thursday night or early Friday. Around $75 was taken from the cigarette machine, two pinball machines and a jukebox after entrance was gained by prying open a door.

Sister Of Local Residents Dies; Rites Set Today

JONESBORO (Special) — Mrs. Ada Shows Walker, 93, of Jonesboro, died about noon Saturday in a local hospital following a fall at her home earlier Saturday.

Funeral services will be at 3 p.m. today in Sweet Water Baptist Church near Quitman with the Rev. Wayne Thomas, pastor, and the Rev. C. W. Aswell officiating.

Burial will be in Old Hebron Cemetery near here under direction of Southern Funeral Home of Jonesboro.

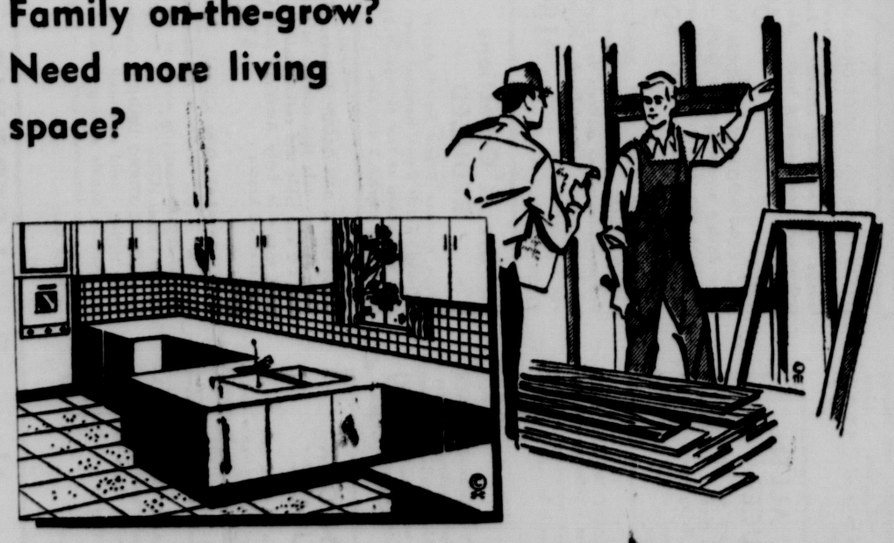

She was the sister of Eugene Shows, Mrs. Bertha McCrary and Mrs. Mary Griggs, all of Monroe.

Mrs. Walker was a member of Sweet Water Baptist Church and lifelong resident of Jackson Parish.

Other survivors include two sons, Hugie Walker and Alvin Walker, both of Jonesboro; four daughter, Mrs. Mattie Rasbury and Mrs. Ella McCalla, both of Quitman, Mrs. Eva Shows, Jonesboro and Mrs. G. T. Crawley, Lindale, Tex.; 29 grandchildren and a number of great - grandchildren.

The body will lie in state at the funeral home until shortly before time for services.

Top Literary Participants Are Reported

RUSTON (Special) — Winners of the All-Campus Literary contest at Louisiana Tech have been announced by Dr. Frances Fletcher, a member of the English faculty here.

The contest was divided into three categories.

In the short story division, judged by Miss Kathleen Graham of Ruston, Joyce Holland of Arcadia placed first with her story, "The Lonely Bull." David Friedman of New Orleans was second with "It's Always Like That."

Doris Jiles of Ruston placed first in the feature writing category with her feature, "Beyond the Call of Duty." John Carroll of Woodside, N.Y., placed second with "World Capital."

The poetry division was judged by Mrs. A. W. Lazarus, Mrs. J. W. Lipscomb and Mrs. Fred H. May, Jr., all of Ruston. Placing first was Peggy Huhn of Shreveport with her poem, "Haiku and Tanka in the Afternoon." Marvin Jones of Monroe, "Between Dusk and Dawn," and Dennis Fritzinger of Bossier City, "Prairie America," tied for second place. In third place was Jerry Shidal of Barksdale AFB with his poem, "Thought: 1." Marvin Jones placed fourth with his poem, "From Petrarch to Freud."

Charles Holland of Arcadia won first honorable mention with, "At the End of the Road." Second honorable mention went to Hopkins Nims of Shreveport with "The Golden Crown: Advice to a Friend." There was a tie for third honorable mention with W. L. Grafton of Ruston with "The Lady" and Bobby McElroy of West Monroe with his poem, "Disquistion on a Fraternity Calendar Girl," vying for the honor.

Award Is Given Junior At Tech

RUSTON (Special) — Dorothy Tannehill of Tullos, a junior in medical technology at Louisiana Tech, has received a $600 National Science Foundation undergraduate research participation award at Michigan State University for laboratory study June 12 to Aug. 7.

Dr. Roland Abegg, head of the zoology department at Tech, said Miss Tannehill will do her research in the biochemistry department at the Michigan institution.

SELECTED as "Colonel L. C." and "Darling of L. C." respectively, were A. David Evans of Minden and Patricia Ann Holloway of Sterlington. Both are seniors at Louisiana College, Pineville.

PATRICIA ANN HOLLOWAY

Sterlington Girl Gains New Honor

PINEVILLE (Special) — Two seniors, A. David Evans, 22-year-old history major from Minden, and Patricia Ann Holloway, 21-year-old elementary education major from Sterlington, climaxed noted careers at Louisiana College by being chosen the 1963 "Colonel L.C." and "Darling of L.C."

Announcement was made by James K. McNair, Jonesville senoir and editor of the Pine Knot, college annual, which sponsors the popularity context each year.

The "Colonel L.C." and "Darling of L.C." contest, which is decided by popular vote of the student body, is equivalent to the former "Mr. L.C." and "L.C. Sweetheart" titles. These are considered the most signal honors that can come to a Louisiana College student.

At Louisiana College, the '63 Colonel honor is one of many won by Evans. He has served in various student offices during his college career, including presidents of the freshman class, vice presdient of the student congress, and has just recently completed his year as president of the student congress.

Miss Holloway is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Holloway of Davis Ave., Sterlington, and is a 1960 graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, Monroe.

As a freshman, she served in the Student Congress and was a member of the Cadmian Social Society. Then as a junior, she was selected "Miss Louisiana College" in the school's annual Beauty Pageant and was a finalist in the "Miss Louisiana" pageant held last summer at Lake Providence.

The brunette beauty was also selected L.C.'s 1962 Homecoming Queen and was picked as one of the 12 local students in the current edition of "Who's Who."

In addition, Pat served during 1962-63 as president of the Booster club, outstanding women's service organization. The elementary education major was also presented the school's "Most Outstanding Student Award" at the fall-semester Kickoff Banquet last September.

A candidate for a B.A. in education degree this spring, the Sterlington senior plans to teach school next year.

The current "Colonel L.C." and "Darling of L.C." will be featured in the 1963 Pine Knot, which will appear next fall.

Formation Of Rights Party Cited

COLUMBIA (Special) — A States Rights Party has been organized in Caldwell Parish and a parish executive committee formed.

A. R. Grant Jr. of Columbia was selected by ward representatives as chairman. Mrs. Ernestine Grant was chosen secretary - treasurer.

The committee will administer primary elections of the party on the parish and ward level.

The group expects to enter a candidate for state office from Caldwell Parish.

E. Otis Edgerton Jr. of Alexandria, chairman of the state central committee, assisted in organizational details.

Housley Jr., Edward Lawrence Johansson, Jack Francis Knapp, James Jonathan Myers, James Michael New, William Kendall Poole, Larry Wayne Richardson, Herman Edgar Storey, Wesley Salvador Saia, Elmer Martin Wallace and John Edward Watts.

Construction Contract Given

NATCHEZ, Miss. (Special) — The Adams County Board of Supervisors has awarded a $169,514.-05 contract to T. P. Groome Construction Company of Fayette, Miss., for construction of a new steel and concrete bridge.

The new span will be located on the Foster Mound Road at Foster's Mound, spanning St. Catherine Creek.

ABOUT CIVIL WAR

Tech Professor Author Of Book

RUSTON (Special) — John D. Winters, professor of history at Louisiana Tech, has written a detailed 539-page history entitled "The Civil War in Louisiana," which has just been published by the Louisiana State University Press.

The study is based upon years or research that included exhaustive study of primary sources.

The L.S.U. Press in its "Books for Spring, 1963" writes of Winters' new volume as follows:

"This is the book students and scholars have been waiting for: a comprehensive one-volume history of the Civil War in Louisiana, destined to take its place as a standard reference work. Here also is a book for the general reader: an exciting account of one state's part in the most tragic period in American history.

"No one who reads Professor Winters' work will underestimate that part. It was in Louisiana that the Confederacy lost its largest city, and the fall of New Orleans was a crucial one. It was in Louisiana that the South lost its last bid for control of the the besieged garrison at Port Hudson only days after Bicksburg fell cut the Confederacy's single lifeline to the West. It was in Louisiana that the last armies fought on, there that the last hope of victory died in June of 1865.

" 'The Civil War in Louisiana' covers the war from the first talk of secession to the last tragic scenes. Here are the battles — the great river engagement in which Farragut's fleet shelled its way past Forts Jackson and St. Philip, the Confederate attack on Union forces holding Baton Rouge, the war in the Teche country, the burning of Alexandria, the battles of Mansfield and Pleasant Hill.

"Here, too, are the men, the players at this game of war— Edmund Kirby Smith, Dick Taylor, the general called 'Beast,' and a wounded soldier named Henry Watkins Allen, who served as governor. This is a book every Louisianaian will want to read."

T. Harry Williams, Boyd professor of history and a leading authority on the Civil War. in his preface to Winters work, states:

"It is this need for a wider book, a martial book, that Winters has tried to meet. Surely any reader of these pages will affirm that the author has come up to his mark. Professor Winters has researched widely and deeply, in scattered and sometimes fugitive sources, and he has produced a fuller story of Louisiana in the Civil War than has ever been before told. He spreads out a full story but not a mere accumulation of facts. He has written his narrative with sympathy and humor and interest and always with objective restraint. It is a work that should stand for many years as authoritative in its field."

Publication Will Include Sandoz Essay

RUSTON (Special) — Ellis Sandoz, assistant professor of political science at Louisiana Tech, has written an essay which will appear in the July issue of Social Research, an international quarterly of the social sciences.

The article is entitled "Myth and Society in the Philosophy of Bergson."

Sandoz, who received his master of arts degree at Louisiana State University, has studied at the University of North Carolina, Georgetown University, and University of Heidelberg and the University of Munich.

Upon his return from the University of Munich in 1959, Sandoz joined the Tech faculty and since then has had published several articles in professional journals.

Equipment Bids Are Announced

Next Step In U.S. Space Flight Will Be Project Gemini – Due Soon

EDITOR'S NOTE — The next big step planned in America's space program is Project Gemini, a second stage in the intended flight to the moon. Here is an up to date closeup of the two-man Gemini capsule and the job it is designed to do.

By TOM PENDERGAST

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — In a paradox of industrial roar and germ-free silence, aerospace technicians who built astronaut Gordon Cooper's Mercury space craft are constructing 13 sophisticated Gemini capsules.

Space experts at McDonnell Aircraft here in St. Louis hope Project Gemini will complete the second giant step of America's manned celestial stride.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans its first Gemini test shot — an unmanned ground-to-sea ballistic flight—this year. The sleek spacecraft's first orbital flight probably will go next year, spokesmen say.

The giant McDonnell plant which built all 20 Project Mercury oneman capsules, paradoxically resembles both a clanging metal shop and a quiet hospital. Getting into the security-shrouded space 1 factory is like getting out of prison—

Perhaps most striking is the plant's "white room"—a purifying area just off the thundering assembly line. There, in controlled silence and climate, white-clothed technicians clean and sterilize every part of the Gemini capsules and assemble the spacecraft.

The white room resembles a hospital maternity ward, but these doctors tend with a physician's loving care the birth of Gemini capsules. The room sparkles. Every inch of the Gemini's 14 miles of wiring and intricate system is cleaned and wrapped in sterilized plastic.

"We have to eliminate all impurities," says general foreman Bill Watkins, "and make the spacecraft parts so clean that foreign elements can be seen only under a microscope.

"With the new fuel system the Gemini will use, elimination of minute impurities is absolutely necessary. If a piece of heavy dust or grease should clog a line it could cause an explosion."

The Gemini will use a new type propulsion system employing hypergolic propellants. These propellants—a fuel and an oxidizer—are stored seperately in pressurized tanks and brought together in thrust chambers. No catalyst or spark is required; they ignite on contact with each other.

The thrust chambers are positioned to permit attitude control as we are maneuvering in orbit.

Another new feature in Gemini is the method by which electrical power is generated. While Mercury spacecraft depended on heavy batteries, Gemini obtains its electrical power from a chemical fuel cell—hydrogen and oxygen gas separated by an ion exchange membrane—which saves considerable weight over batteries.

Hydrogen ions migrate through the membrane and combine with the oxygen to form electricity, water and waste heat. The waste heat is expelled into space, but the water is so pure astronauts can drink it.

The Gemini's hypergolic fuel replaces hydrogen peroxide used by Mercury to control pitch, roll and yaw. Officials say the hydrogen peroxide had a tendency to corrode, while the new fuel will not.

It is designed to remain in orbit up to two weeks, and to rendezvous with another space vehicle—much like a plane refueling in the air. It also is designed to make a controlled glide after re-entry into the earth's atmosphere through use of a kite-like para-wing.

And, it will land on the ground on skids—similar to the X-15 rocket—and at a speed comparable to that of a light plane.

The Gemini, which will orbit at 17,500 m.p.h. after a boost into space by a Titan II rocket, has about 50 per cent more cabin space than the Mercury. It is about twice as large, standing 12 feet high with a base of 7½ feet.

Each of its two astronauts will look forward through windows over its nose, much like pilots of conventional aircraft.

The capsule rests atop two other parts designed to keep it in space two weeks—a retrograde ring nestled just beneath the spacecraft containing retrorockets for re-entry; and an equipment section attached below it housing electronic and fuel systems not required during the re-entry.

The basic communication equipment and guidance system components are located in the re-entry vehicle, which is a self-contained unit.

The overall package is 20½ feet long.

When the spacecraft finishes its mission and is ready to return to earth, a guillotine device will sever and crimp delicate control wires and fuel lines from each of the two components.

In addition to having a radar and a computer system, the Gemini boasts a feature which scientists hope will avoid costly delays should some equipment fail to work just before liftoff.

It will use an equipment concept in which many vital systems are installed outside the pressure area where the astronauts ride. Technicians thereby could remove a faulty piece of equipment from the outside, replacing it with a new one which could permit the shot to go as scheduled.

Project Gemini, of course, is expensive McDonnell's government contracts total $456,650,000 for research and development.

Retreat Averts 'Battle Of La Vacca'

An overbearing provost marshal ran into trouble in Catahoula Parish in Reconstruction Days, when residents of the area tired of his ways. When a showdown came he and his aides retreated in time to avert a losing battle.

By E. W. PLUMMER
Correspondent

The stately W. S. Calhoun plantation home, LaVacca, is located on Highway 84 in Catahoula Parish where Old River and French Fork meet to form lower Little River. This inviting home with its lovely gardens and spreading live oak trees impresses one with its atmosphere of quietude and peace.

But the tranquility that now pervades LaVacca is a far cry from the time in Reconstruction days when a troop of ex-Confederate soldiers, armed to the teeth and "with blood in their eyes", chased a band of carpetbaggers who were running feverishly for LaVacca Ferry where they hoped to elude their pursuers who would hang them to the nearest cottonwood tree.

TIME SHORT

They reached the ferry a scant 10 minutes ahead of their would - be executioners, crossed French Fork, sank the ferry boat, and escaped in a cloud of dust. Thus the "Battle of LaVacca" was averted.

The posse of ex-Rebels was disappointed and furious, but it had accomplished its mission — to end forever carpetbagger rule in Catahoula Parish, which then included LaSalle.

But many events led up to this episode. The perpetrator of Catahoula's reign of terror was a slinking man with the highsounding title of "provost marshal" with headquarters at Harrisonburg, the parish seat.

This opponent of the south and its way of life, whose rule was backed up by the army, took de- The marshal and his bodyguard must go, and they quickly made plans for their departure.

The ex-Confederate soldiers of the entire parish held a series of secret meetings and resolved themselves into an organization known as the Knights of the White Camellia, a secret order having one of the most binding codes ever devised. They "must hang together, or they would hang separately." This organization originated in one of the southeastern states and had spread over the entire south like a prairie fire.

The Knights had found an effective way to get rid of carpetbaggers. The provost marshal and his bodyguard in each instance were given the same one warning to leave, and stay gone. It was a hangman's noose fastened on the front door of the marshal's office in the still of the night. There were no written words, but the grim symbol conveyed this message: "Leave within 24 hours, or be hanged".

GRUESOME SYMBOL

At seven o'clock one morning, an orderly found this gruesome symbol on the Catahoula marshal's office door, and delivered it to him. The blood drained from his face at the sight of it, for he understood thoroughly the message it conveyed. He knew that no marshal who failed to heed this warning ever escaped the noose. He also knew that his small garrison of soldiers was powerless to cope with the hundreds of well-armed men who were desperate for revenge.

The marshal hastily summoned his body guard and showed them this grim warning. Everyone of them knew exactly what it meant.

Plans to take their leave were considered in feverish anxiety. They would take passage on a steamer that was scheduled to arrive at Harrisonburg at five o'clock the following morning, which was two hours before their time to leave ran out.

But the steamer was late. Five o'clock came, then six o'clock and no boat arrived, nor could its siren be heard on the still morning air.

At this point the marshal panicked, order the stable boy to make ready the fastest mounts for himself and his bodyguard. They would flee to Jonesville where they hoped to intercept the late steamer and make their escape.

And haste was necessary, for sentinels had already reported seeing a hundred grim-faced Knights in the misty dawn silently inching closer and closer in. It was too late for the carpetbaggers to make a dash for Vidalia in the hope of finding a steamer there, for the Concordia Knights had been alerted to take care of them in that event.

They reached Jonesville as planned, but had only 10 minutes of their alloted time left, and no steamer had arrived. It might be several hours late.

COMPLICATIONS

To further complicate their predicament, throngs of Knights were guarding every road south, making it impossible to intercept the steamer further down Black River.

But one avenue of escape remained unguarded. They would retreat up Little River to LaVacca where they would cross French Fork by ferry boat, ford Old River at Rhineheart's Landing and head for points west.

So, the carpetbaggers made good their escape and the "Battle of LaVacca Ferry" was averted . . . by a margin of 10 minutes.

This story was told to me by my late father, a sergeant in the Confederate Army who was a participant in this chase. But, I censored the array of expletives he employed in telling the story.

THE MARSHAL and his aides waited at the river for a steamer to appear, but the boat would not arrive in time to provide a means of escape.

CROSSETT, Ark. — Two little Arkansas Travelers will be heading for Massachusetts the end of this week.

These two baby blue jays were rescued by one of the Yale School of Forestry graduate students recently when their nest came tumbling down during a pine trimming operation at the Yale Camp east of Crossett.

Jack Prescott, who understands about birds, took the two naked, squawking little orphans into his cabin, along with their nest, and began putting food in their forever - open mouths. They have thrived on milk fed with an eye-dropped, ground beef, corn, bread, and assorted other delicacies none of which included fat red worms.

Fed on a "demand" basis, the two jays have yelled loud and long at intervals of about every 2½ hours, except at night. Jack feeds them "if they wake up" at about 10 p.m., and then they generally stay quiet until around 7 a.m., when their lusty clatter brings the eye - dropped back, along with bits of well-cooked egg yolk and biscuit crumbs.

FIRST CRISIS

The first real crisis developed when the students were slated to take a tour of lumbering operations all the way into Oklahoma. Prescott, who by then had learned to live with the new sobriquet, "Mother Prescott," from his fellow students, approached Professor Herbert Winer with some hesitation. "Mr. Winer — about the birds — we'll be gone three days."

Dr. Winer asked, "Just what is their feeding schedule?" When told it was about every 2½ hours, a plan was worked out to check the little Travelers in at offices at each port of call, and throw them on the mercies of the office staff.

WARM RECEPTION

Both professor and students were touched at the warm reception the birds received everywhere they went. One thing did suffer with the travels. Jack had been training the jays to some day answer his call by whistling in a certain way whenever he fed them. There was no time to train the office personnel in this special whistle on the trip. However, he's hoping thew will get the answer-to-a-whistle idea by the time re releases them in Massachusetts next week.

Meantime, some problems have developed with the growth of the vigorous little creatures. On the trip they learned to hop out of their nest, and out of the box in which the nest was kept. One of them skated around the slick floor of the motel room so extensively that it is limping and moving with a certain amount of sluggishness.

Mother Prescott thinks that it strained a tendon. He says it is not normal for them to leave a nest until they are ready to fly, and these two, with no mama bird to restrain them, took off too soon.

SHARE RIDE

Prescott will share a ride back north next week with two other students. When asked how the other men would adjust to the two hitchhikers, Prescott said, "The birds will have to put up with the system or they don't go." He didn't say just what he would do with them if they refused to "put up with the system."

After watching Jack worry over the strained ligament, proudly note the raising of feathers along a head and little neck of one excited jay, "That's what makes jays so interesting — they have so much character," we think it is possible that if the jays "don't go," neither will Jack Prescott.

So, it is hoped that some motorist who sees a tall young man beside the road holding a cardboard box with two fledgling jays will pick him up and help those Arkansas Travelers on their way to Massachusetts.

'Magic Carpet' System

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

An organization of prime importance to the President is the White House special air mission, which transports him anywhere he wants to go, along with an astonishingly complex communications setup and a 'push button' for war if it should be needed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — John F. Kennedy, as President and Commander in Chief, enjoys the finest air travel service to be had. It's swift, it's safe, it's efficient. But a grim fellow passenger all the way is "The Button" of nuclear war.

It was just before the change in administrations that President Eisenhower demonstrated to the fascinated incoming President Kennedy that there was almost instant air service at his new house.

The two were chatting in the White House when Eisenhower mentioned it. Kennedy was a bit skeptical — until the general picked up a phone and a helicopter settled down in the back yard five minutes later.

Now, in any emergency, a word from Kennedy can bring a newer, bigger, faster, jet-powered chopper spinning down onto the south lawn to whisk him away from the White House.

SHORT NOTICE

On 30 minutes notice, a 600-mile-an-hour jet can lift him out of nearby Andrews Air Force Base.

And wherever he goes, emergency or no emergency, "The Button" goes with him — the only one that can send nuclear tipped missiles and nuclear armed bombers flashing away to attack enemy targets.

This momentous decision on nuclear attack is the President's alone. "Pushing the button" is an easy but oversimplified way of describing how he would put it into effect. And the details of the vast, complex communications system available to him are guarded and secret.

But wherever Kennedy goes, in the air, on land or at sea, a command post for the Commander in Chief is there, too. By radio, telephone or teletype it can put him in touch almost instantly with the Strategic Air Command headquarters at Omaha, Neb., with U.S. military commands around the globe, or with almost any spot on earth that can be reached by means better than tom-tom beats.

Since Kennedy is a flying President — he seldom travels more than a few miles except by air— an aerial command post always goes along, in a separate jet crammed with intricate electronic gear and a switchboard. On the ground, an armed guard is posted around the plane around the clock, as is one for Kennedy's plane.

At sea, the cruiser Northampton is an alternate national command post. It too, has elaborate communications, plus a helicopter pad, and quarters for the President and other key civilians.

At times, when the chief executive visits other countries with limited outside communications, the Northampton stands by off the coast.

On land, extra channels are available through the "talking bird." This is a four-engine piston plane converted from a former SAC tanker. It is assigned to the Air National Guard and is used also for other than presidential purposes. It could serve as a presidential command post, though. A Kennedy aide said that "it protects his capability of pushing the button."

But its main assignment with a traveling White House is to supply additional channels for ordinary messages. It has a switchboard, too, and it carries collapsible antennas that can be erected on the ground to 15 or 30 feet.

The talking bird doesn't wing along on every presidential trip. But it was used on two to Latin America. One took Kennedy to Columbia and Venezuela and the other to Costa Rica for a conference this spring with six other presidents.

Spacemen And Faith

Anyone who attempts to measure God by earthly standards and who expects to see him in space as he might see a bird or some flying object in the sky clearly reveals that he has no conception of what a Supreme Being means. If God could be found in this way he would be little, if anything, more than a magnified man. He would not be something in which human beings could place their trust.

Differences between the attitudes of United States Major L. Gordon Cooper and Soviet Major Gherman S. Titov, one of the outstanding astronauts of each of those nations, in a way illustrates the difference between a God-loving America and an official Russia which chooses to deny the existence of God. A nation which rejects God will inevitably be more cruel and merciless than one which accepts a Supreme Being because one nation is guided only by its earthly selfishness and lust and greed while the other has loftier motives and aspirations. But all of this goes further.

Dividing Line

Cooper and Titov are two of the men who have traveled farthest into the God - created universe. Their views are illustrated by the prayer said by Cooper and the atheistic statement made by Titov. In a United Press International story the two men were quoted as follows:

Cooper: "Father, thank You especially for letting me fly this flight. Thank You for the privilege of being able to be in this position; to be up in this wondrous place, seeing all of these many startling, wonderful things that You have created."

Titov: "Up to our first orbital flight by Yuri Gagarin, no god helped build our rocket. The rocket was made by our people. I don't believe in God. I believe in man, his strength, his possibilities and his reason. I saw no God or angels."

Man, having been able to fly out some hundreds of miles away from the earth's surface, thinks he has virtually accomplished miracles. As he goes farther, reaches other planets and explores a small part of the endless universe, he will think he is accomplishing new miracles — and he will be, as far as man's capabilities are concerned.

Nevertheless, we know that, except for a God-given mind that is superior to those of other earthly creatures, without a hope of God and a hereafter, man is no better and has no more hope than any other animal that roams this earth.

Two Different Views

To suggest that man can fly out a few hundred miles from earth and assert there is no God because he cannot see one is assinine. Even if man were able to fly to the limits of the universe, which he will never be able to do as an earthly creature, he would not see God as he would see a man. That will be done only when we pass from the physical realm into the spiritual because there is a dividing line which living man cannot cross.

Words voiced by Cooper were those of a free man, at liberty to say what he thinks and believes.

We must regard Titov as an automaton. He may be without faith, and probably is, but he is a product of the Russian government and knows it has avowed its belief in atheism. In his feeble way, he tried to add a little strength to the hopeless Russian philosophy.

Is Titov actually an atheist? He could not really be so stupid as to believe he had found evidence of the non-existence of God. Up there in space he was compelled to think as millions of other men have thought. He could not possibly escape the thought: "How did all this come about?" He could not possibly avoid thinking: "Is there a single, personal Creator capable of making all this vast universe?" Up there alone, he could not fail to know that, despite man's transcendingly fast development and accomplishment, he is puny compared to the Creator of the universe.

If we accomplish miracles by visiting some of the planets, how vastly greater is the God who created them? Not only Cooper and Titov but all mankind must ask that question.

Beef-Eaters And Tips

America tippers could take a tip from those in England and save money, if a statement by the Tower of London's colorful Beef-Eaters is true. These Beef-Eaters are putting up a terrific howl because England is proposing to tax their tips.

The Beef-Eaters work for $23.11 a week and one said tips for each man seldom amount to more than $2.80 a week. We'd be inclined to go along with the protest against the tax, if for no other reason than that it probably would cost as much to chase down the tax on each two bucks plus as would be obtained.

We can talk all we want to about whatever missile gap there may be between the United States and Russia but it's nothing to compare with the tip gap between this country and all other nations. Some waiters in this country would turn up their noses if they got only a $2.80 tip from a single customer. If a man makes a big-city night spot with a party of no more than four he is lucky if his bill doesn't exceed $40 — plus a 15 per cent tip/ which amounts to $6 more.

Instead of receiving salaries, waiters and waitresses in some of the larger cities pay the people they work for — for the privilege of getting those big tips.

Even if a man goes into a place that says, "No tipping allowed," he will get a darker look than an Alabama "non - violence" march if he doesn't stroke the palms of the help.

No wonder the people in the United States will stand for any kind of drain on their pocketbooks. They'd like to be rich but it is so much more fun being a sucker.

Who Is The Enemy?

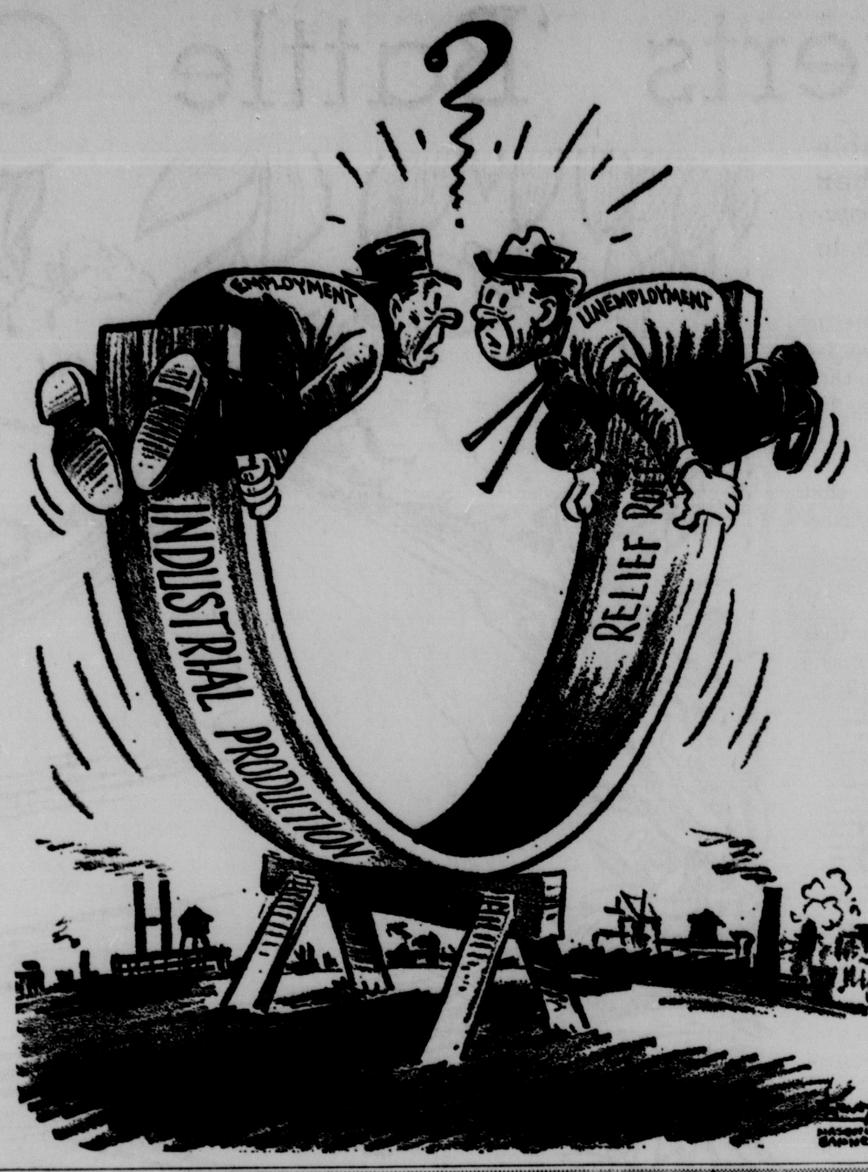

While President Kennedy talks placidly enough about the communist takeover of Cuba, amid undisputed plans for extending that takeover to the other Latin American countries, he occasionally voices some concern about the situations in South Viet Nam, the Dominican Republic, and Haiti, as if anyone in this country knew what that is all about.

A small headline on a story out of Saigon, South Viet Nam said, "40 of Enemy Killed." It took a little reading to decide which side was the enemy but it seems that Kennedy considers the communists the enemy in South Viet Nam.

Of course, that does not jibe with our action in regard to the South African country of Katanga. In that case, we provided most of the money and a large part of the arms and ammunition so that the United Nations could fight against Katanga and on the side of the communists.

We need some better way of telling who the enemy is, since it doesn't always seem to be the communists.

How's Everything On The Old See-Saw?

Views Of Our Readers

Patience And Virtue

There is no more important word in our languages than patience in its proper use with understanding.

It is by patient meditations that we grow and mature into our lives of usefulness, that we may contribute to the progress and development of society and civilization. It is through this virtue that we achieve our position as a nation and community.

Without freedom and independence, there is no incentive for an individual to think, practice, and apply these principles, meeting the challenges of necessity, for his survival. Therefore, we are born into the world to be free and independent to develop into such chosen, constitutional, social orders as our progress in civilization merits, as results of our efficient efforts.

The purpose of our Constitutional laws is founded upon these premises. Our success or failure depends upon our organized institutions and forms of governmental administrations, locally, beginning at the community base, as is outlined, and established under the laws of each state in protecting these constitutional rights, established and reserved to the states and communities, imposing upon each, separate, governing body the responsibilities of self-governing in accordance with their desired rules, based upon the customs of each separate state.

To violate any of these principles, laws and customs, long recognized, preserved, honored, and respected by any means, to gain control over the free people, in their enjoyment of these rights, is nothing less than an invasion by force and seizure of every tangible asset, destroying the independence of a freedom by military power, substituting by dictatorship, an enslavement for the people.

Patience is no longer a virtue when applied in the manner the Kennedy administration, has maneuvered it through his (or their) false promises that there would be no invasion in Alabama, that there was no Federal question involved. Two days later spilling troops into the area, violating every law of the state and United States, as well as the State of Alabama. When the Federal forces are used to destroy a State, means all states, law, is invalidated on the issue, making every citizen of America a victim of such atrocious acts.

Every informed person in America should know by now from what has, is going on, happening every day, this situation developed, on the part of our subtle repeated attacks, all over the country, in America and over most of the world in open defiance of our efforts to maintain and preserve our nation and civilization. In many places what civilization existed is replaced with another group, by which the results is no better, but worse. The basis of this movement is racial. No other base can be substituted.

Is the south going to surrender? Or are we going to increase our resistance before it is too late? Fellow Americans, are we going to wait on the politicians in Washington? Our State government needs us. Let's help them.

Letter To Passman

Pioneer, La.

To the Editor:

Please print the following letter:

Pioneer, La.

Honorable Otto E. Passman
Congressman, 5th District
Washington, D.C.

Dear Sir:

In the May 18, 1963, issue of the Monroe Morning World a statement was published by the Neal brothers of Epps stating that at no time has the Federal Government shown the courtesy of contacting the landowners involved in the creation of Poverty Point as a national Park. I wish to correct that statement and to say that we were all contacted by Mr. Harriman of the National Parks Service in relation to the value and amount of land to be purchased for the creation of the park.

I live on a 166-acre farm adjoining the Poverty Point site to the north, and the Jackson site to the south and will be required to move if the property is bought for a National Park. This farm is owned jointly by myself and Art Urness of California.

As to the statement of leaving the Jackson site out of the park to keep from displacing many families, this would only save the home of one white family.

I have lived on this property for 13 years and have seen the thousands of visitors from every State in the United States visit this historic site, and I, as a citizen of this community, would like very much to see the whole 1,400 acres in question developed into a National Park, since it would be of great financial value to all areas in Northeast Louisian.

I have talked to hundreds of local business men and citizens of this area and visitors and find at least 90 per cent are in favor of a National Park being created in West Carroll Parish.

After talking to Mr. Harriman I feel that all land owners involved will receive a fair and just price for their land and improvements. I also feel that the State of Louisiana is not able to purchase the necessary land and construct the park.

Our local Parish Representative and others before him have never been able to get a bill passed before the State to develop any part of the area.

I wish to congratulate you and the many others that are standing so firm on your belief that this project is to the best interest of the majority of all people.

Aid Policy Wrong

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

It is becoming more evident that the foreign policy being followed by the New Frontier is wrong and is leading this nation toward chaos and defeat. The men of the press, who are warning the American people of the dangers of appeasement, are to be commended. There are plenty of poeple who believe that we are losing the cold war.

Not long ago Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain pursued the policy of appeasement and took Hitler at his word, and Hitler's word, like the communists,' was not worth anything. Had it not been for Churchill coming into power the British Empire would have gone down to defeat. The American people can profit by this mistake of the British. This nation needs a president with the courage and wisdom of Churchill. He said "We will fight them (the enemy) on the beaches, in the streets, on the housetops and defend this island."

Last October Castro told the U.N. and the U.S. that he will not let an inspection team come ashore in Cuba to check on his arsenal of war. The New Frontier accepted Castro's "NO", and now after seven months apparently nothing has been said at the U.N. or planned by the executive branch of our government to correct the situation. This is the reason people call this the "Do Nothing Policy."

In March the President said that he wished that the Communists would move several thousands of soldiers out of Cuba by the end of March. This statement was made by the man who is commander-in-chief of the military forces of the U.S. and which has the greatest potential military might of any power that ever existed in all recorded history.

This nation under God was born, grew, developed and survived the darkest hours of history under the leadership of men who had a great faith in God and did not depend on wishful thinking and flowery speeches that had no meaning. They wrote the Monroe Doctrine and enforced it. Our fighting front has been beyond the Rhine at the Elbe. Recently Americans were killed by assistance of a foreign power about 90 miles from Key West.

We should not be in the U.N. sitting in the councils of a people who proudly boasts of being an ungodly people. Steps should be taken now to move this dangerous military buildup and this foreign power out of the western hemisphere. It is better to move to the brink of war now than to finally end up in a war of their choosing, and where they will have the advantages. Our foreign policy must be one of firmness without appeasement and as a result it will be one that avoids war and not one that invites war.

Urges School Action

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I am an alumnus of Ouachita High School and feel that a few remarks are in order at this time. The parish school board is making the headlines quite frequently and at times this board acts like immature people.

Last Sunday "letter to the editor" on the whole scope of the two-system education program in Ouachita opened my eyes to the prompt action and revaluation of our systems and overlapping that is sorely needed at this time.

When you see teachers underpayed and yet we have schools with ten to fifteen rooms empty for want of management, when you see buses of both systems passing down the same streets picking up their respective students, and many times these same buses are all but empty? To what waste? We taxpayers want to know why the two systems? When will the city build that high school in south Monroe? A bond was already allocated for that item. Have you forgotten?

To the parish school board I say let them forget all differences and do your job. It is odd, to say the least, to have members on the parish school board, who hold responsible posts and are articulate, and these same men send their children to the city system. I don't think such a person or persons should be elected.

Let us call a referendum and clean up shop once and for all.

It is grand news, of course, that the White House jet airliner set a new all-time world's speed record for a non-stop flight from Washington to Moscow. Of course, since only one other non - stop flight had ever been made between Washington and Moscow, the worst it could have finished was second.

Astronaut Cooper jokes that he almost decided to ignore the blinking green light which signaled automatic control failure. We've tried that system when the gasoline gauge shows "E" and don't recommend it.

Test Ban Looms

Kennedy And Khrushchev Mainly Fear Rejection By Senate

President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev are much closer to a nuclear test ban agreement than their public statements indicate.

In fact, they probably could reach an understanding without undue difficulty but for one towering obstacle—the certainty that such a treaty would encounter prolonged and bitter opposition in the Senate.

At present it is extremely doubtful whether the President could muster the two-thirds majority necessary to ratify a treaty along the lines of the draft under consideration in the White House for submission to the Soviet at the Geneva conference, that is now in recess.

Prominent in this critical group are Senator Richard Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Servicese Committee; Senator Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Senator Henry Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Interior Affairs Committee and a member of the Armed Services Committee and Joint Atomic Committee.

It is the understanding of members of the bloc that the latest draft treaty contains provisions advocated by the Russians.

Whether this record will be put up to the Soviet is still undecided.

In a recent exchange of letters, the President indicated willingness to meet Khrushchev this summer on condition that a nuclear test ban agreement would be concluded.

While Khrushchev's reply left the door open for a summit conference, he raised the question of whether any pact that could be reached could gain the acquiescence of "your Congress". The Kremlin ruler made it clear he had strong misgivings on that.

This challenge explains the speeches that lately have suddenly erupted in the Senate vigorously urging a test agreement with the Soviet, and defending the administration's efforts and proposals to reach one.

Latest of these oratorical flurries was the carefully-prepared address of Senator William Proxmire, D-Wis., in which Senators Paul Douglas, D-Ill., Joseph Clark, D-Pa., and others participated. The occasion had all the embarks of a staged demonstration.

The White House is heartily encouraging such favorable presentations for both home and foreign consumption. They are definitely designed to bolster the administration's hand in both spheres.

DETAILS OF THE PLAN—President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev have conducted an extended correspondence on the test ban issue.

This and other highly revealing details are contained in a memorandum prepared by Ambassador Charles Stelle, chief U.S. negotiator at the Geneva conference. This backstage paper is circulating among senators favoring an accord with Russia, and has been used by them as a basis for their speech-making.

Clear-cut evidence of the influence of this memorandum is to be found throughout Proxmire's prepared talk.

Among the most significant disclosures in Ambassador Stelle's memorandum is the assertion that as a result of the exchange of letters between the President and Khrushchev, "There now exists a new basis for agreement."

The memorandum gives no hint as to the contents of these letters — none of which has been made public.

But Stelle spells out in some detail the complicated inspection formulas the U.S. is prepared to offer the Soviet, and which undoubtedly were broached by the President in his correspondence with Khrushchev. That is clearly indicated by Stelle's memorandum as follows:

"There now exists a new basis for agreement on a nuclear weapons test ban arising from the exchange of letters between President Kennedy and Chairman Khrushchev. Under this basis for agreement each nuclear side would place reliance on its national detection station for the collection of seismic data, supplemented by the use of automatic seismic stations (black-boxes).

"The United Kingdom and the U.S. have indicated that, under certain conditions related to the conduct of inspection, we would accept an annual quota (the number to be negotiated) of on-site inspections in the territory of each nuclear power.

"The present position of the U.S. is strongly influenced by the concept of reciprocal inspection, in accordance with which each nuclear side plays a primary role in the arrangements concerning on-site inspection in the territory of the other."

A country would have up to 60 days from the time a seismic event occurred to designate it as an event "which it may later wish to inspect". The country whose territory would be inspected would have a week to volunteer any data on the suspected seismic event.

The government asking for the inspection could, during the same week, receive and examine data collected in the sealed boxes of automatic seismic stations on the territory of the country to be inspected. The U.S. wants eight such automatic seismic stations; Russia so far has held adamantly to not more than three.

The country seeking the inspection would have an additional week to analyze the collected data and indicate whether it wished to continue the on-site inspection. Unless such notice is given, the suspected event would no longer be eligible for inspection.

Exactly what kind of a threat does the Soviet satellite Cuba pose today in the Western Hemisphere?

This question has been answered in many ways and by many people over the past several months. Cuban exiles and others of private groups have claimed that the threat is great and growing. Government officials, speaking in terms of the isolation of Cuba, have generally tended to minimize the threat.

Recently, Washington received the findings of an official Senate investigating group — the Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee headed by Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.). This group, on which I have the privilege to serve, received testimony in executive session from a large number of witnesses, including John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency; Lt. Gen. Joseph F. Carroll, director of the Defense Intelligence Agency; Maj. Gen. Alva R. Fitch, assistant chief of staff for Intelligence, U. S. Army; Rear Odm Vernon L. Lowrance, director of Naval Intelligence; and Maj. Gen. Robert A. Breitweiser, assistant chief of staff for Intelligence, U. S. Air Force.

After listening to these officials and conducting staff studies of its own, the Senate group arrived at the unmistakable conclusion that the situation in Cuba poses a formidable threat to this entire part of the world.

HERE IS THE WAY THE subcommittee report summarizes the threat arising from the Soviet presence in Cuba:

"1. Cuba is an advanced Soviet base for subversive, revolutionary and agitational activities in the Western Hemisphere and affords the opportunity to export agents, funds, arms, ammunition and propaganda throughout Latin America.

"2. Assuming without deciding that all strategic weapons have been withdrawn, there is the ever-present possibility of the stealthy reintroduction of strategic missiles and other offensive weapons, using the forces still in Cuba as camouflage and security for the activity.

"3. Cuba serves as an advance intelligence base for the U.S.S.R.

"5. The vital Panama Canal could be the target for sneak raids originating from Cuba.

"6. POTENTIALLY, CUBA is a base from which the Soviets could interdict our vital air and sea lanes. It can now be used for the air, sea and electronic surveillance of our military activities in the Southeast United States and the Caribbean.

"7. Cuba's airfields could serve as recovery air bases for planes launched against the United States from the Soviet Union.

"8. Advanced Soviet submarine bases could be established in Cuban ports with very little effort.

"10. Cuba provides a base for the training of agents from other Latin-American countries in subversive, revolutionary, agitational and sabotage techniques.

"11. The very presence of the Soviets in Cuba affects adversely our nation's image and prestige. Our friends abroad will understandably doubt our ability to meet and defeat the forces of communism thousands of miles across the ocean if we prove unable to cope with the Communist threat at our very doorstep.

Alabama Invasion Next?

As of now there's every indication that the tense drama from last year's desegregation fight in Mississippi will be restaged in neighboring Alabama next month.

Alabama's Gov. George Wallace, a vigorous segregationist, announced emphatically the past week that he personally would bar the entrance of any Negro who tries to enroll at the University of Alabama.

His fiery announcement came after the way was opened by federal court for the enrollment of Vivian J. Malone at Alabama's main campus in Tuscaloosa and Dave M. McClathery at the Huntsville campus. Wallace says he will go to jail before he will permit the two Negroes to enroll.

BARNETT

Gov. Ross Barnett personally turned back James H. Meredith and his protecting marshals at Oxford, Mississippi last year, but eventually President Kennedy sent in a 30-thousand Army force which forced Mississippi to allow Meredith to attend the University of Mississippi. Varying charges are pending against Barnett at present.

The President, who seems to like the idea of playing commander-in-chief in the U. S., but not against Cuba, has made it clear he will use U. S. troops and marshals if needed next month to enroll the two Negroes in Alabama. However, he claimed at his press conference the past week that he hoped Gov. Wallace would back away from the threatened federal-state collision by heeding court orders to integrate the school. Said Kennedy — "the courts have made a final judgment on the matter and I hope the people of Alabama will follow the judgement of the court. I hope it will not be necessary to send force into Alabama."

At any rate, the stage is being set for a showdown.

The Birmingham Situation

MEANWHILE, the results of the Birmingham riots and demonstrations were still being felt.

Alabama Gov. Wallace has challenged in the U. S. Supreme Court the right of President Kennedy to send troops into the Birmingham area during the trouble. In quick action, Kennedy sent 3,000 U. S. troops into Alabama during the rioting, although no federal laws were being violated and no court ruling was at stake. It is on this basis that Wallace filed his suit.

At the same time, Senator John Stennis of Mississippi sliced to the heart of the matter when he said that if Kennedy has the power he claims he has for having sent federal troops to Birmingham, "then no state and no city in the country is safe from the threat of military rule at the whim of a chief executive. The President's action, Stennis said, "raises a constitutional question of grave proportions" and is an example of how states rights and privileges are being usurped by federal authorities. Stennis said there was no abandonment of their functions by the local police; that on the contrary, local police officers and state troopers were in control and functioning fully and effectively."

Then he added—"thus, the President apparently believes that there has been an unlimited and unrestrained delegation of authority to him to call forth federal military forces to supercede and replace local law enforcement agencies whenever he sees fit—even before there has been a violation of federal law or a defiance of federal court decree . . ."

MEANWHILE, Kennedy has been described as believing he is dealing with a man in Wallace who hopes to take the South away from him in 1964 through unpledged electors.

Ironically, it was the solid South that provided the slim margin for Kennedy's questionable victory last time.

Ruling Only For Negroes

No ruling against a Negro seems to stand up in federal court. Last Wednesday at Birmingham, Federal Judge Clarence W. Allgood refused to order reinstatement of more than 1,000 Negro pupils suspended for cutting classes to march in protest to segregation which touched off riots in which Negroes "ran wild."

ALLGOOD

In his ruling, the judge said he "was shocked to see hundreds of school children ranging in age from 6 to 16 running loose and wild without direction over the streets of Birmingham and in business establishments." Then he added, "this court cannot conceive of a federal court saying to the board of education made up of honorable, courageous and dedicated men that they should take no action under the circumstances and that the children who deliberately failed to attend school for several days should not in any way be punished or penalized."

Negro attorneys immediately went to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals to seek a reversal of the ruling. And they won. In ruling in their favor, Chief Judge Elbert P. Tuttle said that "irreparable injury" could result to the children unless action was taken pending an appeal."

Racial Side Issues

The United Presbyterian Church in the USA has launched a special task force, equipped with men and money, to get on the "firing line in the fight against racial discrimination."

The denomination's governing assembly declared — in setting the new program — "the time has come to act with boldness and purposeful courage that matches the eloquence of our words." Funds totaling half a million dollars were allocated to support the new operational force, called the Commission on Religion and Race."

At the same time, the assembly, representing 3.25 million member Presbyterians across the country, plunged into debate on several other issues. Among other things, it opposed Bible reading, prayers and religious - holiday activities in the public schools, Sunday closing laws, tax exemptions for churches and direct government aid to parochial schools.

MEANWHILE, at Englewood, N. J., Negro parents sent 34 unregistered pupils into the predominantly white Cleveland Elementary School and demanded that the children be allowed to take part in classroom activities. School officials have permitted the students to enter the school but have not recognized them as students there. So far they have not been issued text books.

And, finally, the Supreme Court has momentarily removed the sting from Southern sit-in convictions, but the great issue posed by the cases remain undecided. It is: Does a business establishment open to the general public have a right to choose its own customers?

In its ruling, the court overturned the convictions on the grounds that local governments — not storekeepers — were actually to blame for the racial discrimination. The ruling claimed the local laws and edicts had deprived businessmen of their freedom of choice as to who could be served on their premises.

Week's Domestic Highlights

SENATOR Abraham A. Ribicoff has offered a program featuring limited aid to private schools and tax deductions as his solution to the thorny religious issue involved in the battle over federal aid to church schools and nonreligious purposes. He also proposed tax deductions of up to $1,500 a year to cover the expenses of students at private and public colleges and universities and up to $100 for private grade and high school students . . .

THE SENATE the past week voted ratification of the international coffee agreement to stabilize coffee prices in the world market. The proposal is designed to eliminate the wide fluctuations in coffee trading which have marked trading since the end of World War II . . .

PROSPECTS for a cotton bill designed to end the existing two-price system for that crop took a downward dip in Congress the past week. The sharply divided House Agriculture Committee bogged down again in efforts to draft an acceptable measure and adjourned without completing action on the bill after Republicans, with some Democratic help, succeeded in writing into it a provisio that the proposed domestic subsidy be paid directly to cotton growers, rather than cotton handlers . . .

HOUSE SPEAKER John W. McCormick believes President Kennedy's legislation for health care for the aged stands a good chance of enactment by next year. Said McCormick — "We are close to having a majority in the Ways and Means Committee. The legislation has been bottled up in that committee in the House . . .

SENATORS were told the past week that unemployment will continue to rise during the 1960s unless new methods are found for curbing it. Robert Theobald, economic consultant and author, said neither the administration's proposals for stimulating the economy nor the AFL-CIO's request for a shorter workweek would reduce the number of jobless . . .

ON TUESDAY, the stock market made its best gain in about seven weeks . . .

A BUILDING of business inventories and higher government spending were dominant factors in an $8-billion expansion of the economy in the first quarter of this year, compared with the last quarter of 1962. This well-received report was given out by the Department of Commerce which said the gross national product increased to an annual rate of $572 billion in the first three months of this year . . .

SO FAR, Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia says he has not decided what stand to take on President Kennedy's stopgap proposal to raise the national debt ceiling to $309 billion. Byrd, a staunch economy advocate, said he was "very doubtful" about another hike of the debt limit, but had not decided whether to oppose it . . .

THE NATIONAL Congress of Parents and Teachers is up in the air over what one official called the "smokewashing" of teenagers by glamorized tobacco advertising. The congress, in its annual convention at Miami Beach, voted to step up its efforts against teenage smoking and to invite representatives of the tobacco and advertising industries to an exchange of views . . .

AND SPEAKING of children, President Kennedy, who seems able to talk a good talk on about any subject brought up, had something to say about spanking. He doesn't believe, he said in spanking children at school and believes "very strong" discipline at home would make it unnecessary. His statement came after the House had passed a bill to authorize "reasonable force" to keep order in District of Columbia classrooms where overwhelming numbers of Negro students have made some of the schools a blackboard jungle. Said Kennedy — "We are rather reluctant to see other people administering punishment to our own children" and this "puts a special obligation on us to maintain order and to send children out from our homes who accept the idea of discipline." That is a good idea if it would work—but most authorities say parents aren't at home long enough themselves to dicipline their children . . .

KENNEDY

THE NATION'S wheat farmers slapped the President down the past week when they rejected overwhelmingly his crop control program. Republicans were jubilant and hailed the massive rejection by farmers of the President's wheat control plan. Kennedy said that rejection of the program means lower farm prices and more grain surpluses, and predicted the farmers might be singing a different tune next year. Republicans called the defeat a "bright day for us." This resounding vote, plus integration problems, could spell trouble for Mr. Kennedy in his reelection bid . . .

SUGAR PRICES continued to soar the past week, in what eventually could mean and end to the five-cent candy bar. The price on sugar has increased 14 times this year, and at last check the general price was 70 cents for a five-pound bag. Rep. Lenor K. Sullivan has announced that a House Banking subcommittee she heads will open hearings into the sugar price increases early next month . . .

The Tango Roundup

Cuba — the onetime tango capital of the world — isn't anymore — except for Russians. Refugees to this nation charge that Russians are living in comfort, having fun with plenty to eat while Cubans are suffering privations under the Castro Communist rule.

Some told of being robbed with impunity by men in the uniform of Castro's military, and of tightening their own belts while the families of Soviets in Cuba ate well.

"The Russians live like in paradise with plenty of food and transportation," said one refugee, Maria Ruiz. "The Cubans have little of either." Said another — "You can see Russians with big smiles going to the beaches and they say, 'We like Cuba very much, we won't ever leave.'"

Meanwhile, the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights reports that ancient, rat-infested dungeons and isolated concentration camps are being used to confine political prisoners in Cuba. Use of the dungeons in castles built in the days of Spanish rule is only one aspect of the increasingly harsh lot of political prisoners in Cuba, the report said.

And in Moscow, Soviet Premier Khrushchev, addressing a huge farewell meeting for Castro, warned that the situation in the Caribbean carries possibilities of becoming worse than last October when he was caught with his pants down in the missile deal. He warned, as he has before, that the Soviet Union would defend Cuba if the U. S. should attack it.

A Foreign Review

FRANCOIS DUVALIER —Despite mounting opposition — staged his second inauguration as president Wednesday in ceremonies bristling wtih guns of his security men. From a secret hideout, his chief rival, Clement Barbot, vowed anew to oust him. Ironically, Barbot, the most hunted man in Haiti, had organized the dreaded militia which protected Duvalier at the ceremonies. But he later broke with the president and now heads the underground opposition. Meanwhile, Latin-American diplomats express misgivings about the Kennedy administration's move in calling home U. S. Ambassador Raymond L. Thurston. The U.S. already has snubbed Duvalier and the recalling of Thurston indicates an even chillier attitude . . .

THE SOVIET Union has proposed to the U. S. that nuclear weapons be banned from the Mediterranean Sea. The proposal purported to be aimed at obtaining the withdrawal of U. S. Polaris submarines, but U. S. officials believe the Soviets are trying to stir up some new trouble over the nuclear arming of NATO Countries, which met the past week in Ottawa, Canada. At that conference, the NATO council of ministers set forth a four-point program to beef up the nuclear power . . .

ALSO IN Canada, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson has successfully passed the first test of his liberal government on its pledge to acquire nuclear warheads for Canada. The House of Commons voted 124-113 against a non-confidence motion by opponents of Pearson's month-old government . . .

IN THE LAND of the flutes and dancing girls — Turkey — The government has announced it has crushed another attempted revolt which broke out in Ankara and Istanbul. The government announced that the rebellion was led by former Col. Talat Aydemir; that he had been captured and would be tried. . .

LIFE'S BRIGHTER moments: The Twist, frowned upon in some Communist nations as a product of Western decadence, has been officially recommended to elderly Hungarians with rheumatism. Said the Communist party daily Zalai Hirlap: "The Twist is not only animating, but also has a healing effect. Doctors recommend it because it loosens the muscles and prompts the process of healing." . . .

THE U. S. main trading partners have given the green light to a new program of tariff slashes. A far-reaching compromise between the U. S. and the European Common Market — the world's two major economic units — ended the threat of an economic split among the non-communist world. A conference source paid special tribute to West German Economic Minister Ludwig Erhard as the architect of the final agreement. .

AND IN NEW York, Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has called on Americans to make fewer demands on their government and to participate more in it. Saying that there is a "seemingly widespread deterioration in our moral strength," Eisenhower added: "We seem to be losing our capacity to bear our own responsibilities unflinchingly: that is to stand solidly for what we know in our hearts to be right, decent and fair and important to the nation's future." He called on individual citizens to make their influence felt through schools, business, civic groups and political parties.

TFX Peace Sought

TOP KENNEDY brass are said to be looking for a graceful solution for their TFX trouble with old friend Senator John McClellan, who hasn't been too friendly on this particular issue. These leaders from the President down, the reports say, all worked either with McClellan or for him and know the Senator's case against the TFX decision will get tighter, and more embarrassing to them, in the coming weeks.

Although the inquiry is directed toward the McNamara-Gilpatric decision, it will increasingly reflect on Kennedy, and his political aides know it.

One witness, for instance, was reporter Seth Kantor of the Scripps - Howard papers, who told the Committee under questioning about his story printed one month before the decision was announced in which he said without qualification that General Dynamics of Texas would get the contract. He did not reveal his source except to identify him as a top administration official who would not permit him to use his name before the Committee.

McClellan did not force the issue with the reporter, but is expected to ask the unnamed official (outside the Pentagon) to come forward voluntarily to clear up how he knew so far in advance — even before the Pentagon source selection board made its final decision for the Boeing Company—that McNamara and his top aides would decide for General Dynamics.

Top Local, State Headlines

ON THURSDAY, the Louisiana House passed 62-2 a resolution denouncing what it labeled a threat of "government by bayonets" in action by President Kennedy in Alabama. The resolution said "It appears the military might of the U. S. is about to be invoked to suppress constitutional rights of the sovereign state of Alabama, just as bayonets, tear gas and military might were used to suppress the constitutional sovereignty of Mississippi." . . .

ALSO IN THE legislature, a bill calling for unpledged electors will be voted on this coming week. The bill is sponsored by conservative - segregation elements in the House. About 30 lawmakers signed the bill for introduction. Its chief sponsors, including Rep. John Garrett, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, are confident that they have enough support for passage. Victor Bussie, president of the Louisiana AFL-CIO, is lobbying against the measure . . .

THE AMERICAN LEGION has announced that its 1963 convention will not be held in New Orleans as scheduled because of the city's segregated housing accommodations. National Commander James E. Powers of Macon, Ga., said the New Orleans chapter of the Legion had withdrawn its invitation after finding that it could not arrange for nonsegregated accommodations for white and Negro members . . .

A PREDAWN fire Thursday destroyed the Monroe Packing Company plant on Highway 80 outside West Monroe. Losses were estimated at $125,000.

AT A MEETING of the Ouachita Parish School Board the past week, C. G. Drennan resigned as president of the board. Robert Rhone of Ward Five was elected to succeed him and Dr. Henry Hammonds was elected vice president. On resigning, Drennan issued a statement in effect calling for a system under which the City of Monroe would transport and educate all children within the city limits and the parish board all those living outside the city limits. "It's time," Drennan said, "that we eliminate this dual system that is now in existence. It is not fair to the taxpayers and to the children . . ."

Great Game Continues In Afghanistan

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — The players have changed but The Great Game continues to swirl around this rugged kingdom.

In some ways, it is like the Afghan national game, buzkashi. Two teams of horsemen struggle to carry a sheep's head around a goal in buzkashi, a game that originated before Alexander the Great marched through this area.

The great game started later. It was the name given to the 19th Century struggle between Czarist Russia and British India to dominate Afghanistan.

Today the players are Communist Russia and the West, primarily the United States and secondarily West Germany.

Each side says it supports Afghanistan's policy of neutrality but each suspects the other of wanting to subvert it. Afghanistan has proudly retained its freedom despite strong pressures in the past. There is no sign now that the Afghan's craggy spirit of independence has been weakened by the cold war.

For a while in the late 1950s it looked as if Afghanistan were falling under the control of Russia, its neighbor to the north.

After a visit here in 1955 by the B&K team of Communist salesmen, Bulganin and Khrushchev, Russian aid began to pour into development projects with eye appeal and therefore high propaganda value. American aid was going to long-term projects in remote, unnoticed parts of this Texas-size land.

Afghanistan asked Washington for arms to modernize its army. The United States was allied to Pakistan, successor to British India on the bullet-scarred Northwest Frontier facing Afghanistan, and the Pakistanis and Afghans had a running feud. So Washington refused.

Prime Minister Mohammad Daoud turned to Moscow and got tanks, jet fighters and other equipment.

The total American aid commitment now is $252 million. Russian economic aid is probably about this but arms aid pushes the Soviet total over $500 million.

Things have not gone smoothly for the Russians.

The bloom is off their first projects and they have gotten bogged down in the same sort of unglamorous development programs that the Americans and Germans are carrying out. Russian weapons were so poorly maintained that Moscow had virtually to impose a military mission on Afghanistan in 1961 to try to insure that the weapons did not all rust away.

Some officers are going to Russia for military training but inside Afghanistan the educational system is oriented toward the West. English has become the third language after two local ones, Pushtu and Persian. Few people are learning Russian.

The Russians are trying to get a foothold in education, one of the most important fields of American aid with limited German and French help also. Moscow seems worried that the rising young educated group of Afghans is absorbing Western ideas.

STRIKE GOES ON

Prime Minister Of British Guiana, Workers Deadlock

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — For five weeks British Guiana has brooded in a spooky, tense, shuttered calm of bitter deadlock between the Marxist Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan and 40,000 workers idled in a general strike.

Last week negotiators reported a possible compromise agreement between union leaders and government on the disputed labor relations bill. But the strike could go on while they argued over pay and no-victimization terms, for the return to work.

FIVE WEEKS

For five weeks every day has been like Sunday. Sugar mills, bauxite mines, the docks, the railroad and airports were shut down in this steaming British colony on the northeast coast of South America. Few walked or cycled in the streets where office buildings and shops were shuttered.

Sugar, in a country that exports 300,000 tons yearly; flour, salt, bread, cigarettes, matches and gasoline were scarce and running out. Jagan's government had failed to break the strike with emergency powers.

Strikers maintained a peaceful resistance with extraordinary discipline where six persons were killed in rioting against the government in February 1962. Their leaders in the Trade Union Council urged them to refrain from violence that might deprive them of victory; it broke a similar strike last year.

But there were a few demonstrations squelched with tear gas at Freedom House, headquarters of the People's Progressive party, which Jagan and his U.S.-born wife run. Tension was mounting. Worse disorders were feared. British troops stood by and more were ready to come to support the government and keep order.

The TUC called the strike over a labor bill which it said would give Jagan's government power to determine which bargaining unions the employers should recognize. His foes suspected he sought control over labor in a move toward a Castro-like dictatorship they said he would impose if British Guiana gained independence under his rule.

The TUC wanted Jagan either to withdraw the bill or accept safeguards for independent representation on the proposed labor relations board. Opposition politicians wanted Jagan to resign. The U.S.-educated, 45-year-old dentist of East Indian origin refused to quit office. But in midweek he was reported bowing to labor's demands for amendments to his bill.

Jagan had said the strike was meant to topple him. TUC President Richard Ishmael and opposition political leaders denied this.

"We don't want to overthrow the government," Ishmael said. "We only want an honorable settlement."

DRAGS ON

As the strike dragged on, Jagan wore a worried look. His attention wandered in conversation. Opposition leaders said he was not eating or sleeping.

"The only thing we can do is keep up the pressure until Jagan cracks and hands over his authority to the British," said an opposition chief.

"No responsible government abdicates its authority," Jagan asserted.

Neither of the two main opposition leaders, Forbes Burnham and Peter d'Aguir, wanted Jagan ousted by a British suspension of Guiana's constitution and an election called. That was what happened 10 years ago when Jagan first was elected to power and subsequently won the next two elections. His foes feared a repetition of the 1953 fiasco would return Jagan to the premiership. what they wanted was for him to quit. They thought this would break his winning streak.

Racial distrust between East Indians and Negroes disturbed labor negotiators. Racial fears aroused in Guiana's elections have led to rioting. East Indians, dominant among the colony's 600,000 inhabitants, have backed Jagan. Negroes, who predominate in Georgetown, back Burnham, 40, Socialistic lawyer.

D'Aguiar, 50, a beer, rum and soft drink magnate of Portuguese ancestry, represents the anti-Communist business community.

The strike has been costly. One employers' association estimated the country was losing over a million dollars weekly.

BOOKS

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Exciting Array Of Volumes Out

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

This week offers an exciting collection of new books for the patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. The field of fiction offers a variety of material. "No Castanets" by Caryl Brahms is a lively and witty treatment of the exodus of the Portugese Royal family to Brazil during the period when Napoleon was overrunning Europe. This is a different subject and will attract many readers. A spoof on the Civil War is "An End to Bugling" by Edmund G. Love. In this book General Stuart and his Cavalry return to the scene of the Battle of Gettysburg and the confusing effect this had on modern life. "Massacre at Tangini" by Robert Lait is a frightening and realistic novel of what has happened in many places in Africa, where independence was given before the people were really ready for it.

Readers of mystery stories complain that we don't get enough new ones, although they are constantly being added. This week there are several new titles in this class. "The Fifth Passenger" by Edward Young is a sophisticated story of international intrigue, which will hold the attention of the reader. "Murder By The Book" is the title of the latest adventure of the Norths, written by Frances and Richard Lockridge. It has its setting in Florida and provides interesting entertainment. "A Little Less Than Kind" by Charlotte Armstrong involves the Hamlet theme and modern psychiatry to write a very good modern day mystery.

Two more novels deserve mention. One is "Dudley There Is No Tomorrow" written by Shepherd Mead. This is a strange story involving the society set of Long Island, but it is certain to be discussed. "The Drums of April" by Charles Mergendahl is another historical novel of the American Revolution and will interest those who like this type of book.

This week again offers two new religious books "For A Deeper Life" by Grace A. Dawson is an excellent discussion of the spiritual life and the value of prayer. "Wounded Spirits" by Leslie D. Weatherhead discusses the connection between medicine and religion. Gardeners will welcome "The Concise Encyclopedia of Favorite Flowering Shrubs" by Marjorie Dietz. This book contains a selection of one hundred flowering shrubs selected for contemporary home gardens. It is a valuable book as well as an attractive one.

Builders and architects will want to see a new volume recently published by the Architectural Record called "Stores and Shopping Centers." The art of China painting is a very lovely one and a new book in this field is always eagerly received, because there are several people in this community whose hobby it is. The latest one is called "China Painting" and was written by Doris Taylor and Anne Hart. Collectors of art objects will want to see "Pre - Columbian Ceramics" by Henri Lehmann. A volume for the artists of the community is "Painting Flowers" by Clara Barnes. Another in which they will be interested is "Picasso" by Antonia Vallentin.

Several books of history are among the new books this week. "Bonaparte in Egypt" by J. Christopher Herold sheds much new light on this campaign which started him on the road to success. "Manifest Destiny and Its Mission In American History" is an account of the territorial expansion of the U.S. The author is Frederick Merk and he does a masterly piece of explanation. "Occupation Angel" by Marguerite Cullman is a biography which tells a great deal about show business and should interest all who enjoy the theater.

Charles L. Dufour of the Times Picayune, and an acknowledged authority in the field of the Civil War has written a new book about nine of the Confederate leaders called "Nine Men in Gray." It contains sketches of Richard Taylor, Turner Ashby, Patrick Ronayne Cleburne, Charles W. Read, William Ransom Pegram, William Mahone, Lucius Bellinger Northrop, Henry Hotze and Edward Porter Alexander. This book should interest civil war, enthusiasts and students of American history. This is a very fine contribution to the field of American history and we give our congratulations to Mr. Dufour.

New Bell Ringer Of Witty Wack

"DUDLEY, THERE IS NO TOMORROW!" "THEN HOW ABOUT THIS AFTERNOON?" By Shepherd Mead. Simon & Schuster. $4.95.

Yes, he is taking the business and advertising world apart, as he did in "The Admen" and "How to Succeed . . . etc."

But this time his sharp (oh, so sharp) focus is on the place where those high (blood) pressure tycoons live. It is an expensive chunk of real estate on the North Shore of Long Island, called Cobb's Point.

And this novel has an extra, added attraction. It has the flavor of a sophisticated sleuth story. Reminds you a little of those delicious old Nick - and - Nora dramas, except that the sports shorts villains wear the latest madras prints.

The situation is that an abandoned railroad station (the tracks had been rerouted) sits on a strip of land that provides the only access to a wide, marshy area greatly desired by the real estate developers. If they get it, their mess of ranch houses will ruin the exclusivity of Cobb's Point. Hence a lot of money is at stake.

The narrator (in a highly clipped, telegraphic and weird style) is Dudley Bray, a T-shirted, penniless creator who never has been able to decide whether it is art, writing or music that is his forte. He comes to Cobb's Point when he learns that the real estate man who had stolen his wife 10 years earlier was very dead — supposedly by accident.

Dudley's adventures, in the midst of some charades by an inimitable pair of aunts and some japeries by a few of Dudley's artist friends, are told with all the deadly rationale of biting comedy.

Don't wait. This will be a Broadway hit, but that takes time. Read the book first, then see if the stage show can be as funny.

Civil War Book About McClellan

TERRIBLE SWIFT SWORD (Volume Two, Centennial History of the Civil War). By Bruce Catton. Doubleday $7.50.

This second volume of Catton's centennial history advances the Civil War through the battle of Antietam and the Emancipation Proclamation. These days of 1861-62 were in large part a time of mustering and mobilizing, North and South. The governments were feeling their way, not sure what forces had been unleashed in the land.

It wasn't long, as Catton develops the story, before the war took charge of men; it expanded from a simple fight to restore the Union into a vital struggle involving human freedoms. And so, this is a book of swelling emotions, of broadening horizons of conflict, of battles which startled and appalled by their ferocity and bloodshed.

There came a time in early 1862 when the North was on the verge of victory. The South was stretched to the breaking point, trying to meet everywhere the growing strength of the federal government. The border states had been lost, Missouri was gone, much of the Mississippi was closed to the Confederacy, the coastal ramparts had been cracked. One battle might have decided the war.

Abraham Lincoln saw the opportunity; so, oddly, did General Bragg at Richmond. But neither Lincoln nor Jefferson Davis could make the generals see it.

Many generals were involved, particularly in the North—Henry W. Halleck and Don Carlos Buell, to name two. But the real villian was George Brinton McClellan with his "genius for low gear war." Catton uses the Little Napoleon's own words to convict him of arrogance, contempt for all but his own opinion, intertia, delusions. More, Catton holds McClellan responsible for an atmosphere of defeatism which pervaded the whole high command of the Army of the Potomac.

Many men figure in the grim pageant, particularly Robert E. Lee, credited by Catton with prolonging the war and giving the South its big chance simply by boldness and willingness to risk all for the chance of a crushing victory. But, chiefly, the central drama is between McClellan and the radicals in Congress with the patient Lincoln as a buffer between them.

Catton tells the story as he always does, in fluent, incisive prose. He brings to bear his great talent for reducing a complex situation to its essentials, for cutting away the forest of underbrush to let you see the one significant tree. As in the "The Coming Fury," first volume of the three, he has the benefit of the painstaking and thorough research of E. B. Long. The bibliography here is 17 pages of listed sources, and it's admittedly incomplete.

Heroic Story Has Setting In Early England

Few historical novels can match this one for substance, scope and beauty. For it is no frothy costume drama. It is a fascinating heroic tale.

The setting is England of the 5th Century, when the Roman legions have pulled away, leaving no central force to maintain law and order, and dooming the primitive land to barbarian darkness.

The hero is Artos the Bear, a hard-riding, sword-swinging leader of cavalry, who is imbued with the ideal and hope of keeping the lights of civilization burning.

Miss Sutcliff has looked behind the Arthurian legend in creating Artos. From a few hints and clues sifted from the mist of pagan and Christian legend, she has assumed that there really was a war leader in that era. But he is not the fancy figure of the Mallory or later versions; not the Arthur of the Round Table, ceremonial jousting tournaments and courtly love.

Artos is a rougher, hardier hero. He personally leads his small band of Companions in ceaseless warfare against the raiding Saxons, fends off the Scots and tries desperately to get the squabbling little British princelings to unite for the common defense.

Of course he is a tragic figure, one idealistic man with a sword, trying to stave off the sunset. His personal life is crossed by a fateful, ancient sin. He is betrayed by the man on his right hand. But even as he goes into the last desperate battle, this rude Caesar of the English countryside has become a man of history.

Half Roman, half British, a lover of the hills, the hounds and the horses, he is a man's man who feels, without a trace of self - consciousness, the beauty of the wind through the spring flowers, the melancholy thrill of the harpist's song. He is a memorable figure.

The novel is huge, the characters are many and vivid. It is not a light, time - killing piece of fiction, but a book to live with, keep and read again. There are many dramatic incidents, graphic battle scenes, sensuous descriptive passages. Many pages deserve to be read aloud for their word - music. The masterful Miss Sutcliff has created a greater Arthurian legend than we have had from the old chronicles.

Water Shortage Hits Hong Kong

By RONNIE WEI

HONG KONG (AP)—This modern Oriental city of skyscrapers and squatter shacks is facing a major crisis for lack of water.

The worst drought in Hong Kong's history has raised the threat of violence, disease and economic dislocation.

Hong Kong's 3.5 million people have been searching the brilliant blue skies for weeks for the first sign of moonsoon rains that normally drench this part of the world at this time of year.

The Royal Observatory has recorded three inches of rain the last six months, little more than an inch the last four months—the dryest stretch since the observatory was founded in 1884.

Water runs to homes only four hours every other day. Thousands of people without indoor plumbing stand for hours every other day in lines that stretch for blocks, waiting for precious water from sidewalk hydrants.

The government has warned that rations may have to be cut to four hours every three days or cut off entirely.

This would force hundreds of thousands of people — including residents of plush homes and apartment buildings—to line up for water at the public sidewalk hydrants.

Policemen guard sidewalk hydrants and inspectors check household water meters and have fined householders found guilty of extravagance. Water blackmarketers have been jailed.

Schools have relaxed standing requirements for summer white uniforms, for lack of water to wash them.

Hardest hit are 500,000 refugees from Red China who still live in floating sampan villages or quatter shacks clinging to hillsides.

Because of congested conditions they may stand in line 10 hours or more for a bucket or two of water every other day.

"If I had known about the water situation here I would have stayed in China," a refugee who came across the border last month told a reporter. "I want freedom but right now I want water more."

Hotels, cafes and restaurants report a 20 per cent drop in business.

"Many people rush home from work to take their bath every other day," a waiter said. "They can't stop for a cup of tea or a drink as they usually did."

A Chinese tea-house operator said business had been hit because many of his patrons spend hours daily in front of sidewalk hydrants.

A tourist in a luxury hotel said: "I was going to spend a week here but I'm leaving tomorrow. One bath every other day in this baking heat is more than I can take."

New Book Out On Contract Bridge Good

LAWS OF CONTRACT BRIDGE — A.C.B.L. — Crown ($1.50). Contract Bridge has its own laws commission and its own painstakingly compiled code of laws. Just how well the lawmakers do their job is pointed up by the fact in this most popular and dynamic of card games, there have been no changes in the laws for fifteen years. The National Laws Commission, Harold S. Vanderbilt, Chairman, has promulgated a 1963 revision of the laws effective May 1.

There are no drastic changes — in a society as well organized as that of the bridge world there is no call for the revolutionary. Ambiguities in the 1948 laws have been clarified, and inequities which have become apparent have been rectified. As is well understood in bridge circles, the scope of the laws is to protect the innocent, not to punish the guilty — since in the bridge world the deliberately guilty should be ostracized.

The work has regrouped and streamlined the 1948 sections, and the presentation is even more logical than that of the previous code. The publishers have produced a most convenient size, and the whole thing is so well done that it will probably be 15 more years before another revision.

Serious players will find that their understanding and enjoyment of the game will be increased by playing within the framework of the laws and by a knowledge of the laws.

The duplicate code — identical except for certain differences caused by the mechanical differences of the game — was published May 15.

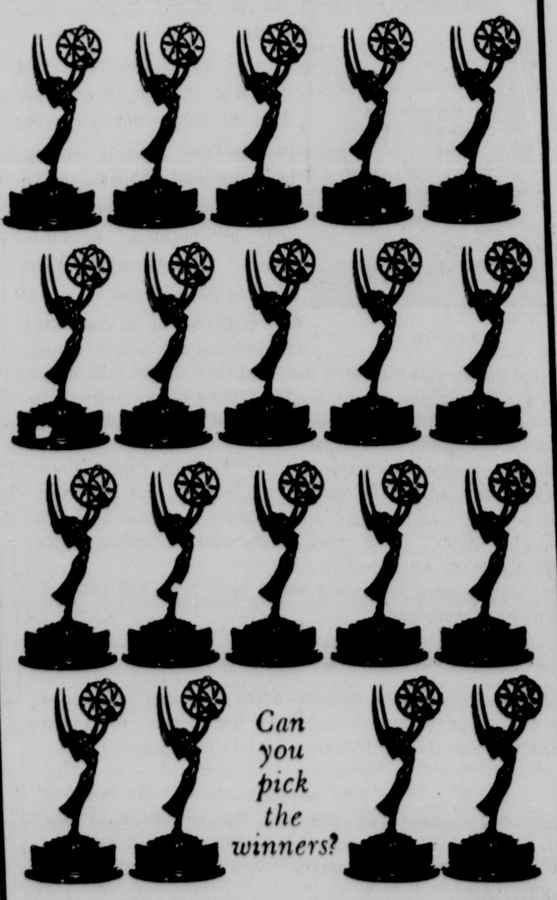

BLITHE SPIRITS

NEW YORK (AP) — Two veteran British theater talents, Bea Lillie and Noel Coward, are being reunited on Broadway in next season's musical version of "Blithe Spirit."

"Contracts have been quartered and drawn," quipped Miss Lillie, "and I'm thrilled to be working with Noel again."

The score for the show — which in its original form was one of Coward's most successful comedies — is being done by Hugh Martin and Timothy Gray. Coward is to direct.

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

The last of the regularly scheduled season's events will soon ring down the curtain at Little Theatre's Strauss Playhouse with the running of "The Miracle Worker," slated to open June 6.

The close of the regular season — which usually coincides with the end of the school year — used to terminate concerts and plays until September or October on the local scene. This is no longer the case, thanks to air-conditioning and an increase of students during summer sessions. With the combined efforts of Northeast State College and the Little Theatre of Monroe, we're apt to have several productions of "summer stock" right here on home territory. More on this as the season warms up.

DOWN THE MISSISSIPPI

The New Orleans summer "pops" season also promises stepped-up activity this year. Maybe the gubernatorial campaigning has something to do with it — someone once said Louisianians never drew a clear line of distinction between entertainment and politics.

At any rate, an impressive array of guests will appear with the Summer Pops orchestra, which is slated to go into action June 28, namely, baritone Igor Gorin, Pete Fountain and combo, Frankie Laine, Tito Guizar, Norman Treigle and Audrey Schuh.

Miss Schuh, it will be recalled, stepped into the leading role in the New Orleans Opera production of "La Traviata" when the scheduled diva packed her bags and left town the day before the opening night.

Conductors of the 55-piece "pops" orchestra will include Milton Bush, George Jansen, and Peter Dombourian, regular staff conductors of the organization.

AUDITIONS WINNERS

Seven young artists — winners of the annual Summer Pops auditions — are also slated to make appearances on programs. Morgan Lambert, 15-year-old pianist from Madisonville; Antonio Perez, baritone from Lafayette; Loris Chobanian, classical guitarist from Baghdad via LSU; Jerry Marshall, singing policeman from New Orleans; Nicholas Silvey, New Orleans baritone; Doris Conrad of Reserve, and Sandra Ashley of Little Rock and LSU — all will perform during the five-week schedule.

FRENCH MARKET ATMOSPHERE

The concerts will be given each Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in New Orleans Municipal Auditorium with the usual "pops" arrangement of tables set up on the ground floor. Further information may be had from the Summer Pops office, 203 Gallier Hall, New Orleans.

ROLE OF THE CAMERA

One of the year's significant sidelights on the local scene was an exhibition of photographic prints from members of the Northeast Louisiana Camera Club which hung in the Little Theatre lobby during the run of "Best Man."

Though the showing was informal, the work could be divided into several categories with outstanding examples in each. Art Smith's "Pelicans" was an excellent piece of "fast grab" composition for an attractive nature study. Jack Tarver's portraits were exceptional for that field, and Lee Estes' "Posing" furnished a nice transition between the lens and the artist's easel in a picture loaded with human interest.

There's an interesting paradox in why more amateurs interested in the visual arts don't take to the camera. It goes something like this. The camera admittedly does a better — and easier — job when it comes to filling in the details. "But it shortcuts the challenge of mastering the basic techniques," say the workers with brushes and colors.

The amateur painters are content to stand on their own work even though the details many fall short of those printed by the photographic process. While doing this, they admit they don't want to master the technicalities of the camera.

WITH DOZEN WELLS COMPLETED

Area Oil And Gas Activity Continues At A High Level

Activity continued at high levels last week throughout the Monroe Oil & Gas District, as drillers apparently took advantage of settled weather conditions. An even dozen wells were completed and gauged in six of the district's 15 north Louisiana parishes.

Weekly reports issued by District Manager Duncan S. Cook found three of the finals in Ouachita Parish (the Monroe, Calhoun and North Big Island Fields), while the Monroe Gas Field in Union Parish produced four completions and in Morehouse Parish, one.

Also finalled were two wells in Catahoula Parish and one each in Tensas and Richland.

Fresh activity retained the previous week's strong gains by registering 20 new locations in a total of nine parishes. Applications for permit to drill were filed with Cook on each.

The breakdown found three of the new sites in Union Parish, again the Monroe Field, and one in Morehouse's Monroe Field. Most of the stakings occurred in LaSalle Parish, however, which reported eight, followed by Concordia with three, and Catahoula, Tensas, Franklin, Rapides and Grant, with one each.

NINE PARISHES

Active drilling or testing also was recorded in nine parishes, according to Cook, with three of the working wells, all drilling, in Ouachita Parish — a wildcat and one each in the Monroe and North Big Island Fields.

Others working included Catahoula Parish's seven wells, four in Concordia, two each in Grant and Tensas, five in LaSalle and one each in Richland, Morehouse and Franklin Parishes.

Fourteen wells were plugged and abandoned during the week, though the total on inactive sites fell to 73. Locations over the area totalled 84.

SEEMS ASSURED

Green County Find Said Near

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A new oil field find in Greene County appeared assured Saturday at Triad Oil and Gas Company's wildcat, the No. 2 Franklin, sec. 4-4n-8w, located near Sand Hill.

Operators tested a sand at 9,791-9,809 feet with the well flowing at a rate of 160 barrels of oil per day. The well was drilled to a total depth of 12,292 feet with production casing set at 9,895 feet.

The well is about two miles northwest of the recently-found Avera Field of Greene County. The discovery well at Avera was completed as a dual producer from the Mooringsport and Rodessa Sands.

Callon Petroleum Co. has officially completed its Armstrong No. D-1, sec. 2-6n-4w, as the discovery well of the West Carthage Point field. The new oiler flowed at the rate of 105 barrels of oil per day from a Wilcox sand at 5,976-81 feet.

In the two-well Wausau Field of Wayne County Chismor Co. prepared to dually complete its G. M. & O. No. 21-14, sec 21-6n-9w. The well was drilled to 12,523 feet with production casing set at 12,595 feet. Operators tested a sand at 11,488-96 feet with the well flowing an unestimated amount of oil.

The second well in the recently-found Mize Field of Smith County has been completed. The well is California Company's No. 1, Meyer, sec. 9-10n-15w, flowing 204 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 11,876-90 feet.

The Mize Field was discovered last December and currently lists four wells drilling. Triad Oil & Gas Co. drilled below 12,900 feet on the board of supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-10n-15w, and was below 5,100 feet at its central No. 1, sec. 8-10n-15w. Central Oil Co. was below 12,300 feet at its unit No. 1, sec. 9-10n-15w, and California Co. was below 10,430 feet at its Board of Supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-10n-15w. A fifth test, McAlester-Triad No. 2 Clark, sec. 9-10n-15w, was scheduled to get underway in the near future.

The confirmation well in the south center Ridge Field also in Smith County is below 12,500 feet. The venture is Triad Oil & Gas Company's No. 1 Blakeney-Westmoreland, sec. 30-1n-8e, with contract depth 13,000 feet.

At North Carthage Point in Adams County, P. J. Gay completed his Schuchardt No. 1, sec. 1-6n-4w, flowing 150 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 5,898-590 feet.

In the 24-year-old Tinsley Field of Yazoo County two wells were completed. Jones-OBrien, Inc. finaled the Stevens No. A-4, sec. 13-10n-3w, pumping 372 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 4,853-62 feet. Union Producing Co. completed its Perrry No. 9, sec. 24-10n-3w, pumping 45 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 4,946-72 feet.

In the Carmichael Field of Clarke County, Berry & Thurber completed their Carmichael-Keeton No. 1, sec. 6-1n-17e, pumping 50 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 3,780-85 feet.

More Acceptable Powers Bill Set For Legislature

MONTGOMERY (UPI) — A bill aimed at making powers wanted by a committee set up to investigate racial disturbances "more acceptable" to lawmakers is ready for introduction in the legislature Tuesday.

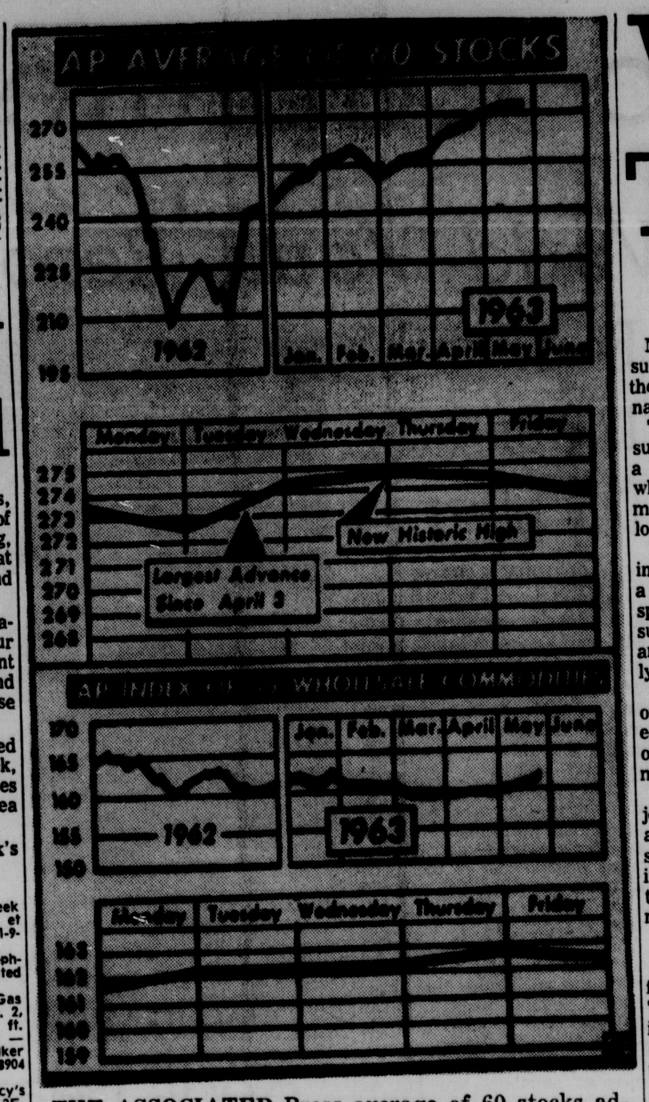

Rep. John Hawkins, chairman of the five-man group, said the new measure would be offered as a substitute to a controversial bill now pending which would arm the committee with broad subpoena rights.

"This one will spell out the operation of the committee and protect members and witnesses," the Jefferson County lawmaker said.

The substitute would guarantee any witness ordered to appear before the group the right to be represented by counsel and the right to cross-examination.

It would specify that the committee turn over any evidence it might gather to a grand jury before a person could be cited into court and protect the probers and witnesses from libel or slander action by extending legislative privilege to hearings.

Despite the proposed guarantees, stiffening resistance was seen in both the House and Senate.

THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks advanced for the twelfth week in a row, closing at 273.9 from 273.6 a week ago. Led by food and livestock, the commodity index rose for the fourth straight week, closing at 162.5 from 161.8 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

STILL ADVANCES

Mart Inconclusive, Weakening In Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved inconclusively last week, weakening late in the week.

However, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials lost 4.28 to 720.53.

One broker said the sharp reduction in the commercial banks' supplies of cash for lending and investing might have been a restraining factor.

He added that he expected an irregular market until eonugh momentum is built up to thrust the market upward.

There was little business news to inspire or depress the market and what there was seemed to have little noticeable effect.

Most major automobile manufacturers reportd increased sales for the mid-May period. And top officials of Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp. issued statements predicting annual sales of 7 million cars.

Steels failed to respond to continued rising production. Joseph Block, chairman of Inland Steel Co., said it probably would be determined within the next 10 to 14 days whether the steel industry and the United Steelworkers can reach an agreement without a contract reopener and a strike deadline.

The staff of the joint Senate-House Economic Committee said the federal deficit for the year ending June 30 probably would be $1 billion less than had been estimated. The report estimated the deficit at $7.8 billion.

The market failed to produce any outstanding leadership. The Blue Chips, which paced the long advance, were more or less dormant. The secondary issues, which last week gave indication of taking over, failed to follow through.

Sugar issues lent to the fore early in the week, propelled by rising wholesale and retail prices. Much of the sweetness melted out of these issues later as profits were taken and a congressional committee announced it would investigate the background of the price spiral.

Volume for the week was 24,526,720 compared with 25,367,040 the previous week.

Government bond prices suffered their sharpest setback since early April in response to fears that credit may be tightened leading to higher interest rates, higher bond yields and lowered bond prices. Corporate bonds held within a narrow price range. Corporate trading on the New York Stock Exchange totaled $29,345,000 per value, down $1.3 million from the preceding week.

Wheat, Sugar Tops In Business

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Wheat and sugar moved front and center in the drama of business and finance during the week.

The spotlight fell on a type of sugar that sold in 1961 for 2 cents a pound —unrefined — and on wheat, which accounts for little more than that in the price of a loaf of bread.

Wholesale sugar prices, climbing in recent months because of a developing pinch in supply, spurted wildly upward, setting a succession of 43-year highs. Sugar company shares moved sharply higher on the stock market.

Other milder effects rippled out toward far corners of the economy, reflecting in markups of sugar-using items on supermarket shelves.

The nation's breadbasket was jolted when farmers rebelled against administration - backed strict 1964 growing and marketing controls on wheat, agriculture's No. 1 cash crop valued at roughly $2.5 billion.

PLANTING RISE

Government experts said the farm uprising, in a referendum Tuesday, threatened a steep rise in wheat plantings next year, a collapse in prices and international trade complications.

The picture was confused by political maneuvering and the possibility of congressional intercession later on that could materially change the outlook.

Meantime, the main engines of the economy hummed along.

Walter W. Heller, President Kennedy's chief economic adviser, pronounced the pickup "a notch or two" better than had been hoped for in January. Some observers then viewed administration projects as overly optimistic.

One of the few trouble spots appeared in the high-flying automobile industry, slowing a drive by automakers for a record high production year. Output fell off 4 per cent last week and seemed headed for another small decline this week, chiefly because of a labor dispute at a Chicago Heights, Ill., Ford parts plant that had ramifications elsewhere.

In April, government agencies reported, alltime highs were establishing by housing starts, new orders for durable goods and personal income.

Up 7 per cent from March and 6 per cent from a year earlier, housing starts reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,627,000 units. Personal income hit an annual level of $455.7 billion, and durable goods orders an annual rate of $17.9 billion, both adjusted for seasonal factors.

Steel production, rounding out nearly four months of steady gains, set another three-year high, topping the mark of 2.6 million tons a week. The recent surge of steel ordering subsided somewhat but held at a high level.

COMPROMISE

Abroad, negotiators for the United States and the European Common Market worked out a compromise on mutual tariff-cutting, averting a split of free world nations that seemed in the making and enhancing the outlook for results from the 1962 Trade Expansion Act.

Two big savings and loan associations, the largest in Alabama and Arizona's biggest, announced reductions in their dividend—interest—rates to 4 per cent from 4½ per cent.

The moves were said to reflect a downtrend in the price of mortgage money.

Briefly around the business scene: A. M. Kidder & Co. announced its impending disappearance from the Wall Street scene after 98 years, with agreement to have its 39 offices taken over by two other brokerage firms... Monroe J. Rathbone, board chairman, told stockholders that Standard Oil Co. (N.J.) profits are headed for an all-time high in 1963—Jersey Standard cleared $840.9 million in 1962.

Voters Bring Grain Bear To Trading

CHICAGO (AP)—The decisive rejection by wheat growers last week of the government's proposed control program was a strong bearish influence in the futures trade but it was only temporary.

At the end of the week, all wheat contracts showed gains over a week ago as speculators talked of a possible scarce commercial supply in the final months of government price supports.

Rye and soybeans also moved up, but corn and oats were mostly easier.

Trade in wheat was at its fastest pace in months on Wednesday as a heavy volume of scare selling hit the pit. It took all contracts down fairly sharply before speculative buying reversed the trend. Nearly all the loss had been recovered before the close and prices remained generally firm thereafter.

Soybeans derived support from a frost scare but more of it was believed to have been linked with moisture conditions which advices indicated were only marginal at best in much of the major producing area.

At the end of the week, wheat was ⅞-2 cents a bushel higher tha na week ago, July $1.86¼-¼; corn ½ higher to ¼ lower, July $1.21⅜ - ¼; oats ⅜ - 1⅛ lower, July 66¼ cents; rye 1⅞-2⅛ higher, July $1.26¾-27; soybeans ⅜-2⅞ higher, July $2.60¼-⅛.

South Is Given Second Historic Choice Since 54

ATLANTA (UPI)— The executive committee of the integrationist Southern Regional Council said Saturday that the Souht is confronted with its second historic choice in nine years.

The committee, in a statement, said the sit-in demonstration rulings by the U. S. Supreme Court set before the South "a renewed opportunity for the kind of magnanimity and intelligence which we turned our backs on in 1954."

The committee charged that the South responded to the 1954 school desegregation decision "with a self-blighting display of malice and futility" and said the recent racial disturbances in Birmingham, Ala., "are only the latest episode of this impoverishing of the regional spirit."

It said the Supreme Court's latest racial rulings came at a time when in several Southern cities—with Raleigh, Durham and Greensboro, N. C., and Knoxville and Nashville, Tenn., named specifically—"there has arisen an unprecedented awareness among civic leaders that segregation must end, without delay, in all public and business services."

The committee said that measures are now being adopted in the United States, and particularly in the South "which already are outgrown by Negro needs and impatience."

Remodeling Set For Area Bank

VIDALIA (Special) — Plans to remodel and enlarge the Concordia Bank and Trust building here have been announced by Travis Gore, vice president and cashier.

Estimated cost is $140,000.

Corporations Eye World Situations

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The board chairman of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) sounded, at times, more like the secretary of state.

M. J. Rathbone's report before 2,800 Jersey Standard stockholders included appraisals of political and economic affairs in Latin America, Europe, Africa, the Middle East, and Asia.

Like other worldwide operators, Jersey has a vital interest in such matters.

Rathbone told the Wednesday stockholders meeting in the Houston Music Hall Jersey Standard's security is strengthened by a broad geographical diversification.

He said this diversification and years of experience in foreign markets leave Jersey in an excellent position to meet an industry trend that began developing two years ago.

"In 1961, demand for oil outside the United States exceeded domestic demand the first time," Rathbone said. "As time goes on, foreign demand will take on even more importance because the rate of increase is much higher."

Jersey's U.S. sales last year increased 4 per cent over 1961 but Latin American sales were up 6 per cent. Sales in Europe, Asia and East Africa increased 13 per cent.

"Having foreseen this change and planned for it, Jersey is now in a strong position to share in the growing market and, at the same time, to keep a sound balance between it and our operations in North America," said Rathbone.

LARGE PER CENT

Opertions in the U.S. and Canada still account for 44 per cent of the company's sales. Europe and North Africa follow with 34 per cent, Latin America with 15 per cent, and the Far East with 7 per cent.

The United States and Canada furnish 24 per cent of Jersey's crude oil supply, Latin America 46 per cent, Europe and Africa 6 per cent, and the Middle and Far East 24 per cent.

"Our crude supplies literally flow from all corners of the world," Rathbone said.

"Though some may come from relatively unstable areas, our highly diversified supply allows us to draw on a number of alternative sources, and thus give our customers the assurance we will be able to supply them with the oil they need when they need it."

Jersey's relying on Latin America, particularly Venezuela, for 46 per cent of its crude supply seemed to surprise some of the stockholders. One asked if this were not a bit risky.

Rathbone replied that the Venezuelan government had announced no more concessions will be granted. He said he was optimistic, however, in that the government had not announced there will be no extensions of current concessions.

"There is every reason to believe we can obtain extensions when they are needed," he said.

Rathbone earlier had commented on recent acts of violence which have caused damage to Jersey installations in Venezuela.

"Serious as these acts of terrorism have been, they are, nevertheless, only isolated incidents which, taken by themselves, tend to give a distorted impression of the over-all situation in the country," he said.

"Our people are impressed by the determination of the vast majority of Venezuelan citizens to stand firm and preserve their democracy. We believe Venezuela is taking solid strides toward maintaining its democratic government."

While discussing the Middle East, Rathbone said the situation for the oil interests in Iraq is a good deal more encouraging under the new government there.

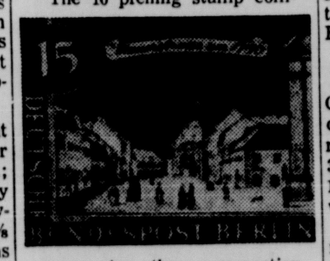

"One example is the formal withdrawal of a proposal to tax ocean tankers lifting Iraq crude," he said. "It is still too early to predict how other issues affecting the operations will be settled."

Stamp News

A variety of commemorative stamps honoring subjects ranging from religious to railroads has been issued by West Germany, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

One stamp marks the 400th anniversary of the Heidelberg Catechism, which contains the 129 questions and answers constituting the link of the World Congregation of Reformed Churches. The 20 pfennig is red and black with the inscription Heidelberger Catechismus."

The 10 pfennig stamp commemorates the consecration of the new Church of Regina Martyrum (Queen of Martyrs) in Berlin - Plotzensee. The church is dedicated to all who suffered religious or political persecution during the Nazi regime. This adhesive is green, red, violet and black.

To commemorate the 100th anniversary of the 1863 Paris Postal Conference, West Germany has issued a new 45 pfennig stamp bearing coats of arms of the 18 participating postal administrations.

To honor the opening of a highway and railroad connection from Schleswig - Holstein over Fehmarn to the Danish Isles (the shortest distance between Germany and Denmark) a new 20 pf. stamp has been issued. A commemorative of 20 pf. values honors the centenary of the International Red Cross and a 15 pf. was issued in the Old Berlin series.

San Marino has issued a beautiful new set on art treasures. The 30 lire reproduces the painting of the veiled "Fornarina," now in the Palazoo Pitti at Florence. The 70 lire features Rafael's self portrait. The 100 lire shows a portrait of a woman from the painting of the Sistine Madonna. The 200 lire depicts a portrait of Maddalena Strozzi, which is now in the Borghese Gallery in Rome.

Iran has announced the issuance of a 2R and 6R set of stamps commemorating International Labor Day. Also issued by that country were two new stamps marking the Shah's Agrarian Reform Act. Depicted is a portrait of the Shah and a scroll with an ornamental border.

STRIKERS, POLICE CLASH

MANILA (UPI) — Dock strikers in Manila's south harbor clashed with club-swinging riot police and non-union dockhands Friday. Press reports said about 100 strikers and several policemen were injured.

How To Go To School!

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The U. S. government is putting hundreds of millions of dollars into its loan program for college students — but Nthere's a college in Texas which wants no part of this money. Instead, it operates its own plan for helping students, and with great success. Here is a report on this extraordinary program.)

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

CANYON, Texas, (AP) — Two years ago Frances McMahon had an unhappy past, a dismal present, and a dark and uncertain future.

She was a 27-year-old mother of five, a recent divorcee, and living on relief in the West Texas town of Aspermont, population 1,062.

There are few jobs in Aspermont, particularly for a mother with five youngsters. Frances worked part time as a waitress, kept house for her mother in a home much too small for seven people—and wept often.

And then a sort of miracle happened, a miracle called "Opportunity Plan, Inc."

Today Frances McMahon is a junior at West Texas State College here in Canyon. Her children are with her. She doesn't have to worry about the rent, food, tuition, lab fees, or baby sitters.

UNIQUE

"Opportunity Plan, Inc." (OPI) is a student loan and job program, but one that is unique in its conception and operation.

When Milton "Buff' Morris, executive vice president of OPI, heard there was a worthy young woman in Aspermont who had always wanted to be a teacher, but who couldn't possibly afford a college education, he drove 150 miles to see her.

What other college would have sought out Frances McMahon, and taken a chance on her?

And she is just one among many it has helped.

What other college loan fund would send $200 to a former student who needed funds to tide him over until he started teaching in the fall?

What other fund would help former students earn advanced degrees—at other colleges and universitties?

But OPI is more than a job and loan program; it also is an act of defiance by a truly rugged individualist. Buff Morris designed it specifically to keep the federal government's student loan program off the West Texas State campus.

"We started working toward this program in 1953," Morris said in an interview.

"Colleges have had loan funds for years. They have done a lot of good. But I had the feeling they weren't being operated properly.

"I was afraid that, for lack of workable plans, the government would step in—and it did, in 1958. The government gets into a lot of things because we won't do them for ourselves."

Today, West Texas State is one of the few such institutions in the country which does not participate in the student loan program of the National Defense Education Act of 1958.

It hasn't been easy. Morris spends as much time raising money as he does lending it.

He has put the arm on virtually every wealthy businessman in Texas. If he has missed any, it is purely oversight.

Morris, not a wealthy man himself, has contributed more than $1,000 of his own money to OPI because "I can't ask people to do what I won't do myself."

It is doubtful, in fact, that OPI would work without a man-in-charge of Morris' zeal and dedication, and without the sources of private funds that Morris has been tapping throughout Texas.

The revolutionary feature of "Opportunity Plan, Inc." is its budget plan. It is just what the name implies.

Students accepted for the budget plan make a detailed list of all probable expenses at the start of each semester—room, board, tuition, lab fees, books, travel, medical care, barber shop or beauty parlor, pocket money, dating expenses—anything and everything that will cost them money.

They also list their savings and all probable sources of income—jobs, presents, the sale of used textbooks, and money from home.

Morris goes over each budget with the students. Some estimate their expenses too high, some not high enough. When a satisfactory figure is agreed upon, the student is all set financially.

U.S. Rallies To Capture Walker Cup

Rout British 12-8 On 2nd Day Effort

By JOHN FARROW

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — The United States Walker Cup team struck back like a bomb Saturday and routed Britain's best amateur golfers 12-8 to take the international amateur golf trophy for the 18th time in 19 attempts since 1922.

Trailing 6-3 at the start of the second day's play after a surprising British performance in the first day's singles matches, the Yanks won all four of the morning foursomes Saturday and five of the eight afternoon singles to make it a runaway.

The Britons, hopeful of their second victory in the Walker Cup series—the only time they have won was in 1938—managed to salvage just two victories and one tie in Saturday's matches.

This amazing comeback showed American amateurs are just as formidable in the 18-hole "sudden death" matches as they were over the 36-hole route. For the first time, the Walker Cup was settled in a series of 24 short matches over two days instead of the previous 12 matches at 36 holes.

A point is awarded for each victory in singles or alternate-stroke foursomes. Halved matches are disregarded in the scoring. Only four of the 24 finished all square.

The player who wrapped up the cup for the Americans was Bob Gardner, the lean, greying 42-year-old from Essex Fells, N.J. He was called into action for the singles because Charley Smith of Gastonia, N.C., turned up with a strained back. A teammate, Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., warned Smith that he might suffer long-lasting consequences if he tried to play.

Gardner, playing Michael Lunt of England in the fourth singles match, walked toward the 16th green facing a pressure-packed 4-foot putt.

At this stage, the team's non-playing captain, Dick Tufts of Pinehurst, N.C., moved up beside him and said:

"This is the one we need to keep the trophy on our side of the Atlantic."

The natty Gardner holed the putt for a 3 and 2 victory—the eighth straight of the day for the Americans.

"It must have looked like 100 feet to him at that stage," Tufts said. "But he walked up calmly, stroked the ball into the cup—and we won."

This is the way Saturday's Foursomes: Billy Joe Patton, Morganton, N.C., and Dick Sikes, Springdale, Ark., defeated Michael Bonallack, England, and Stuart Murray, Scotland, 1 70. Downing Gray, Pensacola, Fla., and Labron Harris, Stillwater, Okla., defeated Michael Lunt, England, and David Sheahan, Ireland, 3 and 2. Gardner and Updegraff defeated Charles Green, Scotland, and Sandy Saddler, Scotland, 3 and 1. Deane Beman, Bethesda, Md., and Charles Coe, Oklahoma City, defeated David Madeley, Ireland, and Ronnie Shade, Scotland, 3 and 2.

Singles: Patton defeat Murray 3 and 2. Richard Davies, Pasadena, Calif., lost one down to Sheahan. Updegraff defeated Joe Carr, Ireland, 4 and 3. Harris defeated Bonallack 3 and 2. Gardner defeated Lunt 3 and 2. Beman and Saddler ended up all square. Shade defeated Gray 2 and 1. Coe defeated Green 4 and 3.

The weather did a typical switch over the 7,025-yard layout beside the Firth of Clyde. Friday cold winds and pouring rain drenched the par 37-35—72 layout.

It was chilly at the start Saturday morning but later in the day the sun came out. The wind dropped—and the Americans went to work in a devastating way.

Reds Beat White 19-7 In Lions' Squad Game

By GLYNN HUDSON
World Sports Writer

The Red team scored three times in the second half and defeated the White club in a 19-7 come-from-behind win at the spring intrasquad tilt at Ouachita High Saturday night.

This game completed the three week spring drills under new head coach Frank Mobley.

The Coach was pleased with his teams' performances and commented after the game, "The boys hit real well, and had a lot of hustle. They did real good for only three weeks of practice." "I was also pleased with the defense," the coach added. "We haven't worked much on it and I think they did a fine job."

The White team scored first in the second quarter, and took a 7-0 lead, when Kenneth Platt, who will be a senior next year, took the ball over for the score on a five-yard scamper around his left end. This play climaxed an 88-yard drive, in which the Whites tallied six first downs, mostly on the running of Johnny Knighten, the sophomore halfback, who scampered 31 yards to the 15 yard-line to put the Whites in scoring territory.

icky McNair, the White sophomore fullback was the work horse in the drive, collecting 27 yards, on short carries and Skeeter Boyd added 30 yards including a 22 yard run that brought the Whites to mid-field.

It was a different story in the second half as the Red team came to life and scored three touchdowns to win the game. The final score came in the last seconds of the game on a 50-yard play by Ronnie Hamilton, who took a pitch-out from quarterback, Carey Walker and out distanced everyone in a race for pay dirt.

The Red scored its first talley, on a 13-yard pass play from halfback Barry Craft to halfback Kenneth Slusher. This score came very quickly for the Reds, following an exchange of punts, leaving the Reds on the 50-yard line. On first down Ronny Hamilton the junior fullback ran for 15 yards to the 35 and the pass play followed.

The extra point try was good to tie it up 7-7.

The second tally came for the Reds after stopping a White drive on their own 38, in the final quarter. In the drive for the score the Reds picked up three first downs, the crucial one coming on a ten-yard run by Dicky Lee on fourth down, which carried to the eight yard line. Mike Gentry, the fleet half-back for the Red carfried the final eight yards on an off tackle plunge.

The White team tried to come back, but with time running out in the final period, couldn't muster a drive and with less than a minute to play, had to kick. The kick carried to the 35, but was returned to mid-field by halfback Don Powell.

Hamilton lead players on both teams in rushing with 85 yards, most of it coming on his final burst. Jimmy Wallace and Dicky Lee picked up 24 and 27 yards respectively, accounting for most of the 159 yards total rushing for the Reds.

Boyd lead the Whites, who out rushed the Red, 221 to 159, with 79 yards, and Kenneth Slusher picked up 50 yards.

Dicky McNair collected 63 yards on short carries and Barry Craft got 33 yards total, after several losing attempts.

The White which led in most every statistic except the score, had nine first downs to six for the Red, lost 40 yards in penalties, while the Red lost 60, and was forced to punt only three times for a 35.5 yard average, while the Red kicked 7 times for a 30 yard average.

Soph Betters Mark Set By John Pennel

By JACK STEVENSON

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) —University of Washington sophomore Brian Sternberg bettered the pole vault record, clearing 16 feet, 7 inches Saturday at the California Relays.

A second world record fell to the Oregon State two-mile relay team. And the meet saw New Zealand's Peter Snell rout America's Jim Beatty in their heralded mile race, while unheralded Washington sophomore Phil Shinnick leaped 27 feet 4 inches, only to have the world-betterning mark termed unofficial because no one was tending the wind gauge.

Oregon State's quartet of half milers ran the two mile relay in 7 minutes, 18.9 seconds, eclipsing the world mark of 7:19.4 set by a U.S. National team in 1960. Running in order for the Beavers were Jan Underwood 1:50.2, Jerry Brady 1:52.0, Norm Hoffman 1:48.4 and Morgan Groth-1:48.3.

It was first reported the wind gauge was off when Shinnick made his long broad jump, but later officials said the gauge was on but no one was checking it at the time Shinnick leaped.

Shortly before Shinnick jumped, the wind was measured as below the allowable 4.47 miles per hour. Meet referee Charlie Hunter said Shinnick's jump would have to go into the records as wind-aided because the gauge was unattended.

The 27-4 was longer than the world record of 27-3¼ set by Igor Ter-Ovanesyan of Russia. After Shinnick's long jump, former record holder Ralph Boston had a jump of 27-2¾.

The best previous leap for the 20-year-old Shinnick, a 6-3 collegian was 25-5.

His 27-4 Saturday night came on his second try after he went 26-10 on his first effort but fouled. He had jumped at Berkeley, 90 miles north of Modesto, earlier Saturday in the Big Six meet and failed to place. He was a late entry here, asking permission to enter after he arrived and receiving it.

Snell captured the mile race in three minutes, 54.9 seconds—the third fastest ever run—with Marine Cary Weisiger holding on for second place and Beatty finishing third.

Snell, with a tremendous finishing kick in the final 200 yards, finished 20 yards ahead of Weisiger and his time was just one-half second off the world record of 3:54.4 he set last year. It was the fastest mile ever run in the United States, eclipsing the 3:56.1 by Snell in Los Angeles last year.

Weisiger, former Duke star, finished in 3:57.3, Beatty at 3:58.0 and his Los Angeles Track Club teammate Jim Grelle took fourth at 3:58.1.

The 24-year-old Snell ran as he had planned in staying off the pace until midway in the final lap for this first meeting against Beatty. When he did move up, he moved fast to leave the field in his wake.

DEFEAT BRITISH AGAIN

'We Got Out The Whip,' Say Winners After Comeback

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP)—"Yes, we got out the whip last night," commented Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., after the United States had retained the Walker Cup Saturday.

The American amateur golfers defeated the British 12-8 with four matches halved. They started Saturday's program of 12 matches trailing by a 6-3 score.

Dick Tufts, the team's non-playing captain from Pinehurst, N.C., agreed: "Yes, we got into a huddle after finding ourselves behind on the first day.

"But we were all very polite," he added with a grin.

BILLIE JOE Patton of Morgantown, N.C., with his sleeves pulled back, chips close to the pin at the fifth hole during his match Saturday in Walker Cup Competition at Turnberry, Scotland. Patton and Richard Sikes of Springdale teamed for a 1-up victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Then Tufts added: "I said after the first day that I thought we would take three of the four foursomes and five of the singles.

"It turned out a lot better than I expected. We swept through all the four foursomes.

"Did you notice one thing? Our team — the whole team of eight players in the foursomes — finished their foursomes only three over fours.

"That's something on a course like this one where the conditions and winds change so much."

Tufts said it was impossible to single out one player specifically.

"But Downing Gray deserves plenty of credit for the way he played both days.

"His golf was magnificent—and he ran into magnificent golf from his opponents.

"Friday Gray shot 36 on the outward nine against Ronnie Shade's 33. Then Shade played two under fours for the first six on the way home. Gray was one under fours for those six holes and still lost.

"Saturday Shade and Gray were together again. Again it was great golf. Shade went out in 34 and Gray, even with a seven, was out in 40."

Torre's Home Run Gives Braves Win

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Joe Torre hit his second home run of the season in the eighth inning Saturday to give the Milwaukee Braves a 1-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Torre's drive broke up a tight pitching duel between Bob Shaw and Joe Gibbon and ended the Braves' three-game losing streak.

Each pitcher allowed only four hits and the difference lay in Gibbon's first pitch of the eighth. Torre, who had hit his only other home run of the year at Houston April 25, knocked it over the right field wall between the bleachers and the grandstand.

Gibbon encountered further trouble later in the inning when he hit Bubba Morton and gave up a single to Mack Jones, but Elroy Face came in and got the last two outs.

The Braves were hitless until Henry Aaron led off the sixth with a single.

Shaw, meanwhile, yielded singles in the second, fourth, sixth and seventh as he went the distance for the first time this year. Only three Pirates reached second base and none got to third.

CARDS WIN

Mets Lose 5th Straight Game

By MIKE RECHT

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals combined a twelve-hit offense with loose field by New York and handed the Mets their fifth straight setback 6-3 Saturday.

One Cardinal run scored in the fourth when Curt Flood, who doubled home two runs in a three-run second, singled. He reached third when no one covered second on an attempted steal and the throw went into center field. Dick Groat singled for the run.

The Mets pulled within a run in the seventh. They kayoed Cardinal starter Ray Sadecki on a walk, singles by Ron Hunt and Ed Kranepool, an error and a wild pitch, but then gave back two tallies in the St. Louis seventh.

Ken Boyer singled and took third when Hunt's throw went into the Met dugout. Stan Musial walked and Julian Javier's liner went for a run-scoring double when Cliff Cook slipped in left field and the ball went over his head.

Sadecki, who won his first game after four defeats, had a one-hitter until the Mets broke loose in the seventh.

Brazil Defeats U. S. For 2nd World Cage Title

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil won its second straight world basketball championship Saturday night with an 85-81 victory over the United States.

The Americans, who never had won this title in the game they invented, finished fourth with a 3-3 record. They lost to Russia, Yugoslavia and Brazil.

Wright Hangs On, Still Leads By 1

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Mickey Wright scrambled to a 2-over-par 73 to maintain a tight one-stroke lead at 54 holes in the $12,500 Dallas Civitan Open Golf Tournament Saturday as Clifford Ann Creed faltered to a 76.

Miss Wright again had the shots in the clutch and they were birdies on the 11th and 12th holes just when she seemed to be fading.

Miss Wright ran her total to 210—a stroke bulge over surging Sandra Haynie, the tiny Texan, who came from third place to second with a par 71.

Miss Creed, the smallest girl on the tour and also one of the newest, went out in the third round with a one-stroke deficit to Miss Wright, who led with 137 for 36 holes. But the girl who hadn't had a bogey in two rounds bogeyed the first two holes and never was in contention again.

She had 214 for 54 holes and was tied for third place with Mary Lena Faulk, who came in with a 70.

A high wind swept the 6,238-yard Glen Lakes Country Club course and some of the players complained that it did erratic things with their shots. The 98-pound Miss Creed was harassed by the wind more than anybody.

The day was marked by a freak accident that eliminated Peggy Wilson from the tournament. Miss Wilson was hit by a drive off an opposite tee by Marilynn Smith and her right hand was so badly swollen she had to have first aid and quit the tournament. She had 155 for 36 holes and was two over par through the sixth hole Saturday.

Giants Whip Dodgers; Now Are 3 Games Up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants powered ahead with the home run ball and whipped Los Angeles 6-2 Saturday, moving three games in front of the runner-up Dodgers in the National League race.

San Francisco's unbeaten left-hander Billy O'Dell won for the seventh time as the Giants knocked off their bitter rivals for the second straight time.

Ed Bailey clinched it in the seventh with his 10th home run of the season, which also scored Jimmy Davenport, who had singled.

Orlando Cepeda and Willie McCovey also homered off loser Johnny Podres, now 3-4.

O'Dell's biggest tormenter was Tommy Davis, who singled in one run, doubled in the sixth and sent O'Dell to the showers with a two-out single in the eighth.

The Dodgers scored their two runs in the first. Singles by Nate Oliver and Tommy Davis sandwiched around a bunt hit by Jim Gilliam scored one.

ON TWO-HITTER

Pascual Throws Twins By Chisox

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —Minnesota ace Camilo Pascual overcame brief stretches of wildness to pitch a two-hitter Saturday when the rampaging Twins socked Chicago 6-0 for their sixth straight victory.

Until the ninth the only White Sox hit was Pete Ward's two-out double in the third inning, a long blow into a strong wind which Minnesota rightfielder Wally Post got his glove on against the fence but couldn't hold.

Jim Hall singled in the ninth but was immediately erased in a double play.

Pascual, hurling his sixth victory in 10 decisions and his second shutout of the season, had only one bad inning. Chicago loaded the bases in the second on Bernie Allen's error and two walks, but Pascual got his mound foe, Juan Pizarro, to ground out to end the threat.

Pascual was struck on the left hip by a delivery of Chisox reliever Joel Horlen in the eighth, but the blow didn't appear to hamper the Cuban right-hander as he finished up in the ninth. He struck out seven and walked four.

Pascual aided his own cause with a two-run double in Minnesota's four-run sixth, which was triggered by ex-Cincinnatian Wally Post's second home run in a Twins' uniform. Rich Rollins, who has hit in 10 straight games, belted his second homer in the eighth.

Baltimore Scores Three In Ninth To Beat Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Baltimore's American League-leading Orioles capitalized on three Cleveland Indian errors Saturday and won their sixth straight game, 6-4, with a three-run uprising in the ninth that broke a 3-3 deadlock.

Ninth-inning errors by rookie Max Alvis and Jerry Walker helped the Orioles keep their streak going.

Jackie Brandt beat out a single to third and went to second on Alvis's wild throw. John Orsino's single scored Brandt with the tie-breaking run, and Orsino went to second on the throw.

When Stu Miller bunted to pitcher Bob Allen, the throw to third was too late and all hands were safe. After Walker replaced Allen, Luis Aparicio's sacrifice fly scored Orsino.

When Jerry Adair bounced to the mound, Walker threw into center field trying to trap Miller off second. Miller scored on the error with the third run of the big inning.

The Indians scored one run in a ninth inning threat. Vic Davalillo drove in the run with his second triple of the game, scoring Tony Martinez, who had walked.

Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts protested in the ffith inning after Baltimore Manager Billy Hitchcock made a couple of trips from the dugout to talk to his pitcher without taking him out of the game. Hitchcock apparently was concerned about the condition of Milt Pappas' arm.

MAX ALVIS, Cleveland rookie third baseman, leaps high in an attempt to bring down a ball hit by Baltimore's Jerry Adair but can't make the grab. The ball went for a double and knocked in a run to tie the score. The Orioles went on to win the game, 6-4. The umpire, calling the ball fair, is Larry Napp. (AP Wirephoto)

ADVANCE GRID POLL

Rebs Are Picked For SEC Crown

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Ole Miss was picked Saturday in a Birmingham News poll to win the 1963 Southeastern Conference football championship.

Florida was picked to finish third followed by LSU, Georgia Tech, Auburn, Tennessee, Mississippi State, Kentucky, Georgia, Vanderbilt and Tulane.

Alabama rated six first place votes over Mississippi's four, but a fourth and fifth place vote put coach Johnny Vaught's Rebels in the top spot.

Here's how the teams finished the 1962 season, in order:

Mississippi, Alabama, LSU, Georgia Tech, Florida, Auburn, Kentucky and Georgia, Mississippi State, Tennessee, Vanderbilt and Tulane.

Tackles — Frank Lasky, Florida; Herschel Turner, Kentucky.

Center — Pat Watson, Mississippi State.

Play Starting In Northeast Dixie Seniors

The first games start at 3 p.m. with Tallulah meeting Rayville there and Lake Providence traveling to Epps.

The following night Oak Grove goes to Delhi.

Mid-week games have Epps at Tallulah and Lake Providence at Oak Grove Thursday for afternoon games at 4. Rayville meets Delhi at 7:30 p.m. on the 31st.

The Northeast league will play a 15-game schedule with two games per week per team.

SECOND ROUND

Cloudburst Halts Play At Memphis

By DON MCLEOD

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A cloudburst that wouldn't quit washed out the third round of the $50,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament Saturday before half the field could tee off.

The first group out, a pair of amateurs, finished only nine holes. None of the leaders even made the first tee. Play was stopped once for more than an hour, resumed when the rain subsided, but lightning stopped the action after 45 more minutes.

Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., the leader after two rounds with 6-under-par 134, was in the day's last threesome and never left the locker room.

Tournament officials scheduled 36 holes for Sunday with players teeing off on the first and 10th hole at 7 a.m. The final round was set for 11:45 a.m.

However, the prospect was less than promising with more foul weather forecast. Further delay would push back qualifying for the National Open set for Monday.

Lema's comment on the weather was a shrugging, "At least I'll hold the lead for one more day."

Bruce Crampton of Sydney, Australia, and Jack McGowan of Largo, Fla., rested on their 137, and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and Bill Collins of Grossinger, N.Y., held a 138.

Other golfers under par after two rounds were Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., Jack Fleck of Los Angeles, Bob Goalby of Belleville, Ill., Johnny Potts of Gulf Hill, Miss., and South Africa's Gary Player, all at 139.

Charging Yankees Defeat Senators For 5th Straight

NEW YORK (AP)—The charging New York Yankees won their fifth straight and their 10th in 11 games Saturday by whipping Washington 5-1 on the seven-hit pitching of Ralph Terry.

Tom Cheney, doing his best to pull the Senators out of a six-game losing tailspin, failed when his defense faltered in the four-run seventh inning. Three of the Yank runs were unearned. The Yanks added another run in the eighth on Joe Pepitone's ninth homer off relief man Pet Burnside.

With two out in the seventh, Cheney walked Hector Lopez. Clete Boyer doubled to left, scoring Lopez, on a line drive that third baseman Marv Breeding tipped with his glove but could not hold. When Don Osborne dropped Terry's pop fly near the mound for an error, Boyer scored.

The Senators, still trying to win one for new manager Gil Hodges who took over Thursday, have lost seven in a row and 13 of their last 14 in their plunge into the American League cellar.

Washington bunched three of its hits in the ninth for its only run when Lock, Ken Retzer and pinch hitter Dick Phillips singled.

Cubs Finally Beat Houston With Jackson

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs won their first game from Houston, 4-1, Saturday behind veteran Larry Jackson's stout pitching. The Cubs' triumph snapped a five-game losing streak against the Texans.

Jackson, turning his 11th start into fifth route-going performance, yielded five hits to chalk up his sixth victory amon; 11 decisions. Houston's only run off Jackson came in the sixth, and it was unearned.

Dick Farrell, who pitched a 5-hit shutout in his only other stand against the Cubs, drew the loss. It was his fifth among nine decisions.

Jackson, who made 96 pitches, scored the third of the Chicagoans' four runs as the Cubs put together solo scoring spurts in the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth innings.

Ken Kubbs, who drove in two runs, powered Lou Brock across in the third. Andre Rodgers' single got Ron Santo, who walked, across in the fourth.

Jackson's leadoff single set the stage for the third run in the fifth, and this was the result of Hubbs' second productive single after Brock sacrificed.

Russell Sage Is Developed

With Sam Hanna

Public Picnic Areas

It's a long time to the hunting seasons, much to the regret of a lot of us, but the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area is about to take on an added feature for the summer outdoorsmen.

Jack Rushing, supervisor for the public - owned game management area located 10 miles east of Monroe in Lafourche Swamp, informs us that the barpits on U.S. 80 will be cleared of debris.

Nature restocks the pits each year with bass, bream and white perch, so it's no wonder they get so much play from fishermen, especially since the pits are easy to get to.

But the areas around the pits are just a bit too wooly for the family picnic, what with treetops overgrown with briars and bushes, not to mention the tall grass everywhere.

So the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission will put a crew on the pits this summer, clear up the debris, mow the grass and thus create public areas for picnicing and fishing.

It should be a terrific asset to a public area that is already an asset to the Monroe section.

We mention the commission's plans at this time, because we believe the public should be reminded ever so often that the Russell Sage area has a great future.

The commission completed its turkey restocking program in the area several weeks ago, releasing about a dozen wild birds that will in time grow into a healthy population — provided they are protected.

Jack Rushing says he sees huge deer tracks in several parts of the 15,000-acre area that extends from Wham Brake, running through a part of Morehouse, past U.S. 80 in Ouachita to highway 15 on the Richland line. Last year the biggest deer in Northeast Louisiana were killed on the Russell Sage area.

But the trouble was a shortage of hunters. Too many sportsmen drove past the bucks in a hurry to get to the scrawny deer in the Delta.

Besides the promising deer herd, the Russel Sage area has always been good for squirrel hunting. Last year was probably the biggest year ever when about 10,000 squirrels were killed there, according to biologist Cliff Williams.

The commission still has not formulated its final plans for waterfowl impoundment areas, but at present the plans call for the impoundment of 2-3,000 acres in the Gourd Bayou section on the lower end.

Original plans called for flooding the north end, but the commission ran into property boundary difficulties. At any rate the impoundment areas for waterfowl should round out the area for a well-balanced menu of hunting.

Meantime, before the summer is over, the barpit areas along U.S. 80 will be put into top shape for the picnic and family outing.

Russell Sage is well worth the $440,000 that the state paid — money that came from the Russell Sage Fund and not from the taxpayers' pocket.

What with the clearing of our woodlands, in time to come it will be an outdoor goldmine.

Public Boat Ramps

Director L. D. Young has announced that 30 parishes are eligible for the construction of boat launching ramps under the Accelerated Public Works Act in Congress — not to be confused with the Legislature now in session.

Young issued a statement which explained that over $300,000 in federal funds have been made available to Louisiana for fish and wildlife projects and that the state is matching this amount with funds from the commission, the Department of Highways and the Department of Public Works.

Federal funds have been designated for Northeast Louisiana parishes including Catahoula, Concordia, East Carroll, Franklin, Madison, Tensas and West Carroll.

Other parishes include Acadia, Allen, Ascension, Avoyelles, East Feliciana, Evangeline, Lafayette, Livingston, Natchitoches, Red River, Sabine, St. John, St. Martin, Vernon, Washington, Webster, Grant, Rapides, Jefferson, Orleans, St. Bernard, Tangipahoa and St. Landry.

Young said that location of the ramps will be contingent upon the availability of publicly owned lakeshore sites of two to four acres in size under the APW program.

The commission is proceeding with plans to start the program, which may cover all 64 parishes before it is completed.

Opera Bill Killed

In Baton Rouge this past week, the House appropriations committee deferred action on a bill to appropriate $2½-million to convert the Wild Life & Fisheries headquarters into an opera house.

The bill was sponsored by Mrs. Edwin H. Blum, representing a group in New Orleans interested in opening an opera house for the Crescent City.

But Mrs. Blum's group was opposed by the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce, since the city has in its long-range capital improvement program plans for an opera house.

Mrs. Blum found the road rocky in Baton Rouge.

While the merits of her bill may not have been so good, we hope that someday the Legislature will make a move and get the wildlife commission out of New Orleans and in Baton Rouge where it rightfully belongs.

The commission is presently located in the Old Civil Courts building in the French Quarter — of all places for wildlife of the outdoor nature.

Several times there have been efforts to move the commission to Baton Rouge so that its personnel would be in a better position to work with the other departments of the state, and so that the people could get to the headquarters easier.

Fishing Seasons Close

Commercial fishing seasons closed May 15th on Cheniere Lake and Bayou DeSiard, according to an announcement this week from the Cheniere Lake Commission.

Commercial fishermen are advised to turn their permits in to Jesse Brantly at Cheniere Lake or to the Ouachita Parish Police Jury office on the second floor of the Ouachita courthouse.

Fishermen are urged to do so immediately.

Incidentially, fishermen should know that commercial fishing will not be permitted in the barpits on the Russell Sage area without permits.

Seines and nets are not allowed.

Promoting Louisiana Outdoors

Maryland has come up with an idea that would be well for Louisiana to investigate. Users of Maryland's 1963 official highway have a full color, pictorial map of the state's wildlife resources that shows public hunting grounds, boat launching ramps, fishing lakes and ponds, and similar places of interest to resident and visiting sportsmen.

The highway map provides, in a large panel on the reverse side, a complete guide to the nature and location of facilities of the State's Department of Game and Inland Fish.

This would be good for Louisiana, especially since so many people are interested in promoting tourism in the state. At present the visitor to Louisiana would have trouble finding the fishing spots without personal assistance.

Little Man's Corner

The weather turned cool, but from all indications the little man made news afield.

Black Bayou at Monroe has been real good for white perch fishing and bream fishing too. B. T. Smith caught a pretty string of specs.

At Old River Lake in the Lake St. John area, Oscar Nugent caught the limit of bream. Bill Raines of Waterproof landed the limit of bream in Lake St. John.

From Vidalia, Guy Washington caught the limit of bream in Lake St. John. Jimmy Tullos got the limit of bass in Lake Concordia.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Billings of West Monroe landed the limit of bream in St. John while Percy May and Mrs. May got the limit of bass in Concordia.

Others having good luck in Concordia were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Bailey, Ferriday, Bill Strickland, Ferriday, and Walter Scott of Ferriday.

Cincinnati Takes Win Over Phillies

CINCINNATI (AP) — Daryl Spencer contributed four successive singles to Cincinnati's 12-hit assault Saturday when the Reds beat Philadelphia, 5-2.

Joe Nuxhall limited the Phils to six hits while three Philadelphia pitchers were unable to stop the Cincinnati assault that began in the first inning on Vada Pinson's single and two errors.

The Phils tied the score in the third on Tony Taylor's triple and Tony Gonzalez's safety.

Two singles and a force play put the Reds ahead again the same inning. They added another in the fourth on three singles in a row, but the Phils got that one back in the fifth on a single, a sacrifice and Gonzalez' single.

Frank Robinson drew a walk as he led off in the fifth, stole second, and scored on Spencer's third hit. Spencer drove in the Reds' final run in the seventh with another single that bounced off Jack Baldschun's shin.

Nuxhall, now 3-2, went all the way as the Reds picked up their first victory over Philadelphia. Art Mahaffey was the loser.

Causey Ups Average And A's Win, 9-2

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics scored five times before making an out in the first inning Saturday night and dealt the Los Angeles Angels their eighth loss in their last 10 games, 9-2.

Jerry Lumpe drove in three Kansas City runs with a homer and a single and Norm Siebern and newcomer Hector Martinez batted in two apiece.

Kansas City's Wayne Causey, leading the American League in hitting, went 2-for-5 and raised his average a point to .369.

Each side got a dozen hits. Right-hander Ed Rakow went five innings for Kansas City, allowing nine hits and both Angel runs, and scored his fifth victory in seven decisions. Dale Willis finished.

Mel Nelson, first of six Angel pitchers, took the loss.

Causey led off the first inning with a single and Gino Cimoli walked. Then Nelson threw to third too late after fielding a grounder by Ed Charles and the bases were loaded. The first two runs scored on a single by Siebern, the next two on a single by Lumpe and the fifth on a grounder by Martinez.

BEST PREP HIGH HURDLER IN STATE

Northeast Signs Roger Mann Of Fair Park To Track Pact

Louisiana's top high school high hurdler, Roger Mann of Fair Park, has signed a track scholarship with Northeast State college.

Mann is the fifth prep track star inked by Northeast State Coach Bob Groseclose this spring and all five are on the all-state track team released Saturday. The others are hurdler Fred Vogel of Neville of Monroe, West Monroe pole vaulter Paul Hobgood and two other Fair Park stars—half-miler Barry Harwell and quarter-miler Stefan Anderson.

Groseclose said, "I am very pleased to sign this boy. He has the same potential as Dalton LeBlanc."

LeBlanc who was signed by the Tribe, made the all-state track team in more events than any other man last year. And Mann has made it in more events this year than any other Louisiana prep trackster.

Mann was sought by nine college and universities in three states.

A versatile 17-year-old athlete, Mann made the all-state team in the high and low hurdles, the broad jump and the mile relay. He ran the state's fastest 120-yard high hurdles this year, 14.2, and has bests of 19.4 in the 180-yard low hurdles, 51.0 in the 440, 22-5½ in the broad jump and 6-0 in the high jump.

This season Mann was first in the high hurdles, second in the lows and broad jump and ran on the winning mile relay team in the state AAA meet. He was first in the high hurdles in the NORD Meet of Champions, first in the high hurdles in Fort Worth's Southwestern Recreation Meet, and first in the highs, second in the lows and second in the broad jump in the Southwestern Relays.

Last year Mann made the all-state team in the low hurdles.

The Fair Park athlete is also an outstanding archer. He is a three-time state champion in the intermediate class, was the Southern (13 states) champion in 1960 and second in the nation in 1961.

An excellent student, Mann is a member of the National Honor Society and plans to major in mathematics at Northeast State. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Mann of 3211 Jackson in Shreveport.

ROGER MANN, Fair Park's star hurdler, has signed a letter of intent with Northeast State. The athlete made the all-state team in more events — three — than any other trackman in Louisiana and had the state's best time in the 120-yard high hurdles this year, 14.2.

Athletics Trade Howser, Paves Way For Wayne

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians acquired Dick Howser, speedy Kansas City infielder, and catcher Joe Azcue in a trade with the Kansas City Athletics Saturday. The Indians gave up catcher Doc Edwards and what they said was a "substantial" sum of money.

The 26-year-old Howser made the American League All-Star team in his rookie year in 1961. He was sidelined by a cracked rib in April and has not played since.

Although he reportedly is back in shape, he has been benched because his replacement, Wayne Causey, hit a hot streak, leading the league in batting.

Bo Belinsky Shipped To Minor League 9

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lefthander Bo Belinsky, who achieved overnight fame by pitching a no-hitter a year ago this month, was shipped to the minor leagues Saturday night by the Los Angeles Angels.

Belinsky and Angel outfielder Ken Hunt were optioned to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League. At the same time, the Angels optioned catcher Ed Kirkpatrick to Nashville of the Sally League, signed veteran catcher Hank Foiles and purchased first baseman Charlie Dees from Hawaii.

Since he pitched his no-hitter against Baltimore Belinsky has frequently been in trouble with the Angels on two counts: his pitching and his nocturnal adventures.

This season, he had won only one game and lost seven. At one point last year, he had a 5-0 record. Since then, he has won only six games and has lost 17.

Belinsky was smiling when he emerged from Manager Bill Rigney's office after getting the bad news. He said he had no comment.

Rigney told newsmen:

"The reason this is being done is that we want these two fellows (Belinsky and Hunt) to go out and play, just play. As soon as this left-hander looks as though he can pitch the way we think he can, he'll be back."

Hunt, 28, led the Angels in runs batted in in 1961 with 84. Last season, he suffered a shoulder dislocation in May and missed almost the entire season. He had been used infrequently this year and was batting .157.

Belinsky, 26, got his only victory this season against the New York Yankees. In his last three starts, he walked 13 batters in eight innings.

Kirkpatrick, an 18-year-old bonus player, had been used mostly as a pinch-hitter by the Angels.

Foiles, 33, recently was released by the Cincinnati Reds. The Angels signed him as a free agent. Foiles appeared in 43 games with the Reds last season and batted .275, driving in 25 runs.

Dees, 26, led the Texas League in batting last season with a .348 average. He was hitting .364 for Hawaii.

McNabb Spotlights All-State Track Team; Locals Chosen

By JERRY BYRD
Shreveport Journal
(Written for the Louisiana Sports Writers' Association)

Ten runners, jumpers and throwers who broke all-time state records in their specialties are the headliners on a talent-laden Louisiana Sports Writers' Association 1963 All-State track and field team, with strong-armed Delman McNabb of Lake Charles High setting the pace.

McNabb tossed the javelin 231 feet, 1½ inches at the Class AAA state meet in Ruston May 10 to break the national interscholastic record by more than five feet.

Other proud owners of new state records are Jim MaGee of Byrd (Shreveport) with 1:55.3 in the 880 yard run, Fred Vogel of Neville (Monroe) with 19 seconds flat in the 180-yard low hurdles, Terry Esthay of LaGrange (Lake Charles) with 61'4½" in the shot put and Jack Pyburn of Byrd (Shreveport) with 173 feet, 11½ inches in the discus.

Less fortunate were Bobby Keasler of New Iberia and James Camhout of Chalmette in the 880, Tim Hall of Menard (Alexandria) and John Wurzburger of Mansfield in the discus and Joe Reding of Bossier in the shot put.

Firm Policy Wins In Aqueduct Run

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Barry Ryan's Firm Policy scampered off to a 4½-length triumph Saturday in the $55,200 Top Flight Handicap as the Meadow Stable's Cicada faltered under 128 pounds and staggered home third before a crowd of 53,331 at Aqueduct. King Ranch's pace-setting Tamarona was second, 2½ lengths ahead of Cicada, the 7-5 favorite.

Firm Policy, unbeaten in three 1963 starts, is the miss who has been tabbed as the most likely to challenge Cicada for the filly and mare championship in the East. Cicada has been the country's top filly as a 2-year-old in 1961 and again last year as a 3-year-old.

Jockey Manuel Ycaza, who began an enforced 10-day vacation Tuesday for interference during a race Friday, rode the bay 4-year-old daughter of Princequillo-White Cross who carried 125 pounds and bounced under the wire only two-fifths of a second slower than the track record set last September by Cicada.

The winner's time for the 1⅛ miles over a fast strip was 1 minute, 48 3-5 seconds in the 24th running of the race named for the famous C. V. Whitney filly of 30 years ago.

Bill Boland sent Tamarona onto the lead immediately and Firm Policy and Cicada, the latter ridden by Larry Adams, took up the chase around the clubhouse turn. Going down the long back stretch, it still was Tamarona, Firm Policy and Cicada in that order with the others in the field of seven strung out behind.

As Tamarona moved into the far turn with one-half mile to go, Ycaza turned Firm Policy loose on the outside and she began to close the gap. Adams also challenged with Cicada and the three came into the top of the home stretch across the track.

However, Firm Policy shot between the other two and took the lead drawing away with every stride and the weight told on Cicada. Tamarona carried only 111 pounds.

Firm Policy, second choice in the wagering, paid $5.70, $3.50 and $2.50. Tamarona returned $7.60 and $3.30 and Cicada $2.50 to show.

Ogden Phipp's St. Bernard was fourth, followed by Harbor View Farm's Royal Patrice, James Cox Brady's Upswept and Thomas F. White's Waltz Song. Frimanaha was a late scratch.

Three Dumas Brothers Play Roles In Win

The three Dumas brothers, Coot, Ike and Ragan, sparked a last inning rally which gave Sterlington a 3-1 victory over Brown-Rivers-Scogin Saturday night in an American Legion Amateur League tilt.

Sterlington trailed 1-0 going into the final frame.

Coot Dumas led off the inning with a single to left. Ike then hit a ground ball to the third baseman who threw wild at second, allowing both runners to reach base safely.

Then after both advanced a base on a wild pitch, brother Ragan, pinch hitting for T. L. Fuller, promptly dropped a perfect squeeze bunt down the third baseline to plate Coot. With Ike on third and Ragan on first, Sephan walked and McLeland was hit by a pitch forcing in the go-ahead run.

Pitcher Terry Reeves laid another bunt down third and Ragan Dumas scored as Reeves was thrown out at first.

Brown-Rivers-Scogin had taken an early lead in the first inning when Sonny Milletello walked to start things off. Ray Jones bunted for a base hit, moving Milletello to second. Robert Perkins forced Jones at second but Milletello went to third. Bob Hibbard then singled to right scoring Milletello with the losers only run.

Reeves, who went all the way for Sterlington, was the winning hurler. He struck out 11 men and allowed five hits.

Outboard Racing Meet Is Slated At Clear Lake

CLEAR LAKE (Special) — The Clear Lake Outboard Racing Championship will be held here today and a large group of professional racers are expected to gather for the event.

A big crowd is expected for the 19 race affair that attracted some 3,000 spectators last year.

All but three of the races will be limited to the professionals who are members of the National Outboard Association, and cash prizes will be awarded to the winners.

This program is sponsored by the Ouachita Boat Club, which will give all proceeds to the club's program to promote water safety.

The opening ceremonies will start at 11:45 a.m. and the races on the mile and a quarter course should continue until 6 p.m.

Cecil Johnson will be the race captain for this year's races.

In addition to the races an intermission program which includes a kite act, barefoot skiers, skindivers, and skydivers will be seen.

Legion Games Start At 8 p.m. Instead Of 7:30

American Legion Amateur League baseball games will start at 8 p.m. instead of 7:30 p.m. beginning with Monday's game at the American Legion stadium.

The Dixie Senior League games will be played at Legion stadium at 5:15 p.m. Friday and Saturday with doubleheaders on Wednesdays. Admission is free.

This is the first year for the Dixie Senior League operation and the winner of the league will represent Monroe as host team in the Dixie Senior World Series to be held here August 12-17. Nine southern state champion teams will play in the Series. West Monroe also will be represented.

Saturday — Monroe Rotary vs. National Guard.

WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS

Notre Dame Celebrating 800th Birthday This Year

PARIS — The eight hundredth anniversary of the world's most famous cathedral—Notre Dame de Paris — is being celebrated this year in the "City of Light" beginning June 16.

On that date, which coincides approximately with the opening of the summer tourist season in Paris, a week of civic and religious ceremonies and events commemorating the eighth centennial of the Gothic architectural masterpiece will begin.

Many of the events will be open to the public. They include church music concerts, historical birthday celebration on the large square in front of the cathedral, and special masses within presided over by the Vatican Legate, Paolo Cardinal Marella, and other dignitaries of the Holy See.

Of special interest is the mass scheduled for the opening ceremonies on June 16 which will be sung in the seldom - heard Parisian Liturgical Rite, first introduced at the end of the 15th century, but abandoned after the Council of Trent.

On the final evening of the celebration, June 23, visitors to Notre Dame will see recreated for them much of the pageantry of the Cathedral's past. Through the amazing use of stereophonic sound and brilliant lighting techniques, known as "Sound and Light," pages from the cathedral's history will be opened to viewers in spectacular fashion.

While millions of tourists have already visited Notre Dame, it is fitting to recall some of her historical highlights for the many Americans who will visit Paris this year.

The "Parish church of the history of France," as Notre Dame is sometimes referred to, stands on a site which has been religious ground for twenty centuries. In Caesar's time, a Gallo - Roman temple stood on the Ile de la Cite in the heart of Paris. Subsequently, a Christian basilica and a Romanesque church occupied the site. In 1160, Maurice de Sully, Bishop of Paris, decided to transform the two large, dilapidated churches into a splended monument worthy of the city of Paris.

Construction was begun in 1163 and continued until 1345. A fervent tidal wave of faith had swept over France at that time and citizens representing all walks of life, from kings to lords, from merchants to humble folks, joined in its building. Despite the 182 years required to complete it, the imposing structure gives an impression of perfect unity and harmony. Oddly enough, the architect who designed and supervised the early construction remains unknown.

Notre Dame survived medieval and renaissance Paris in its original form until the end of the 17th century. During the Middle Ages, French kings left from the cathedral for the Crusades, and they, like most succeeding monarchs, up to and including Henri IV, passed Notre Dame on the way to their interment at Saint Denis.

The cathedral has witnessed countless vivid and moving ceremonies, including some famous and interesting marriages. Mary, Queen of Scots, married Francois, Dauphin of France, at Notre Dame and Henri de Navarre, later Henri IV, who had not then abjured Protestantism, was wedded to Marguerite de Valois at the cathedral's portals.

Life began and ended around the cathedral. Newborn babies were abandoned on the grounds and condemned criminals made their final confessions outside the doors before being executed with boiling oil, molten lead or hot wax and resin at the nearby Place de Greve.

Starting around 1700, Louis XIV began "restyling" Notre Dame. He demolished the high alter, the pews, and the bas-reliefs at the entrance to the apse and the tombs, so that much of what today's visitor sees is the work of 19th century restoration. In addition, during Louis XIV's reign, the old stained glass windows were replaced, baroque statues were installed, and much of the exterior sculpture was hacked away to provide "balance."

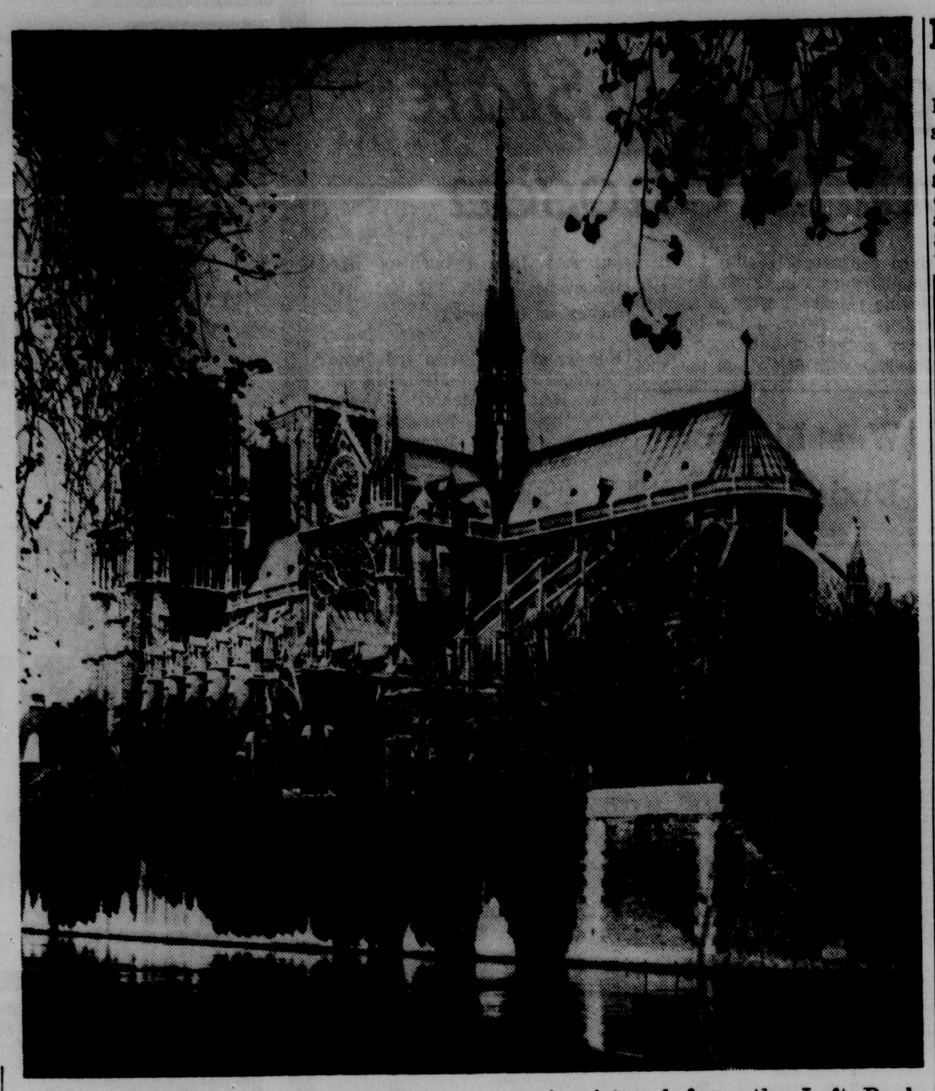

This restyling changed to blatant destruction during the Revolution. The interior was pillaged; the statues of the Kings of Judah and Israel, mistaken by the populace for the monarchs of France, were roped and pulled crashing to the ground; the building was designated Chief Temple of Reason in the Republic of France, with the prima ballerina of the Paris Opera installed as Goddess of Reason and the corps de ballet offering expressionistic dances to Joy and Culture and Truth. These rites were never repeated, however, since the organizers were beheaded shortly thereafter and the church was put to use as a wine depot for military hospitals.

Notre Dame was returned to the Church in 1802 and was partially restored for the memorable coronation of Napoleon in 1804, but the indignities suffered by the old cathedral in the 18th century had reduced it to little more than a skeleton of its past glory.

It remained for Victor Hugo in 1831 to make an impressioned plea to "awaken in Frenchmen the love of their national architecture." In his famous "Notre Dame de Paris," which paved the way for the cathedral's restoration by Viollet-le-Duc in 1841, Hugo wrote: "Notre Dame, radiantly beautiful, rises like a great stone flower from a mass of flat roofs, gray or blue; the majestic outlines of its towers stand out in their immensity against the horizon. Under every caprice of the hour or the light . . . , the noble cathedral appears in shining beauty and unsurpassed splendor."

Hugo's novel left readers with an intimate affection for the mighty edifice which has continued to the present day. A trip to the towers — the towers which recall the mythical hunchback, Quasimodo, and his tragic heroine, the gypsy Esmeralda — provides visitors with a magnificent view of the center of Paris and a face-to-face encounter with the famous Notre Dame gargoyles, those grotesque figures of half-human beasts, birds and devils which are simultaneously repellent and fascinating.

From the benediction given to the Crusaders, to the Te Deum of the 1944 Liberation, Notre Dame de Paris has always inspired men. Many have spoken great words about her but none has matched what she herself has to say. In the Paris of today, as in the Paris of eight centuries ago, Notre Dame de Paris is an awesome island of peace and refuse soaring above the turbulent stream of life.

THE MAJESTIC Cathedral of Notre Dame de Paris, which this year celebrates her eight hundredth anniversary, is pictured from the Left Bank quays directly across the River Seine.

Hearing Slated About Marshals

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—U. S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox of Jackson has set for Monday a hearing on a motion to require the federal government to release the names of marshals who fought the mob at the University of Mississippi Sept. 30.

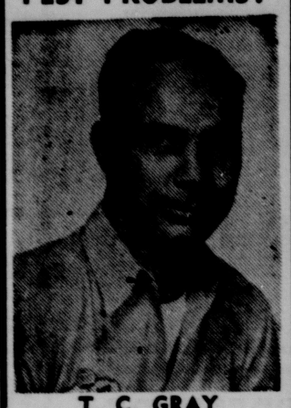

Judge Cox set the hearing on a motion by Cyril T. Faneca Jr. of Handsboro, who sought $40,000 from Chief Marshal James McShane and the federal government, charging his rights were violated by marshals during the riots.

Water Project Discussion Set At Sterlington

STERLINGTON — Mayor J. B. Milstead and the Sterlington Board of Aldermen have called a town meeting for Monday to discuss an engineers' report on planned water improvements.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the A. L. Smith School.

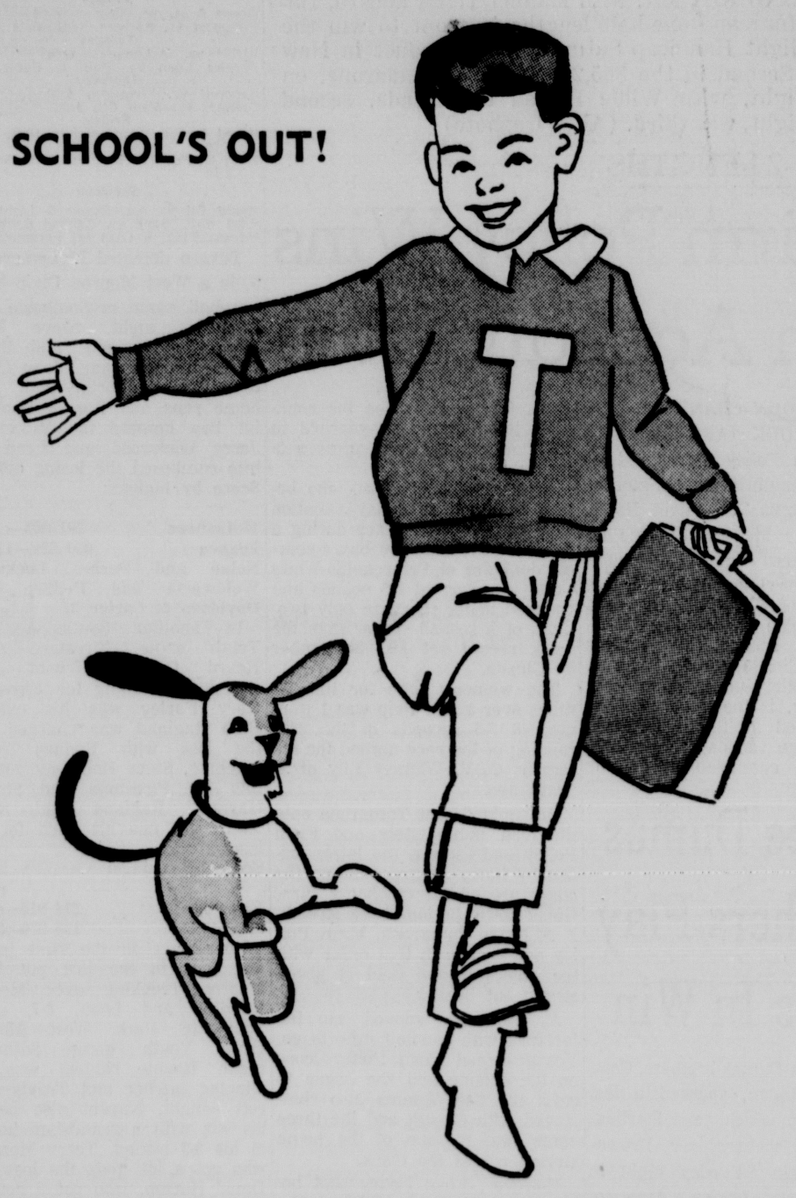

The report calls for a proposed $425,000 revenue bond issue, Mayor Milstead said Saturday night.

The mayor added, "The town of Sterlington is to be congratulated on its forward look in development. However, no town or community can develop and progress without adequate water and sewerage facilities."

At this time of year, with scholastic requirements completed and school work involving nothing more arduous than graduation rehearsals, seniors are free to give their attention to parties and frivolities. A round of affairs ranging from luncheons to swimming, from dances to conversational hours, has been planned for Neville seniors during these, their last days in high school.

Monday afternoon, JUANITA and CLAY WILSON were hosts at a swimming party at their home on Pargoud boulevard. Named guests of honor were SUSAN SPERRY, KATHY M'SHERRY, JIMMY HOWARD, JUDY ABINGTON, and NANCY CROSSLAND, with about fifty members of the senior class invited to share the occasion.

Arriving guests were greeted by a sign reading "Welcome Aboard S. S. Graduation . . . Wilson Line." A red carpet, shipboard signs and pennants created a nautical atmosphere on the patio. Swimming and snacking filled the hours from two untill five.

All senior girls were invited to a "coke and goodie" party honoring Susan Sperry at the home of JEAN BROWN on Tuesday morning. Guests wore shorts and arrived at ten - thirty for cards and conversation until noon. Jean decorated her entrance and dining room with shasta daisies and ivy. Daylilies were used in the den. With bottled drinks, she served miniature sweet rolls, assorted sandwiches, chocolate and lemon squares.

HOLLY SUE BAYNE was honored with a luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club on Tuesday. Hostesses for this party were ALDA GRAVES and her daughters, LOUISE THEUS, SUE STUBBS, DOT BREARD, and JEAN MYATT. Holly and eight senior girls were seated at the table in the bay window, which was centered with an arrangement of yellow lilies in a black container. Girl graduates ornamented the placecards. Holly received a gift of a ceramic figure of a girl in cap and gown.

Following Class Day observance at Neville Wednesday morning, senior girls were invited to a conversational hour at the home of CHICK LEWIS on Riverside drive. LOUISE LEIGH was cohostess at this party, which honored senior CYNTHIA LEIGH. A mass arrangement of yellow daylilies decorated the entrance, with magnolias used throughout the house. Shasta daisies were placed on the dining room table. Bottled soft drinks were served, with open faced sandwiches, cheese straws, and cinnamon sticks. The hostesses were assisted in serving by their daughters, JUNE M'HENRY and DODO FAUST.

'Twas chilly for swimming on Wednesday, but seniors enjoyed boating and luncheon at the home of FRANCES ADCOCK. Co-hostesses were CHARLOTTIE DENT, FANNIE LOU HAILE, and MARGE MULLENS. Daylilies in large baskets brightened the patio. In the carport, where refreshments were served, bottled drinks were iced in large black pots. A red checked cloth covered the table which was centered with a brown crockery bowl filled with daylilies. Box lunches containing fried chicken, potato salad, hot rolls, and Brownies were served to forty - six seniors.

Neighbors honored ANN EDMONDSON and CHERRY CHAPMAN at a patio party Wednesday afternoon. Hostesses were VIRGINIA PIERCE, DOT HYLAND, ETOILE BALLARD, and KITTY TALBOT, at whose home the party was held. Forty - five girls gathered on the terrace, where decorations included a figure of a wise old owl "dressed" in mortarboard and glasses.

A pink and white theme was carried out on the refreshment table, with a centerpiece of pink roses and gardenias. Magnolias encircled the punch bowl. Goodies passed included chicken salad and bell pepper sandwiches, cookies, dips, and salted nuts.

Complimenting her granddaughter, KAY JONES, FRANCES HODGES entertained with a tea at her home Wednesday afternoon. Kay wore a beige linen suit as she received guests in the living room, which was decorated with magnolias and roses. All senior girls were invited to this party.

Magnolias centered the dining room table, while in the family dining room, the centerpiece of black eyed Susans and a tiger carried out Neville colors. Those assisting in serving were ALICE ATKINSON, JEANNETTE RODDY, MARION CRANDALL, GRETA JONES, CYNTHIA STATHAM, BESSIE FOSTER, and BEA CRETNEY.

Luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club was the compliment of BESS COURTMAN for Neville senior LATINA BONNER. Nine guests were seated at the pink-covered table in the main dining room. Bess used ginger lilies and pink and green variegated foliage for her centerpiece. The menu included melon ball cocktail, tomato stuffed with chicken salad, finger sandwiches, and a choice of desserts.

On Friday, MAE WALSWORTH invited eight seniors for luncheon at her home, honoring her granddaughter, ELAINE SPENCER. Pink roses were used to center the table and to ornament placecards. For dessert Mae served small individual cakes iced with "NHS" in black and "63" in gold.

GAY HARGROVE was named guest of honor at a party Friday afternoon from three until five. Hostesses were her grandmother, BELLE HUSTED, and aunts CAROLYN SHELTON and MARY ALICE HUSTED, in whose home the party was held. The Neville colors were carried out in floral decorations of daylilies, black eyed Susans, and daisies throughout the house. Refreshment tables were set up in dining room and den. With punch, the hostesses served miniature chocolate and lemon pies, fudge squares, sand tarts, and chicken salad sandwiches.

A hillbilly party honored the JACK MADDENS last Saturday night at the home of the JOHN MULLENS. The Maddens are soon to move to the North Carolina mountains, so bid them farewell hill style at this party. Theme of the party was set by invitations, hand - printed on brown paper saying "Y'all come" with a picture of a hillbilly. Inside, original limericks told time, place, and honorees. Decorations mountain style included a figure of a moonshiner standing beside a churn filled with magnolias on the back porch. Individual tables were covered with checked cloths and centered with kerosene lamps.

On the buffet was a little brown jug holding an old fashioned bouquet. The menu served to forty guests included ham, grits, greens, black eyed peas, sliced onions and tomatoes. For dessert, again mountain style, each guest brought a cake layer. These were assembled, in varying assortments of flavors, at the party.

Also honoring Pat Madden was a luncheon planned by CLAIRE BROWN and BETTY B. JACKSON at the Jackson home on Friday. Eight guests were seated at a table laid with pink placemats and centered with pink roses and gardenias. Crab meat Mornay green beans Oriental, pickled peaches, rolls and lemon refrigerator cake comprised the menu.

Just because it's spring, the STAN BAGWELLS and ED SEYMOURS, JR., entertained with open house at the Bagwell home on Thursday. 'Twas an evening just cool enough to encourage guests to venture into the torch-lit gardens. Luau lights and hurricane candles were placed in flower beds at the entrance and in the back yard.

Inside, a yellow and white theme was carried out in appointments. The dining table was covered with a pale yellow cloth and centered with a candelabra-epergne overflowing with yellow roses and gardenias. Yellow tapers burned at each side. A second refreshment table was set up in the den which overlooked the gardens. Here the centerpicce was of yellow pom poms, yellow daisies, and gardenias, used with white candles. The fireplace was filled with a copper brazier holding ferns. Included on the buffet were Swedish meatballs, ham, California dip, cheese straws, and crispy peanut sticks.

An unusual ballet scene was presented last evening at the Clarice and Goldah Roan recital of the dance. Tiny wands lighted by batteries were used, with dancers flickering the lights on and off to give the effect of stars in the twilight. Intermediate dancers performed to Variations de Classique of Chopin's "Valse Brilliante"; advanced students to "Visions of the Dance."

Speaking of graduates, and all the advice given to them at this season, one is reminded of how Shakespeare said it. Here, from "Hamlet," are lines spoken by Polonius to Laertes as he goes forth into the world:

There, my blessing with you!
And these few precepts in thy memory
See thou character. — Give thy thoughts no tongue,
Nor any unproportion'd thought his act.
Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar.
The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel;
But do not dull they palm with entertainment
Of each new-hatched, unfledged comrade. Beware
Of entrance to a quarrel; but being in,
Bear't that the opposed may beware of thee.
Take each man's censure, but reserve thy judgement.
Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not expressed in fancy; rich, not gaudy:
For the apparel oft proclaims the man.
Neither a borrower nor a lender be,

In appreciation to the outgoing president, Mrs. James King, the chapter presented her with the past president's pin.

Pascal Norris was the guest speaker for the evening. His topic of discussion was the "Supreme Court Decision on Prayer."

MRS. CLARENCE CLEVELAND NORRELL

Norrell-Phillips Wedding Solemnized By Candlelight

Solemnized Saturday, May 25 in Trinity Baptist Church was the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Martha Ann Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie D. Phillips, West Monroe, and Clarence Cleveland Norrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Norrell, Monroe.

An arch entwined with ivy and small white flowers, flanked by baskets of white gladioli and four candelabra holding white tapers formed a background for the ceremony. Rev. James B. White performed the double ring vows at 7 p.m., following appropriate wedding music by Mrs. E. D. North, organist and Sonny Franks, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace, designed with square neckline, long tapered sleeves and bouffant tiered skirt, which swept to a chapel train. Sequins embellished the bodice and upper tier of the skirt. A regal double queen's crown of open work pearl scallops and lace petals held her fingertip veil of illusion. She wore a diamond pendant, a gift of the groom and carried a bouquet of white roses, accented by turquoise ribbon and net atop a white Bible.

Miss Mickie Nasif, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a gown of blue brocade with matching blue rose-shaped headdress, and white accessories. Her bouquet was a nosegay of white pompons with blue ribbon streamers. Bridesmaid, Miss Ina Rae Gaston, wore a pink brocade dress with matching pink headdress in rose shape and carried a nosegay of white pompons with pink ribbons.

Miss Terri Lynn Norrell, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl and wore a frock of pink brocade with matching headband and white accessories. She carried a white wicker basket of pink pompons and ribbons.

Serving as best man was Airman Third Class Charles E. Phillips, brother of the bride. Ushers were Jimbo Fletcher and Larry White and candlelighters were Billy Norrell and Wayne Norrell, nephews of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Phillips was wearing a blue lace gown with beige accessories and a corsage of blue tinted pom chrysanthemums. Mrs. Norrell, mother of the groom, wore a blue embroidered serrona dress with white accessories and a corsage of matching blue pompons.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the choir rooms of the church. The bride's table was covered with a pink cloth, overlaid with white net and held a centerpiece of pink roses, flanked by twin candelabra. Bouquets of pink and white spring flowers were used in profusion about the room. Mrs. J. H. Norrell, sister-in-law of the groom, served the wedding cake and Mrs. N. G. Nasif aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. Miss Linda Case distributed rice bags. Mrs. Kenneth Slocum presided at the guest book.

For a wedding trip to Pensacola, Florida the bride changed into a turquoise three-piece cotton knit suit with turquoise and white stripe blouse, white accessories and the corsage from her bouquet. The couple will establish a home here upon their return.

The bride is a graduate of West Monroe high school where she was active in Rebellettes and The Thespian Society. Mr. Norrell graduated from West Monroe high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College and Louisiana Business College.

DANGLES RETURN

Those long, long necklaces that sometimes get caught in typewriter keys, on doorknobs and by grasping hands of infants are back in style again.

The beads are all colors and all sizes, but the ropes are consistently long. Since this is a Coco Chanel season once more, the trend is natural.

MISS MARY ALTA SHAMBLIN

Miss Mary Alta Shamblin Engaged To Houston Man

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Shamblin of Rayville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Alta to Richard Perry Cate of Houston, Texas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard C. Cate of Monterrey, Mexico.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, August 17 and will be solemnized in Grace Episcopal Church of Monroe.

Miss Shamblin, a graduate of Sullins College in Bristol, Va., received her B.A. degree in psychology from Sophie Newcomb College in New Orleans. She is presently with the personnel department of Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. in Houston.

Mr. Cate, originally from Chattanooga, Tenn., received a Bachelor of Architecture degree from Monterrey Institute of Technology in Monterrey, Mexico. He is now associated with an architectural firm in Houston.

Dolan-Barry Vows Slated

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Barry of Portland, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Martha Rose to Frank Nash Dolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dolan of Crossett.

Miss Barry attended Henderson State Teachers College and teaches in the Crossett public schools. Mr. Dolan is a graduate of Southern State College and is employed at the Crossett Paper mill.

The wedding is planned for June 22 at 4 p.m. in Portland Baptist Church.

Penwomen To Attend Writers Conference

Members of the North Louisiana Branch of the National League of American Penwomen concluded their current season when they met Saturday, May 18 for luncheon at the Lotus Club. The president, Mrs. Gene Biegenwald conducted the final business session until the fall season.

Main topic of discussion was on the forthcoming Deep South Writers and Artists Conference in Lafayette June 6, 7, 8 and 9. Members planning to attend are Mrs. Roland Brown, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. E. E. Lawson and Mrs. Biegenwald.

The inclusion on the program of several well known writers, publishers, artists as well as two national officers of the Penwomen adds interest to the event, which will be held at the University of South Louisiana.

Achievements listed for the past two months include ten paintings sold by Mrs. W. C. Oliver; two paintings sold by Mrs. James and one short story sold by Mrs. Biegenwald.

Those present were Mrs. W. C. Oliver, Mrs. Roland Brown, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. W. E. McCoy, Mrs. O. G. Squires, Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. Nell Grigsby, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Mrs. Biegenwald and one guest, a member - at-large from Oak Grove, Mrs. T. N. Pulley.

Miss Barbara Roberson, Fiance Plan July Vows

July 12 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Barbara Roberson and Carroll Brantley of Farmerville, whose engagement is announced today. The bride-elect is the daugher of Mrs. Ina Mae Roberson of Farmerville and Earl Roberson of Monroe. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James Brantley, also of Farmerville.

The wedding will take place at the Farmervile Church of Christ at 7 p.m. with F. C. Bailey performing the ceremony.

Miss Roberson has chosen Mrs. Stein Baughman Jr., to serve as matron of honor and bridesmaids will be Miss Sharon Brantley, sister of the future bridegroom and Miss Linda Reid, cousin of the bride - elect. Gary Hayes will attend his cousin as best man and chosen as groomsmen - ushers are Gary Roberson, brother of the bride-elect; Billy Anderson and Jimmy Norris, of West Monroe, cousin of the bridegroom.

MISS BARBARA ROBERSON

Miss Tullos, Don DeVille Exchange Wedding Vows

A gold fan arch flanked by candle trees and baskets of white gladioli, tied with yellow and white bows, against a background of seven - branched candelabra formed a setting in Calvary Baptist Church for the wedding of Miss Billie Carolyn Tullos and Don Frederick DeVille. Rev. Leon Ivey performed the double ring ceremony Friday, May 17 at 7 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Tullos and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Berwick DeVille, all of Monroe.

Mrs. Elaine Browning, organist and Larry Kulcke, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle. The bodice featured a Sabrina neckline accented with brillants and the bouffant skirt, worn over crinolines was highlighted with a tiered lace panel in front and panier lace overskirt. Her tiered veil of bridal illusion cascaded from a white cabbage rose headpiece accented with valley lilies and illusion ivy leaves. A single strand of pearls was her only jewelry and she carried a yellow-throated white orchid, encircled with fleur d'amour and yellow roses on a white Bible.

Mrs. Sybil Hicks, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Dee Barlow, Miss Glenda DeVille, sister of the groom and Miss Claudia Carter. They wore identical gowns of yellow taffeta mist, styled with low scalloped necklines and full skirts. Their headpieces were short illusion veils attached to roses of matching fabric and they were matching pumps and white gloves. The attendants carried bouquets of yellow and white Marguerite daisies surrounding a single large Killian daisy, backed with yellow net and English ivy.

Mr. DeVille attended his son as best man. Serving as ushers were Jimmy McGuffie, Ralph Roberts and Claudis Miley. Candlelighters were Larry DeVille and Mike Ellerbe.

Mrs. Tullos, mother of the bride, chose for the occasion a beige lace sheath with bone shoes and bag and hat of light green organza. Her corsage was a green cymbidium orchid. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. DeVille wore a pale blue lace dress with white accessories and a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

A reception was held in the church social room following the ceremony. Yellow candles arranged with fleur d'amour and English ivy formed the central decor for the bride's table. Miss Edna Dean presided at the guest book and tea girls were Misses Linda Tullos, Cherry Barlow and Clara Dean.

The bride's traveling costume was a two - piece silk linen suit with which she wore a yellow hat and white patent accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home at 126 Sabine Drive in Monroe.

REHEARSAL SUPPER

A rehearsal supper for the bridal party was held May 15 at the Olin Cafeteria. The table was decorated with bouquets of pink majestic daisies and white candles on either side of a miniature bride and groom. For the occasion the bride - elect wore a beige ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

MR. AND MRS. DON FREDERICK DEVILLE

Tywannia White Is Bride Of Richard W. Burgoyne

Miss Tywannia Olline White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. White, 314 Elmwood Drive, West Monroe, became the bride of Richard W. Burgoyne, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Burgoyne, 1311 Milton Ave., Monroe, on Saturday, May 18.

The small family wedding was solemnized at 6 p.m. in Jesus the Good Shepherd Catholic Church with Father Jordan Schell, OFM, performing the double ring vows. A white satin prie dieu flanked by baskets of white gladioli and stock against a background of candelabra holding white lighted tapers, entwined with greenery formed the altar decorations.

Escorted to the altar by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie, designed with fitted bodice, etched with lace appliques and a long bell skirt which terminated in a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was held in place by a tiara of drop pearls and she carried a bouquet of white fleur d'amour centered with a yellow-throated white orchid and satin streamers.

Mrs. Charles White, sister-in-law of the bride, served as matron of honor and Miss Doll Burgoyne, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of pink peau de soie, styled with fitted bodices, round necklines and bell skirts. Their headpieces were prayer veils attached to wedding ring hats of pink peau de soie, etched with pearls. They carried crescent bouquets of pink pompons.

William Bilbo, Magnolia, Miss., attended Mr. Burgoyne as best man and groomsman was William L. McKay, Monroe. Serving as ushers were Edward S. Harper, Tracy Moore and Joseph E. Wheeler.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Stag Room at the Paragon Club. Central arrangement of the long table covered with a white net cloth was of pink pompons in a crystal cupid epergne flanked by pink tapers. At one end Miss Sandra Jolissaint presided at the crystal punch bowl and opposite Mrs. Joe Ford Jr. served the tiered wedding cake. Others assisting were Mrs. Judson Moore, Mrs. Roy Jones, and Mrs. Charles Bedgood. All wore corsages of white carnations.

The couple has established a home in Monroe.

INSTANT CURTAINS

If company's coming for the annual summertime visit and you think the guest bedroom could do with perking up, try "instant cafe curtains". They're made simply by using floral printed or solid color pillowcases and brass clips on cafe curtain rings which can be bought in any hardware store. Vat dyed sheets and pillowcases are safe in sunshine as well as in with the white wash in the washing machine. Neither bleach, detergent nor heat will change their locked-in color.

Rayville Couple To Wed

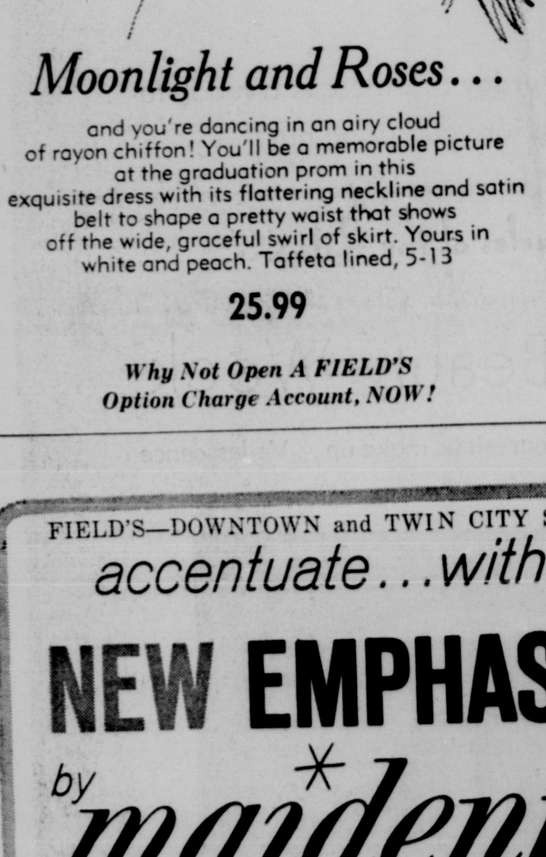

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Fortenberry of Rayville announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Alice Nannette to Jimmy Lee Higgins, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Higgins, also of Rayville.

The wedding will be solemnized Friday, June 7 at 6 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents. Chosen to serve as matron of honor is Mrs. Joyce Lynn Arrington and best man will be Thomas O. Arrington.

Miss Fortenberry is a senior at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston where she will receive her B.S. degree in home economics in August.

Sigma Tau White Rose Named At South Sea Ball

Fish nets formed a suspended ceiling across the center of the ballroom and formed a canopy over the bandstand. Centered on a side wall were Greek letters and crest of the national social fraternity. Huge hand-painted mermaids flanked the display. Enhancing the South Sea theme was an artificial lake at one end of the dance floor. Large rocks, shells and sand banked the blue water in which small fish swam. The stream was crossed by a bridge and in the background were two tall palm trees.

Feature of the evening was the presentation of Jan Hallmark, the fraternity's new White Rose, who will reign through the 1963-64 school year. Other nominees for the title were Sharon Thompson, Monroe and Penny Williams of New Iberia. Preceding the announcement, Douglas Williams introduced fraternity members and their dates.

Miss Hallmark, wearing a bouffant formal of white taffeta and net, was crowned by Mrs. Sonya Bowden Williams, last year's title holder. James McGough, immediate past president, presented her an arm bouquet of white roses and a loving cup with the inscription "Sigma Tau Gamma White Rose, 1963, Queen Jan Hallmark." Miss Thompson and Miss Williams also received loving cups appropriately engraved for the runners-up.

The guest book included names of fraternity members, their dates and special guests: James McGough and Sharon Ann Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. White, Tommy Perry and Bitsy Patrick, Charles Moak and Anne Armstrong, Ronnie Corbell and Kay Walsworth, Thurman Lovett and Barbara Conger, Scotty Thurston and Betty Steward, Clyde Arnold and Metha Smith, Rodney Nolan and Melanie McNatt, Virgil Vinson and Lea Skains, Michael Parkerson and Alice Butler, W. J. Erwin Jr. and Jimmie Lou Gaines.

Yelverton Bouderant and Pat Twiner, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Dupree, Robert Lowery and Judy Keller, Herb Kilpatrick and Mary Alice Pankey, Bob Fava and Jan Hallmark, John C. Studdard and Aurita Smith, Bill Bryant and Elaine LaCaze, Penny Pennebaker and Anne Pankey, Bill Bobo and Judy Wilhite, Wayne Verrett and Cheryl Saines, Danny Miller and Rebecca Pearson, Tom Claridge and Alma Huffman, Monte Joe Thailkill and Glenda Lambert, Jimmy Zambie and Jackie Hodgson, Norman Many and Carolyn Clements, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Laws, Gerald Williams and Sharon Thigpen.

Joe Allen Brownlee and Rita Diane Garrett, Joe Alewine and Brenda Younse, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Davis, Jerry Mehl and Faye Cannon, Joe Platt and Martha Parks, Bob Hutts and Linda Halley, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Williams, Joe M. O' Neal and Evelyn Purvis, Bill Hendrix and Linda Hendrix, Glen Lightsey and Penny Williams, Richard Foster and Glenda Case, Elbert Lozes and Sandra Roehl, Major and Mrs. George Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. David N. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Jones, Bill Barnett and Linda Rogers, Terry Martin and Renee Rousseau, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hallmark, Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Farari, Dr. Ethel Preston Trice, Billy Trice, Miss Alma Lufcy, Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, Jack Collins, Hershell Ryan, Jimmy Brown, Robert Tippit, Richard Rousseau and Camela Herne.

Wise Old Owl Theme Used At Graduate Party

A Wise Old Owl theme was carried out at the graduates party given by a quartet of hostesses Wednesday to honor Neville seniors, Miss Cherry Chapman and Miss Ann Edmondson. Hostesses for the gay party held at the Ralph Talbot home on Hilton Avenue were Mrs. Talbot, Mrs. T. J. Hyland, Mrs. P. R. Pierce and Mrs. L. M. Ballard.

Guests gathered on the covered patio where refreshment tables held assorted party foods. One table was centered with a large replica of a wise old owl, complete with mortar board and holding a diploma. An arrangement of small pink roses, gardenias and sweet peas in a milk glass bowl graced another table and nearby a large silver bowl, based with magnolia blossoms, held iced soft drinks. A mass arrangement of magnolias in a white planter completed the patio decorations.

Assisting in the serving courtesies were Miss Nancy Talbot and Miss Sally Pierce.

Synope Plantation Scene Chief Tusquahoma DAR

Synope Plantation, home of the O. N. Reynolds family, was the setting for a meeting of Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution on Saturday. May 18. Co-hostesess with Mrs. Reynolds were Mrs. H. H. Winters III, Mrs. W. G. Haynes Jr., Mrs. C. G. Wall Jr., Mrs. J. L. Harper, Mrs. Gordie Roy, Mrs. D. W. Rhodes Sr., and Mrs. Joe H. Rogers.

"Colonial Floral Arrangements" were illustrated and shown by Mrs. John P. Lewis, starting with the early Colonial wooden bowl with fruits through the antique cut glass periods which are still being used today. Similar arrangements were placed at vantage points throughout the house.

Mrs. Joseph B. Landreaux, program chairman, showed colored slides on the DAR Museum which is dedicated to the Colonial, Revolutionary and early Federal periods, prior to 1830, which are represented by collections in the Museum and State Rooms. The Museum, located in Washington D. C. was visited by the local delegation during the recent national convention in that city.

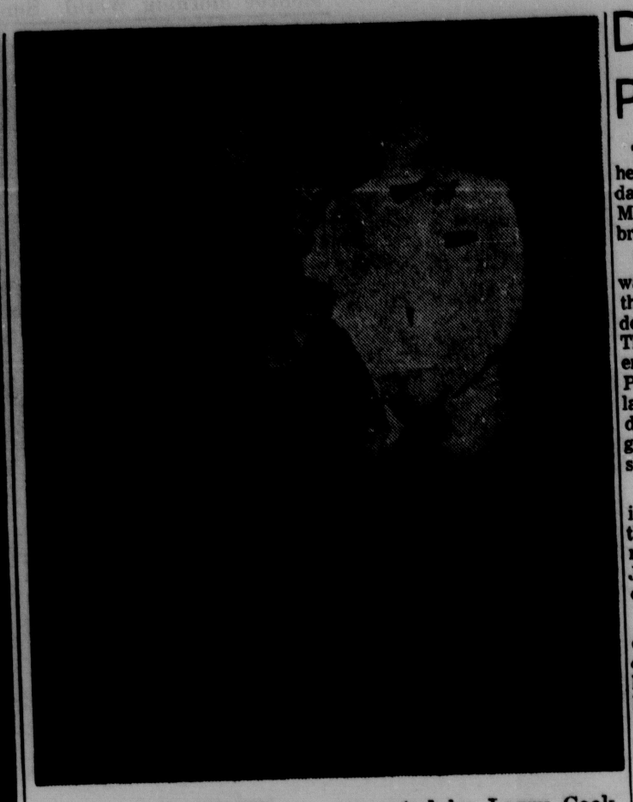

Mrs. J. Metris Bell Sr. gave a brief report on the recent Continental Congress, displaying clippings, books and post cards and also discussed resolutions adopted there.

Mrs. Herman M. McGuire, regent, introduced and welcomed into the chapter, two new members, Mrs. D. C. Golson and Mrs. L. G. Knox, after which a report of the recent state board meeting was given. The regent appointed Mrs. Knox as the new member for the year book committee and Mrs. Doris Carmichael as a member of the American History month comittee.

It was announced by Mrs. Katie McGee, in absence of the historical markers chairman, Mrs. Jennette Mahaffey, that the chapter had been granted permission from the National Historian General to erect a marker for Don Juan Filhiol and that a suitable site had been selected.

Mrs. H. C. Ervin, resolutions chairman, offered for approval, a resolution endorsed by Mrs. H. M. McGuire and Mrs. Joesph B. Landreaux, for the chapter to join with organizations throughout the country endoring a movement to proclaim Liberty throughout the land by universal bell ringing at 2 p. m. July 4 and each year thereafter.

Mrs. James L. McGuire submitted a petition for signatures of the daughters to the Congress of the United States requesting observance of National Flag Week July 1-7 annually. Mrs. McGuire announced that she had 26 petitions being signed by local residents.

TEKE Red Carnation Ball Based On Tahitian Theme

The large foyer held tall grasses and palms, and a fountain with floating magnolias and carnations attracted attention. Entrance to the ballroom was flanked by carved Tahitian statues. The interior of the archway was softened by red and green streamers caught by large rosettes of carnations.

Streamers in the same colors covered alternating sections of the walls and ceiling of the spacious room. The orchestra played underneath a bamboo hut, marked on either side by palm trees and masks of Tahitian tribal gods, while moss formed a soft canopy. A hand painted volcano, reflecting various colors from a revolving light, covered the back wall of the room, and tables at which couples sat bore decorative centerpieces of palm and magnolia leaves surrounding a pineapple.

Red carnation leis flown from Hawaii were presented the coeds instead of the usual corsages. In keeping with the theme were bongo drum favors inscribed "Teke Carnation Ball - 1963." These were presented to dates of the fraternity members by Dr. Edwin Stockton, faculty advisor, who also was given a gift by Teke president, Larry Cook, who represented the organization.

Members, pledges, and guests attending the dance included Mr. and Mrs. Roger Greer; Mr. and Mrs. Peter B. Mangum; Larry Cook and Judy Willis; Charles Cagle and Diane Benton; John O. It's simpler, cooler and prettier to use colored sheets both in and outside the covers for summer.

Dixieland Daylily Group Plans Open Garden Tours

The Dixieland Daylily Society held a covered dish supper Tuesday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gates, 1007 Meadowbrook Drive in West Monroe.

The daylily Meadowbrook Green was used for the centerpiece on the dinner table in the spacious den overlooking the rear garden. The den is in soft green with an entire wall covered with a living Philodendron vine growing in a large white urn. The colors indoors are coordinated with the garden viewed through wide glass sliding doors.

The Pappy Gates daylily with its rich tiger tones was used in the living room. The daylily arrangements were made by Mrs. J. G. Haynes and Mrs. A. R. Robertson.

Members toured the many colorful display beds of the newest daylilies by the world's foremost hybridizers as well as the Gates hybrids. The setting was especially created for the National Hemerocallis Society for convention visitors to view enroute to the National Convention to convene in Shreveport June 12-15.

Following the supper a brief business session was conducted by Mrs. Ruth Plant. Plans were made for the club to have open garden tours for the public on Sunday, June 2 and Sunday, June 9. Gardens on the tour will be open from 8 until 11 a.m. and 2 until 5 p.m. with the places to be announced later.

Members present were Mrs. Beulah Albright, Mrs. Ruth Pylant, Mrs. A. R. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Wyley Roach Sr., Mrs. Fred P. Mulhern Jr., Mrs. Rowena Mulhearn, Mrs. Fred Cox, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Haynes Sr., Mrs. J. D. Cartlidge, Mrs. B. B. Gates, Miss Judy Gates and Miss Ellen Stringer.

Capes Spell Fashion Drama

Capes spell drama for spring. The cape coat is at its newest in the boldest plaids — fresh blue and white is exciting.

A cape raincoat in stark black poplin lined in a black-and-white print. There are also jungle prints — leopard, tiger, zebra on silks or synthetics.

For travel, the cape suit goes everywhere in soft underspoken plaids, often reverses to a matching solid.

On the beach, the reversible cotton cape come in two near colors — the brighter the better.

DISPLAY CANISTERS

Your accessories are decorative as well as functional pieces. A beautiful set of canisters in the kitchen, for instance, deserves display rather than a hidden place in the cupboard. Shelves that hold decorative accessories are an inexpensive addition to the kitchen.

Daigle-Bartleson Vows Planned For June 15

Mr. and Mrs. Dean A. Bartleson of Start, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Barbara Ann to Ralph Charles Daigle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alcee Daigle of Lafayette.

The wedding will be solemnized June 15 at 10:30 a.m. in Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Rayville. Rev. Gustave Bergeron will perform the ceremony.

The bride-elect has chosen her sister, Miss Nancy Bartleson to serve as maid of honor and Miss Ann Southwell as junior bridesmaid.

Jerry Lee Bartleson, brother of the bride-elect, will attend Mr. Daigle as best man and ushers will be Dean F. Bartleson, also her brother and Frank J. Mulhearn. Altar boys will be Daniel Daigle, brother of the future bridegroom and Joseph Southwell.

Miss Bartleson, a graduate of Start high school, is presently attending Northeast Louisiana State College, where she is a member of NLSC Honor Society, Newman Club and Student Louisiana Teachers Association.

Mr. Daigle graduated from Lafayette high school, attended University of Southwestern Louisiana and is now attending Northeast Louisiana State College, where he will graduate from the School of Pharmacy in June. He is a member of the American Pharmaceutical Association, Louisiana State Pharmacists Association, and Newman Club.

ICE CENTER

Place two or three cans of frozen fruit juice wrapped in a towel or paper toweling in the center of your picnic basket. This not only keeps food cold, but the fruit juice is ready to mix when you need it.

Miro Book Club Ends Season With Luncheon

New officers of the Miro Book club assumed duties at the annual luncheon meeting of the club held Monday, May 20 at the Lotus Club. Majestic arrangements of magnolia blossoms and gardenias centered the table.

Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, president, conducted a short business meeting to give final instructions on the course of study for the coming year. The membership decided upon Travel, in its greatest and varied aspects, at the discretion of the year book committee.

Cards were sent to former members who are ill, and each mmber present told of her plans for the summer, insofar as travel and visits are concerned.

Bold Stripe Shirts

Ice cream striped shirts with white collar and cuffs are bold fashion strokes by ordinarily conservative men. Stripes are finest for dress, widest for sports, and brightest for any occasion.

USE IMAGINATION

Cotton Shapes Fashions For Sandbox Set

In summertime, when the livin' is easy, cottons are high on the list of what fashionables in the sandbox set will wear, reports the National Cotton Council. Easy-to-care, fun-to-wear playtime cottons are found in a variety of shapes, tagged with such fanciful names as skimmy, shift, bubble and burnoose.

The skimmy, a fetching shape that never touches the waist and flares slightly at the hem, shows up in this summer candy striped in polished cotton or printed in a delicate floral pattern on crisp cotton pique. Back, side or front buttoned — worn alone, or as cover-up to a bathing suit or ensembled with blouse or slacks, the tummy-flattering skimmy is a versatile young fashion.

The "bubble," a fanciful shape for the 3-6xer is a full-blown, one piece plyasuit with elasticized bloomers. It can be buttoned at the shoulder line for easy size adjustment. Gingham checks, colorful denims, and airy chambrays are just a few cottons used for this popular summer fashion.

The beach burnoose, already a well-established fashion in women's wear, is adapted this summer for tots to snuggle in after a swim.

Zippy Beverage

A creamy blend of ½ cup chilled buttermilk with ½ cup vegetable-tomato juice makes a refreshing beverage—ideal for the dieter and delicious as a sandwich accompaniment.

MISS GERRIE R. SIMMS

Gerrie Simms To Become Bride Of Harvey Sprouse

Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Howard Simms of Bastrop, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Gerrie R. Simms to Harvey Leon Sprouse, also of Bastrop. The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Gertie Wells, Helena, Ark., and the late H. C. Sprouse.

The bride - elect has chosen her sister - in - law, Mrs. Jerald Harvis Simms to serve as matron of honor and bridesmaid will be Miss Reba Wells, Helena, Ark., sister of the future bride groom. Flower girl will be Miss Candlene Simms, sister of the bride - elect. Jim N. Musick will attend Mr. Sprouse as best man.

A reception will follow the ceremony in the Kraft Room of the Louisiana Motor Hotel. Serving at the bride's book will be Mrs. Howard Johnson and presiding at the punch bowl will be Mrs. Jerry Rester, Monroe and Mrs. Wayne Maxwell, cousin of the bride-elect, also of Monroe.

Miss Simms is a graduate of Epps high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. She is presently employed by the Bastrop Chamber of Commerce and Industry. Mr. Sprouse was graduated from Helena high school and spent four years in the United States Air Force, with service in Germany. He is at present manager of Bastrop Adjustment Co.

The couple will be at home in Bastrop following a wedding trip.

MRS. ROBERT BRUCE BUTLER III

Margie Norris Becomes Bride Of R. B. Butler III

A double ring ceremony at the home of Judge Robert Bruce Butler united in marriage Miss Margie Norris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivey Norris of West Monroe, and Robert Bruce Butler III, son of Mrs. Lionel Kling of New Iberia and Robert Bruce Butler Jr. of Houma. Rev. John Blackburn performed the ceremony May 12 in the presence of family members and close friends.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a short white taffeta gown with princess waist and jacket of Chantilly lace, accented by a strand of pearls. Her short veil was attached to a crown of seed pearls and she carried an orchid, encircled with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Bobby Norris of West Monroe, sister-in-law of the bride, who served as matron of honor, wore a dress of pale blue organza, with matching hat, wrist length gloves and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The bride's mother wore a beige brocade dress with matching accessories and the mother of the bridegroom chose a dark sheath with wide cummerbund and matching jacket. Both had white carnation corsages.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the dining room where greenery and yellow tulips were used in profusion. Mrs. Lyndon Howell of Baton Rouge, aunt of the groom, served the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Ernest C. Wall presided at the punch bowl. Also assisting was Miss Faye Howell.

For their wedding trip the bride wore a white ensemble with matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in New Orleans where Mr. Butler is associated with a law firm.

Mrs. Butler, who has been teaching in Houma, graduated from Northeast Louisiana State College with a B.A. degree in elementary education. Mr. Butler received his B.S. degree in physics in 1961 and an L.L.B. in February 1963 from Louisiana State University. He is a member of Sigma Chi and the Order of the Coif.

MISS MARY ALICE ODOM

August Wedding Planned

Food Needs Glamorizing

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — The American approach to food needs more glamor and beauty, says Dr. W. W. Bauer, director of health education of the American Medical Association.

"We approach our food all too often with doubts as to its safety, concern as to its nutritional adequacy or notions as to its medicinal qualities," he told the Chattanooga dairy council.

"I like the Swedish approach to eating so much better. The Swedes are not only supreme cooks, they have a healthy philosophy about food. Food, they say, should be prepared with butter — and love."

ELASTIC WAISTS

Costume Look Is New Bridal Mode For Fall

Fashion's costume look will appear as a new bridal mode for fall. It is interpreted as a ball gown under a coat, or as a brocade suit with crepe blouse for informal weddings.

Murray Hamburger, top bridal designer, does the coat costume in white Lyons velvet. A Directoire coat, closed only at the high waist, is edged deeply in guipure lace re-embroidered with crystals and pearls. This regal coat reveals a simple Empire gown with bell skirt accented with jeweled bands.

At other firms, long shirt-dresses, double - creased coat dresses and slim sheaths attest the influence of general evening fashions on bridal gowns. Out is the fussy bouffant gown which could never be worn elsewhere.

Today's bride considers it poor taste to hang everything possible on her wedding gown, wants to look elegantly simple. Her bridesmaids, too, will wear long gowns that can step onto a dance floor.

MISS ALPHA BEARDEN'S engagement to Randy Dew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dew, 3715 McMillan Road, West Monroe, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al Bearden, Pinecrest Road, West Monroe. The double ring ceremony is planned for Sunday, July 28 at 3 p.m. in McGuire Methodist Church.

JUNE 7 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Gladys Ava Tidwell and Paul F. Wilhite of Point, whose forthcoming marriage is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carlis W. Tidwell of Point. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Wilhite of Bastrop. The wedding will be solemnized in Point Assembly of God by Rev. Daniel Ronsisvalle.

Summer Wedding Plans Revealed

ZERR-TURNER

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Turner of Baytown, Texas, announce the engagement of their daughter, Karol to Wayne Vincent Zerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Zerr of Van, Texas.

Miss Turner, granddaughter of Mrs. Mamie Turner of Jones, is a graduate of Robert E. Lee high school and a student at Lee College, in Baytown.

An August 31 wedding is planned.

CHAPMAN-STRANGE

Engagement of Miss Melinda Nell Strange to David Herbert Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Herbert Chapman of Pioneer, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike D. Strange, Houston, Tex.

The wedding will take place June 29 at 8 p.m. in Broadway Baptist Church. Houston with Rev. M. T. Jenkins officiating.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Chapman of Grayson and of Mrs. C. D. Strange, Houston. She is a graduating senior from Charles H. Milby high school, where she is a member of French club, Future Business Leaders of America and a member of Milby Coed Cadets.

Mr. Chapman is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Burkett of Pioneer and of Mrs. A. E. Chapman and the late Mr. Chapman of Enterprise. He attended Oak Grove high school, where he was a member of the band and graduated from Pioneer high, and is presently attending beauty school in West Monroe. The couple plans to live in Pioneer and West Monroe.

WILKERSON-DAVIS

Forthcoming marriage of Miss Jerry Ann Davis, West Monroe to Harold G. Wilkerson of Monroe, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Davis of Winnsboro. The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lee Jimmerson of Quitman.

The wedding will take place June 2 at 3 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Joe Mongle, pastor of Temple Baptist Church, Winnsboro, will officiate.

SAVOIE-GOLDSBERRY

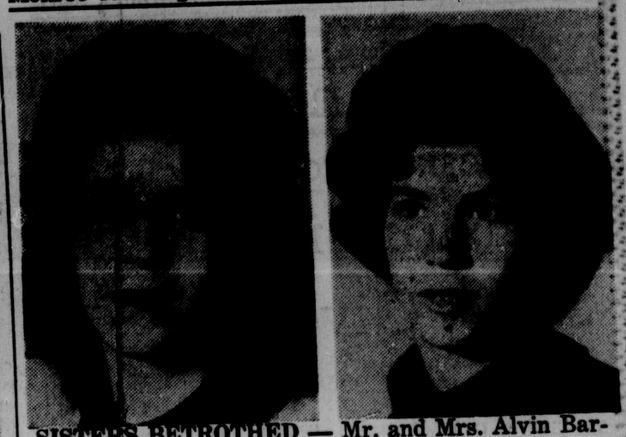

June 23 is the date chosen for the wedding of Miss Rita Sharon Goldsberry and Charles Ritchie Savoie, whose engagement is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Goldsberry, 403 Cooper St., West Monroe. Parents of the future bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Savoie of Jena.

The wedding will take place in the Church of God, Shreveport with Rev. Cecil Carver performing the ceremony at 3 p.m.

The bride-elect has chosen her sister, Miss Judith Andrea Goldsberry as maid of honor and serving as best man will be Billy Wayne Savoie, brother of the future bridegroom. Ushers will be Earl Beard, West Monroe and Norman Eggleston, Lake Charles.

ENGAGEMENT of Miss Nelda Dyann Thompson to Mike Hillman Trim, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Trim, 220 Bancroft, West Monroe, is anounced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Thompson, 711 South 6th, West Monroe. The ceremony will take place on July 6 at 7 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents.

SISTERS BETROTHED — Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Barfield of Columbia announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughters, Bonnie Pearl at left to Jack Scott of Clarks and Alva Mae, right, to Airman Herbert C. Scott of Thomasville Air Force Base, Alabama. Both are sons of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Russell of Clarks. The double wedding will be a June event.

Mr. Hewitt says, "I attend these meetings regularly all across the country in hopes of buying new merchandise and absorbing new ideas so as to offer greater values and better service to all our customers in Monroe and surrounding areas."—Adv.

AN EARLY SUMMER wedding is planned by Miss Bennie Joyce Ostten and Willie Lee Hines Jr. of Monroe, whose engagement is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ostten Jr. of Columbia. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Lee Hines of Monroe. Both are graduates of Columbia High School and are presently freshman business education majors at Northeast Louisiana State College. Vows will be exchanged in the presence of the immediate families.

MISS JUDY HOBSON'S forthcoming marriage to William Victor Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Carter of Collinston, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hobson of Sterlington. The wedding will take place June 1 in Monroe.

Former Resident To Wed

Of interest here is announcement made by Major and Mrs. Claude Crenshaw of Victorville, Calif., formerly of Monroe, of the engagement of their daughter, Claudia Dianne to Thomas T. Tatum, also of Victorville.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. J. B. Hudson and Walter Crenshaw, both of Monroe. She graduated from Victor Valley high school, attended San Diego State College and is currently a student at Victor Valley College.

Mr. Tatum, son of Clyde R. Tatum of Shasta Road, Apple Valley and Victor Valley developer, was graduated from Victor Valley high school and attended California Polytechnic College. He is at present a student at Victor Valley College and is associated with his father's company.

CLAUDIA CRENSHAW

Coats Reverse For Practical Fall Costumes

The coat costume is a beautiful fashion, but many women have found it impractical. A coat closely matched to a dress often can be worn with nothing else.

The new coat trend for fall is to reversibles which can go over a number of dresses and suits, still look as if meant for them. Thus a turquoise twill coat reverses to nubby tweed mixing turquoise, spice brown and gray. Red and garnet tweed reverses to solid red worsted.

The hound's tooth checks and colorful plaids will often come with other sides in solid color, such as black and green check reversing to black. Other reversible ideas include two tones of the same color, or combinations like cream and brown which blend.

Fashion fabric houses like Anglo have fabrics which aren't true reversibles but can be used as such because the "wrong" side is as beautiful as the face, and looks like another, blending fabric.

Carelessness Results In Most Home Accidents

Philip Dykstra, director of home safety for the National Safety Council, says that at housecleaning time many Americans attempt activities that are ignored the rest of the year. Carelessness in unaccustomed activity result in costly and inconvenient accidents.

Records show that more than five million people are injured in home accidents annually.

According to O. L. Hogsett, University of Illinois safety sepcialist, almost 20 per cent of all home accidents happen in the kitchen. Many are caused by poor judgment, disorder, improper equipment and improper use of equipment.

TWO HUSBANDS

NEW YORK (AP) — Mary Martin is to have two leading men in "Jennie," both of them Broadway newcomers.

They are Dennis O'Keefe and Robin Bailey, who will portray the two husbands of the musical comedy's heroine.

That's what parents often say when told about the decline in our children's physical fitness. To be sure, parents can't assume full responsibility for this problem. But parents should see to it that their children get proper health care—and that physical fitness isn't neglected in schools.
Urge your local school officials to provide a physical education program that calls for at least 15 minutes of vigorous activity every day for all girls and boys. A basic program has been developed that is improving the fitness of our children. It is easy to administer in any school. It costs little to get it started. It can improve any child's physical fitness.
If you'd like to know more about this program, write to The President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Outstanding Show Given

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Bastrop Garden Club's new president, Mrs. T. R. Florence, with three other club members from Bastrop presented a very outstanding T. V. and Garden Center program last Wednesday.

Flowers grown in the members' yards were used most effectively in the six designs brought by these ladies.

The first design featured in the show was made by Mrs. S. E. Cathey. The primary line was established by placing three tiered iris leaves in a vertical position in a low creamy - white ceramic bowl. Golden daylilies were massed low in this design, following the line of the tiered iris.

Leaves placed in groups formed the filler behind the daylilies. Also, native fern was used low as a filler. The water could be seen in the bowl, thus making this a cool-summer design so suitable for the home now when the days are getting longer and warmer.

IVY USED

Mrs. Cathey made a second arrangement using ivy for the line forming a Hogarth (S curve) in a very ornate ceramic pitcher. This pitcher was colored in several shades of rose, blue gray, and pink - lavender. The coloring had a paisley effect. The main flower used for focal interest was a large cerese colored dahlia flanked with two smaller deeper cerese colored dahlias placed in a row in the central part of the S curve. A small round base added stability or balance to the design.

Mrs. W. P. Stephenson made a massed - oval design using Bells of Ireland for the line material. These were grown in her own garden. They were most unusual specimens. Within this over all line she used Easter lilies as a filler with more Bells of Ireland. Focal interest was brought out by the placement of one large regal lily near the base of the design. The container was a large white urn on a footed base. Aspidestra leaves had been cleverly looped and placed within the line for contrast. The variegated aspidestra leaves were looped and placed low in the arrangement. It would be ideal for a church altar.

Mrs. Stephenson made a second design again using the lovely Bells of Ireland for line. This time she made a triangle design in a low curved black bowl.

The bowl was white on the inside giving it a very modern finish. The first line of the triangle was placed to one side in the bowl. Within this line Mrs. Stephenson placed in tiered fashion three rose red dahlias. These were enhansed with foliage of the magnolia tree and short stems of the Bells of Ireland. The opposite side of this design was finished with the young rosette of magnolia leaves and their buds and a cluster of deep rose colored summer spirea. This, making this a free standing design that would be ideal for the large coffee table or before a mirrow on a console table.

Mrs. T. R. Florence used unusual and interesting materials in the vertical design brought for the show. For the primary vertical line she used the young palmetto shoots — three tiers. Within this line was placed (as a main flower filler) the white delicate columbine against a background of two tiered canna leaves.

Ivy foliage was used vertically to one side of the columbine falling over the lip of the tall black cylinder container (an old thermos bottle painted black) and down in the front of the container.

A round black base was used to give necessary balance. This design contained much distinction in the way the unusual materials were used and the striking clean cut design in the modernistic manner.

WHITE GLADIOLAS

The last arrangement of the show was made by Mrs. H. V. Keahey. Into a tall white ceramic compote she placed three white glads with the foliage - tiered to form the vertical placement of her asymmetrical triangle. Within this line she used large shasta daisies which gave focal interest. To the lower left side she added a sprig of mahonia holly foliage topped with a branch of the Bells of Ireland in a shorter length. This formed the lower part of the triange. The mahonia leaves were used as a filler around the daisies in the lower part of the design. Also, ivy leaves were placed low as a filler. This would be excellent to use on the console in the hall beside the hall mirror.

Mrs. Stephenson, a wonderful horticulturist, brought daylilies for display. The colors ranged from light yellows into orange and deep reds. The interesting thing about these daylilies was that they all came from one package of seed. She said there were lavender shades also. The seed came from L.S.U.

LARGER BLOSSOMS

There were about 150 seed to the package. She said that last year the blossoms were much larger (no doubt due to the lack of rain this year).

This show certainly created a lot of interest. Quite a number of flower lovers came by the center soon after the T. V. show to view these lovely designs — so, congratulations Bastrop Garden Club for a most outstanding flower show — and thanks again.

This week, the Columbia Garden Club will present the program on T. V. and the Garden Center. Mrs. W. M. Causey is club president.

Another new club was organized recently. The Garden Center proudly announces, "La Fleur Jardin." The new officers are President, Mrs. Fred R. Baker, Jr.; vice-president, Mrs. Richard M. Bass; secretary, Mrs. Ebert Van Buren; treasurer, Mrs. A. C. Williams, historian, Mrs. James Ellis.

Congratulations, and we all wish you a successful year—your first — and, many to come.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Spider Lily Leaves Dry

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The leaves of the various kinds of summer and fall-blooming spider lilies (lycoris) are beginning to dry up, and this is the time to mark their positions if you plan to dig any of the bulbs this summer.

The first one of these beautiful flowers to bloom is the big pink one that surprises everybody as early as the 15th of July with its huge heads of orchid pink spidery blossoms that pop up "out of nowhere." This one has wider petals than the very spidery red ones with narrow petals. The big pink one was named "Hall's amaryllis" when Dr. Hall took it to the Boston flower show 40 or 50 years ago. Actually it is not an amaryllis, but lycoris squamigera.

AIR, DRY CLUMP

If you have this orchid lycoris in your garden, you can take the bulbs up right after the wide daffodil-like leaves have completely dried up. Leave the whole clump of bulbs in an airy place in the shade to dry out slowly, and, when they have dried out a week or two, you can then divide them. If you have several bulbs, replant them at intervals of about a week so that they will bloom a few days apart this year. They will, of course, bloom at the same time after this year.

Lycoris squamigera is the name by which you buy these bulbs. If you are going to purchase some, do not wait until July and August because they want to bloom in July and will lose their flower bud. It will dry up, and the bulbs will fail to bloom this year.

The bulbs of this astonishingly beautiful pink flower used to be hard to come by, but they are advertised everywhere these days. Prepare the soil for them just exactly as you would for daffodils. Good garden soil with bone meal added is all they want. Gardeners were surprised that this lycoris did not send up leaves as the red spider lilies do in the Fall. The leaves come up in very early spring.

RED SPIDER LILIES

Red spider lilies can be taken up now, too. This kind has leaves in winter, and the temperatures of this past winter went so low that it will be very surprising if we have many flowers from them when September comes around again. If we continue to have such winters, we are going to have to shelter red spider lily foliage as we do the leaves of some of the new and still more tender "white," cream and yellow spider lilies. This is not too much trouble. A low frame and some tobacco cloth or even some pine boughs will do the trick.

New Mowers Light, Easy To Handle

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Power mowers will be lighter and easier to handle this season. For safety, controls are being installed away from the motor and cutting blade to keep the operator's hands from danger zones. Also for safety are retractable blades which, when hitting a hard object, cushion the shock by turning away or retracting. The movable blades lessen the danger of hurling stones.

At least one model will attract gardeners with an aversion to cleaning the underside of the mower. It features a hole in the deck for the garden hose, which permits flushing the mower bottom while the motor is running. The cutting blades provide the flushing action.

Mowers will be quiet, thanks to better mufflers that will benefit the late Sunday slumbers of your neighbors.

If you neglected to service your power mower before storing it last fall, do these things before using it:

Clean the dirt that has accumulated on the mower and engine, sprockets, reel or blade; clean and refill the oil bath filter on the carburator; remove and clean or replace the spark plug; clean the cylinder head fins with a wire brush.

Drain the fuel tank of last year's fuel and change the crank case oil.

Adjust cutting units and make sure the rotary mower blades or cutter bar are sharp, as dullness will damage and discolor grass.

Here's the Answer

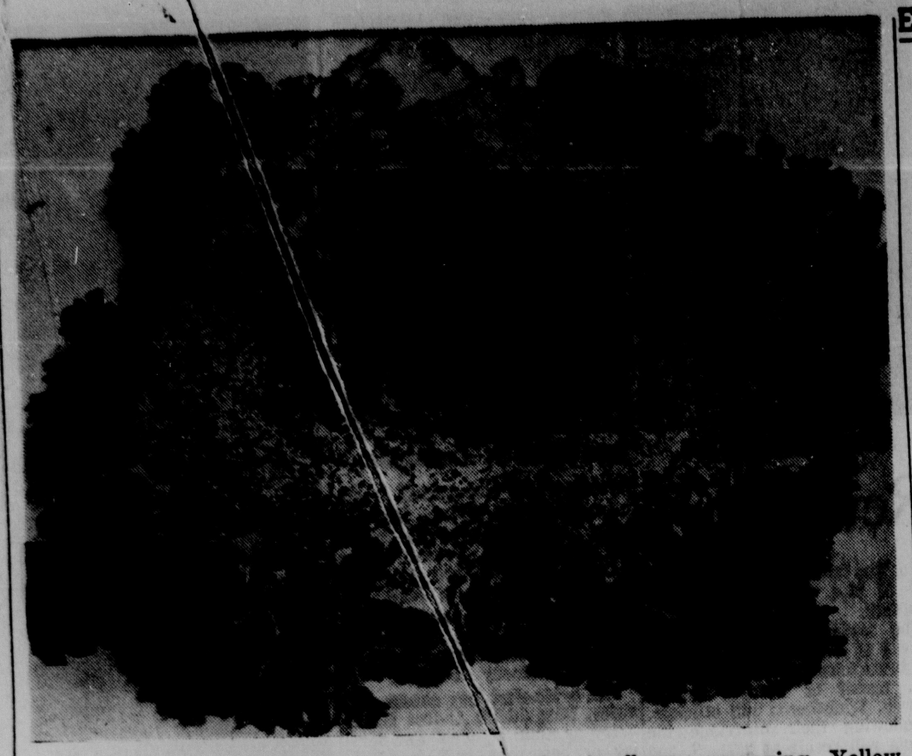

By ANDY LANG

Question: Can you tell me how to get kinks out of an old cross-cut handsaw? I have had the saw for many years and would like to hang on to it.

Answer: Kinks can be taken out of a saw by laying the saw out on a flat surface and flattening them with a wooden mallet. However, it appears that your saw needs a sharpening. Kinks usually develop because the saw blade is dull and you are forcing the saw through the wood.

Question: There is old, flaking paint on the outside of our house. I'd like to remove it before repainting. Should I use a scraper or a wire brush?

Answer: A scraper is very effective, but care must be used not to dig chunks out of the wood. This can not happen with a wire brush, no matter how vigorous the brushing. Where the condition is very bad, professional painters use both the scraper and the wire brush.

COLOR GRADATIONS ranging from green to pink or red, make materials in heads of flowering or ornamental kale, popular in flower arranging. Yellow, cream and white also occur in some heads.

ATTIC PLAYROOM should look like an attic, even when decorated, says Chicago interior designer Robert Lindenthal. This is the attic room he designed for Lauri and Peter Baird, children of puppeteers.

Deck Out Attic For Occupants

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

As long as children must play or sleep in an attic, why not make it look like an attic, the way they prefer it, suggests Robert Lindenthal, Chicago interior designer.

Lindenthal put his fertile imagination to work, producing an attic playroom that is sheer delight. It was one of the "10 best dressed rooms" designed for personalities by interior designers, a show sponsored annually by the National Design Center of New York for the Visiting Nurse Service.

FOR CHILDREN

The playroom designed for Lauri, 8, and Peter, 11, children of the famed puppeteers, Bill and Cora Baird, is suited to their own lives.

"They are lively types who live surrounded by the puppets of their parents. Most children live in the world of fantasy anyway, and if people would keep their minds on this fantasy when decorating a playroom or bedroom, they'd come up with new ideas for this make-believe world that children love," Lindenthal says.

He designed mushroom-shape stools, 10 inches high and 14 inches wide, with stem bases. He put beds on pulleys at the ceiling. He made storage-box steps as a ladder. He put baseballs at the drapery tiebacks. He took an attic-type trunk, opened it on end and fitted it with records, record player and television. He put desks under the beds, spotlights at the ceiling, hung puppets on walls and ceiling.

"As a boy, I always dreamed of having a bed swinging from the ceiling. The beds may be let down for safety if used for sleeping, and are ideal for a child's guest," says Lindenthal.

He visualizes the beds as sort of a background from which the Baird children can give puppet shows with their own handcrafted puppets. The bed is on a simple pulley arrangement, the long marine-style rope anchored to the wall on cleats.

The storage-box steps are practical. They are 12 x 18 x 18, may be used for storage as well as a ladder, Lindenthal points out.

The room is painted white with red stripes; beams are bright red; window draperies are solid pale blue. The same tartan plaid blanketing is used for tiebacks, blankets and chair upholstery. All materials are washable acrylic fibers. There is blue wall-to-wall carpet. Three little spotlights are on the desk, and a couple of flood lights are at the ceiling.

'GORILLA MOTHER and Baby', by Elsbeth Siegrist, Basel, Switzerland, is one of the photographs in the fourth exhibition of "Photography in the Fine Arts," on view at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Photography, in its slow upward climb toward high-level artistic recognition, currently takes another big step forward. The fourth exhibition of "Photography in the Fine Arts" opened at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City and will remain on view until early fall 1963.

This year there are 153 photographs, 66 of them in color, by 129 photographers, which survived the careful screening by a nine - man jury of distinguished art authorities headed by James J. Rorimer, director of the Metropolitan. The exhibition photos represent roughly one out of every 10 that were submitted by qualified photographic sources after previous judging.

GREAT EFFORT

Looking at those chosen photographs, beautifully printed and artistically displayed in four main-floor galleries of New York's most distinguished art museum, one is hardly aware of the prodigious efforts that have gone into the preparations.

Many photographic organizations and hundreds of photo experts collaborated in a worldwide search for 18 months for creative examples of photography which merited the attention of the PFA national jury.

Spearhead for all the efforts and tying all the ends together is the man who originated the Photography in the Fine Arts idea and who works unceasingly to keep it moving upward: Ivan Dmitri. As director of the project, he is a unique combination of artistic and photographic talent. As an artist, his etchings have been acquired by leading museums; as a photographer, he has achieved success and eminence in the field of photographic illustration.

Photography in the Fine Arts has had a hectic career since its inception in 1959. It has received not only hearty acclaim but also some scathing comdemnation. It has been championed by many top photographic personalities. . . and denounced by others.

Chief point of dissatisfaction has been that the final choice as to what constitutes "Fine Art" in photography should be decided only by photographers and not by a jury of art critics, museum directors and curators or any other "outsiders."

This objection is countered with the point that photographers themselves are the primary judges since all entries must come from qualified photographic authorities. It is only after photographic experts select, approve and submit their choices that a winnowing down must be made on an esthetic level. And the men best qualified for that are art museum specialists who are familiar with the area of esthetics. The final exhibition prints, therefore, have a double endorsement: first from the experts in photography; secondly from the experts in museum art.

New Shrubs' Crucial Time

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

The most crucial time for newly planted shrubs and trees is during the first summer. Because of inadequate root development the trees and shrubs will require extra watering during at least the first summer.

Mulching plants with pine needles, oak leaves, and peat moss will aid tremendously in conserving moisture. Water once a week thoroughly rather than a daily sprinkling. For trees build a small levee about four or five feet out from the trunk in a circle around the tree. Less water will be lost from run off if this is followed.

CAMELLIAS, AZALEAS

During the summer months our camellias and azaleas are forming flower buds. It's at this time that lack of water can often be a determining factor in the number of flower buds formed and proper development of these buds. Azaleas that suffered intensive cold damage are showing signs of wilting and in many cases portions of the plants are dying. This is due to a splitting of the bark — an insufficient moisture reaching the plant.

FERTILIZE TREES

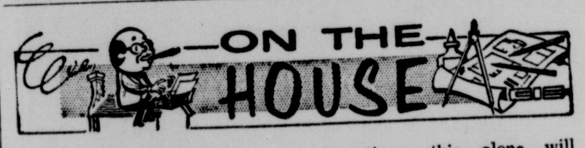

If you have not fertilized those shade trees in your landscape, you need to get busy. Our U.S. Department of Agriculture recommends that you use two pounds of a complete fertilizer for each inch of trunk diameter. The fertilizer can be put into holes under the branches of the tree. Vary the hole from eight inches deep in heavy soils to 30 inches deep in light or sandy soils.

Don't punch holes too near the trunk of the tree, you might injure some of the diameter of trunk. For example, if the trunk of the tree is six inches across, don't apply any fertilizer within 12 inches of it. Try to divide the fertilizer equally among the holes. Generally one-half to one pound may be put into each hole. If the holes are not filled to the top, you may complete filling them with bone meal or superphosphate for a longer lasting effect. If large roots, a good rule of thumb by which to judge the danger zone is to omit fertilizer for a distance twice the the ground is dry, you need to run water into the holes, this will spread some of the fertilizer into the soil and more quickly put it to use.

Sinks have a way of clogging at the most inopportune times, usually when a plumber isn't available. Since the entire kitchen routine is disrupted when the water in the sink won't drain, it is well to be familiar with the established methods of clearing such stoppages.

A rubber suction-cup plunger, known as "a plumber's friend," should be included in the repair equipment of any house. It provides the simplest mechanical way of cleaning a clogged water pipe.

The plunger is placed over the drain and worked up and down, the alternate compression and suction tending to dislodge whatever is clogging the pipe.

MAJOR MISTAKE

Most persons make one important mistake in using the plunger. They empty all the water from the clogged sink before using the plunger. Removing most of the water is proper, but enough must be left in the sink to cover the drain and the bottom part of the suction cup. The plunger will not work unless there is an airtight seal over the drain.

Another error is in giving up too soon. Quite often, a plunger will produce no results for the first five or 10 times, then suddenly do its work after the 20th or 30th or 40th time.

Chemical drain cleaners sometimes are effective, but must be handled with care—and the directions must be followed to the letter. If the sink is clogged, but draining slowly, the cleaner probably will work. But if no draining at all is taking place, no results are likely, since the cleaner must flow to the point of obstruction. Also, when there is no draining, the chemical will remain in the sink and boil up, an undesirable condition because it is caustic and injurious to the skin.

STUBBORN CASES

In stubborn cases, look for a U-shaped pipe under the sink with a clean - plug at the bottom. Most sinks have them. The plug will have to be removed with a wrench. Be sure to put a pail or other container under the pipe before removing the plug, because any water remaining in the pipe will flow out. Sometimes this alone will clear out any obstruction. Otherwise you will have to insert a piece of wire into the area where the plug was, pushing it along both sides of the pipe.

A coil spring, called a "snake," comes in handy when unclogging the sink in this manner. While the plug is off, insert the spring directly through the top of the sink drain and wiggle it around.

After the plug has been put back in place, run hot water into the sink for about 10 minutes. In fact, it's a good practice to run hot water through the drain for a few minutes after each dishwashing. It prevents grease from congealing inside the sink.

CURTAIN CALL

"The Miracle Worker" is to open Thursday, June 6, and run through Tuesday, June 11, with performances nightly, including Sunday, at 8:15 p.m. There will be no matinee. Advance reservation forms will be in the mail shortly and members are urged to use this convenient method of reserving seats prior to the opening of the box-office.

If you prefer to handle it by telephone or in person, box-office hours will be 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. from Tuesday, June 4, through the run of the play.

Hot weather need keep no one away, for Strauss Playhouse is cooled by a 30-ton air-conditioning system. Since the last show, we have modified it in several respects designed to lower the murmur to the irreducible minimum.

CAST

The cast of "The Miracle Worker" is now complete except for two minor parts. In addition to Feejee Carmack and Martha Maxwell in the leads, the players will be Mary Ann Atkinson, Scherck Bogen, Wade Brisbin, Marie Christian, V. P. Dalrymple, Karen Lee, Lera Lentz, Sarah Cole McSherry, Mary Ann Moore, Susan Odom, Ron Robinson, Billie Root, Gail Sawyer and Murray Turner.

Jerilyn Gilstrap is assistant to executive director Richard M. Clark, while the property chore is being shared by Bitsa Brown, Betty Jo Shlenker and Francis Yeldell. George Hargus Jr. is working lights and Wade Brisbin is helping on set construction.

Trustee Marie Berstein made us a welcome gift of drapes, costumes and accessories that will come in handy for future plays. We invite others to think of Little Theatre before discarding furniture, clothing and similar items useful as props or costumes.

We are delighted that two of the most illustrious names connected with Little Theatre since its formation have consented to have Green Room tiles inscribed with a record of their accomplishments. Mrs. Blanche G. Oliver, a moving spirit in dramatic and other cultural activities for many years, has one tile commemorating her services as director of even major productions for Little Theatre between 1934 and 1938. Two more tiles are for her acting roles in "The Cajun," and "Sun Up," the latter being the third full-length play in our history.

DIRECTED, ACTED

This does not begin to tell the full story of Miss Blanche's contributions to drama. She directed and acted in several workshop productions in the days when Little Theatre featured one-act plays; in fact she wrote an original one-act, "House Shoes and Party Slippers," for presentation on May 2, 1938. She still entertains clubs and institutions with her Cajun songs and stories that have delighted thousands.

Dan Armand Breard is another great name in Little Theatre history. His tiles start with our second major production, "Ice Bound," and range through "Out Of The Night," "Whistling In The Dark," "The Ninth Guest," "The Patsy," "The Bellamy Trial," and "Over Twenty-One."

Again this is but a partial record, for Dan Armand Breard acted in numerous plays given by the Monroe Dramatic Club, dating back to the turn of the century. Old favorites like "Little Women," and "East Lynne," claimed him in the days before Little Theatre. How proud we are to have our Green Room wall enriched by memories of the theatrical exploits of this great lady and great gentleman!

SENTIMENTAL

Of warm sentimental interest is another new tile donated for Mrs. Marion Learned. She is credited with set design for our very first play, "The Whole Town's Talking," in 1932 and her name appears over and over in this capacity down into the season of 1947-48. Her tile mentions no specific plays by name, but those viewing it will understand that the list would have been too long to enumerate.

Our technical director, Raymond Lucero, was one of the judges for the Redskins variety show at Northeast College week before last. There can be little disagreement with the award of top honors to the clever musical satire of "East Side Story," but there was an abundance of talent in the other acts as well, some of which we have enjoyed in Little Theatre productions. Congratulations to Bill Wells and his colleagues.

GRANTS AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Two New York theatrical groups have set up fellowships at the Yale School of Drama.

A $2,000 grant in play directing is to be awarded annually by the Sam S. Shubert Foundation. Student playwrights will be eligible for a yearly $1,500 grant from the Arts of the Theater Foundation.

A third new fellowship was announced recently in memory of John Golden, to be given for graduate studies in dramatic writing.

Advance Movie Rights Are Sold

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time, movie rights have been sold in advance on an upcoming off-Broadway production. Such deals are frequently a part of White Way financing, but wait-and-see is the rule in the more experimental playhouses.

"Snowangel," a one-act play by Lewis John Carlino, is the property. It is slated for stage debut in June, teamed with another Carlino short, "Epiphany."

20-CITY TOUR

NEW YORK (AP) — A three-play company of performers is being sent on a 20-city tour next fall by the National Repertory Theater.

The exhibit is to include Chekhov's "The Seagull," Christopher Fry's adaptation of the Anouilh comedy "Ring Round the Moon" and Arthur Miller's "The Crucible." The swing is scheduled to continue through June 1964.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The dictionary says that "wasteness" means desolation. Well, too much "waistness" can make a woman feel stranded! This is the measurement, which most of all, gives the figure a matronly or a youthful appearance.

Most men and women are assailed by a thickening through the middle soon after the age of 35. This may result from too many pounds and poor posture, but most important, from lax stretched muscles. You can snap these back into place and in the process lose a few inches from your waistline.

The waist measurement is such an important one from the standpoint of figure beauty. I have often said in this column that a woman can carry quite a bit of weight in her hip measurement if she has a slim waist.

This measurement is important for another reason too. There's nothing like that slim sleek feeling through the waistline to make one feel youthful, and nothing makes one feel more middle-aged than a tight belt. Fortunately this is the easiest measurement to reduce. Try the following exercise.

Stand with your back toward the wall, about an arm's length from the wall, feet comfortably separated. Keep your feet in place as you twist to the left and try to touch the fingers of both hands to the wall. Turn forward, twist to the right and try to touch the fingers of both hands to the wall. Turn forward and continue, alternating left and right. If you cannot touch the fingers of both hands try at least to touch with the hand nearest to the wall.

If you would like to have my free leaflet on waist slimming exercises, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 6 to Josephine Lowman in care of Monroe Morning World.

Sales Managers Slate Meeting Monday Night

Top sales management personnel of northeast Louisiana will convene at an orientation meeting for planning a sales award program at the Paragon Club at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Featured speaker George T. Wood, manager of insurance sales for International Business Machines in New Orleans, will present a Distinguished Salesman Award Program to members of the Sales and Marketing Executives organization for northeast Louisiana.

The salesman award program will be conducted by the organization during 1963-64.

Wood is committee chairman of the Distinguished Salesman's Award program of Sales-Marketing Executive in New Orleans.

SCOUTS HONOR MacARTHUR

NEW YORK (UPI) — The award of the Silver Buffalo, the highest honor bestowed by the Boy Scouts of America was given Friday to Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The award, a miniature silver bullalo on a red, white and blue ribbon, was presented to the general in ceremonies at his apartment here. An accompanying citation lauded him for "a lasting contribution to the lives of the youth of his own country and of the world."

Better Days Within Reach Of Old Negro

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Brighter days, shiny new shoes, nice clothes, a better house, perhaps — All may be within reach of an old Louisiana Negro, Spiller Thomas.

The mere mention of his name once stirred a bit of shame, because of what happened to him.

The legislature, which begins its third week Sunday night, has a bill designed to pay a state debt to the Negro now living on the banks of a bayou at nearby Plaquemine.

Spiller Thomas, 67, claimed he was wrongfully held in a state mental hospital 15 years.

Last year, a Baton Rouge court awarded him a $7,500 judgment against the state.

Supporting that, Rep. John Jumonville of Iberville Parish has asked the legislature to make a special appropriation for Thomas.

"And I predict the legislature will pass it unanimously," Jumonville said.

His bill received quick approval in the House Appropriations Committe last week. It is ready for a House floor vote Tuesday.

Dr. Charles Sturm, psychiatrist at the state's largest mental institution, died in a Baton Rouge hospital Thursday. It was Dr. Sturm who took pains to untangle red tape in the case.

When Dr. Sturm was appointed a hospital physician in 1958, he reviewed Thomas' record and wrote the courts that the man was psychotic.

Because of the case, every criminal case at the mental hospital at Jackson is reviewed annually and the courts notified "so this kind of thing will never happen again," state hospital officials said.

ABOUT FUTURE PROJECTS

Health Of Pope Raises Questions

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Although Pope John XXIII is reported steadily regaining his strength, his unstable health is raising questions about the future of projects he has fostered.

Besides the Ecumenical Council, due to resume in September, these projects include improvement of relations between the Vatican and the Communist regimes of Hungary and Poland. In the case of Hungary, the project centers on freedom for Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty.

A Vatican source said doctors have tried to impress on the pontiff, 81, that he must limit his activities. But, the source said, the Pope refuses to do so, contending he must fulfil his duties as the shepherd of the world's half-billion Roman Catholics.

This report of the Pope's will to keep on working seems borne out by the fact that although the Pope has entered a nine-day spiritual retreat—which could afford him rest—he has continued to work.

After celebrating Mass Saturday morning in his private chapel, the Pope received Vatican Secretary of State Amleto Cardinal Cicognani and talked with him for an hour about Church problems.

The reports in the Vatican are that the pontiff is steadily regaining his strength after a relapse last Tuesday.

His illness has never been clearly spelled out by the Vatican. When he was first stricken last November it announced he had anemia and a stomach disorder. He also has a chronic prostate condition. He is believed, however, to be troubled by a stomach cancer or ulcer with hemorrhaging.

Fear of periodic relapses hangs over the Vatican.

The recent contacts between the Vatican and Hungary and Poland are reported at a decisive stage. There is talk that Cardinal Mindszenty, primate of Hungary, may soon come to Rome from his six-year refuge in the U.S. legation in Budapest.

The Vatican and Warsaw are believed considering establishing consular relations.

In both cases, according to reports here and abroad, last details still must be worked out. Final decisions in this diplomatic activity must come from the Pope.

Even if his illness limits strenuous activities, it is felt he could still complete one bit of unfinished business of his pontificate—making public the names of three prelates he created cardinals "in pectore," in his breast.

At a consistory in March 1960, he announced their creations keeping their names secret. They will not become cardinals unless he names them publicly. He must call a consistory to name them.

But such a consistory could be a simple manner. It can be called in his bedroom on short notice, with only those cardinals available in Rome.

SLOW BUT SURE

Historical First African Summit Partial Success

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) —The historic first summit conference of independent African states was only a partial success.

But that is the way the Africans wanted it — deciding to go slow now to be sure later.

Ambitious, and sometimes unrealistic, plans such as that of Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah for a super-state were put aside.

Though the final goal, universally appreciated, was unity, delegate after delegate rose to say that for the time being "we want neither federation nor confederation."

NEWS ANALYSIS

What has emerged is an Africa fragmented as before but with a new organization, intentionally weak, to guide and not to lead.

Realistically, nothing more could be hoped for from a group of diverse leaders ranging from scholarly, pro-Western Tanganyika President Julius Nyerere to the unpredictable Nkrumah.

But aside from the main point of discussing a unity charter, the conference had ramifications that will long be felt. There were some definite winners and some clear-cut losers.

The losers were Nkrumah and U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Nkrumah's ideas were universally rejected here and he was the target of numerous asides, like that of Nyerere, who compared Nkrumah to a would-be Napoleon.

Nasser saw his influence wane —he couldn't obtain even the mildest condemnation of Israel— in favor of Algeria's Ahmed Ben Bella.

Ben Bella, along with Nyerere and President Felix Houphouet-Boigny of the Ivory Coast, was one of the clear winners.

The Algerian revolutionary achieved his victory, with its enhanced influence in Africa, by virtually declaring war on South Africa and Portugal. In effect his rousing speech — which brought him the greatest ovation of the conference—took hold of the issue of colonialism as almost his personal property.

Nyerere and Houphouet-Boigny won their usual laurels through eloquence and moderation. Though no less anticolonial than Ben Bella, they seized the African imagination here by facing the facts of life on the continent, and then pledging common sense measures to bring about change.

Two other winners here were the United States and Israel.

Israel saw the payoff of years of intelligent economic effort, quietly helping Africa's new independent states with such projects as Ghana's shipping line. The result was a fund of friendship which stalled all efforts by Nasser.

In a quieter way, the United States came out ahead. America's racial troubles were mentioned only in passing and in the corridors President Kennedy's efforts to bring racial equality in the South were sometimes applauded.

The conference failed to clear up the question mark surrounding the continent's biggest independent nation, Nigeria. Though Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa was an able and moderate spokesman, Nigeria's influence has not yet achieved its hoped-for promise.

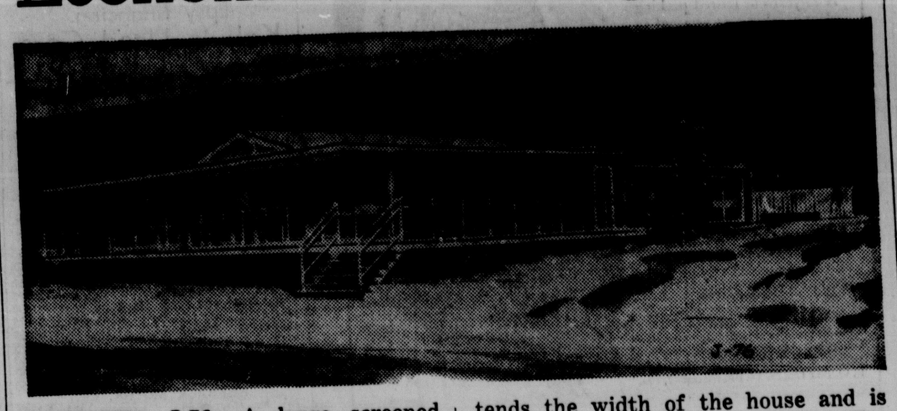

In a sense, the biggest losers here were South Africa and Portugal. Their racial and colonial policies came under a more scathing attack than has ever before been possible from Africa's independent states speaking as a group.

Should the spirit shown here—to act militantly and together against South Africa and Portuguese Angola and Mozambique—stand the test of time, trouble in those areas will intensify, and soon.

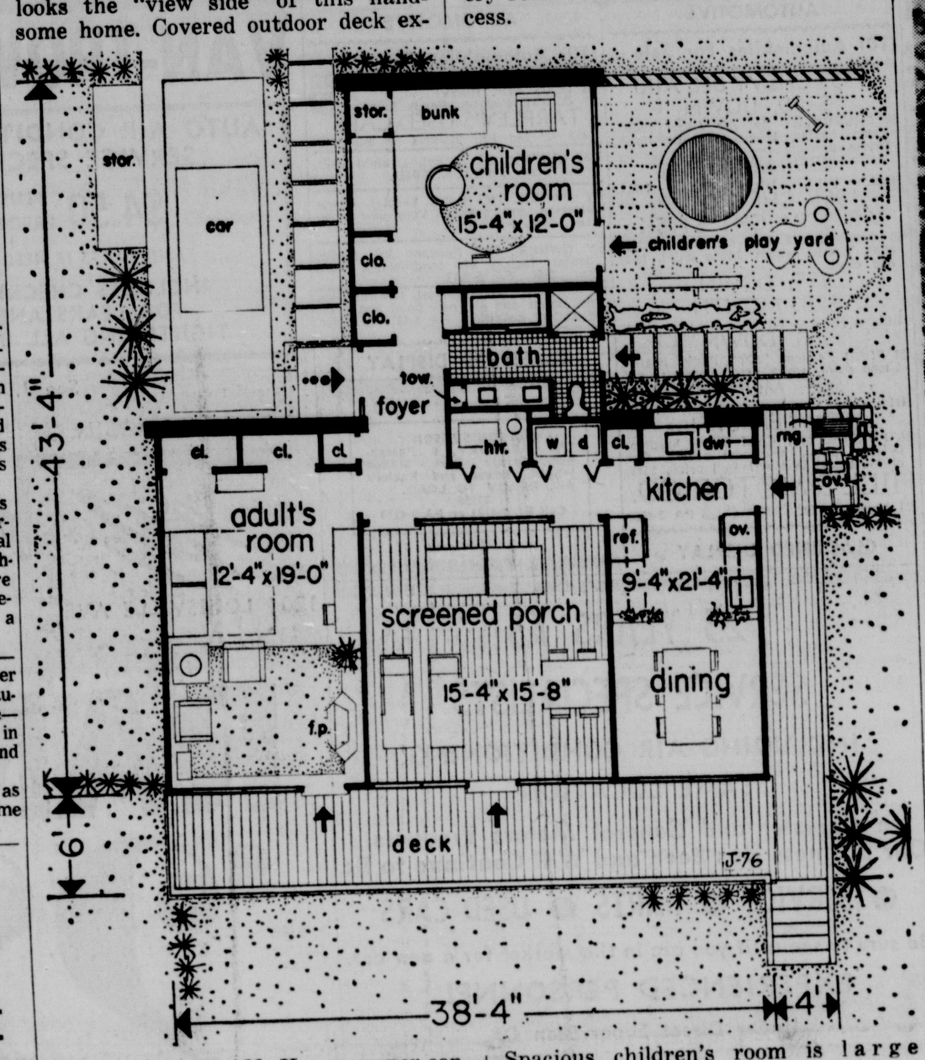

Even the moderates, such as Nyerere, proclaimed that the time for action is now.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Vacation House Has Its Economic Advantages Too

T-SHAPED J-76: A large screened porch with a cathedral ceiling overlooks the "view side" of this handsome home. Covered outdoor deck extends the width of the house and is carried uncovered along the side. Every room in the house has outdoor access.

J-76 FLOOR PLAN: House proper contams 953 square feet; screened porch 246 square feet; decks 345 square feet. Spacious children's room is large enough for two double bunks or three singles.

A-FRAME J-77: Fixed glass of the window extends to the soaring roof line of this stunning three-bedroom vacation home. Corner fireplace in living-dining room provides cozy touch for winter and extends outside onto terrace for summer barbecues.

By JULES LOH

Anyone who has read the resort brochures and toted up the costs doesn't need further convincing of the advantages a family has by owning its own vacation house.

The economics become even more impressive when you consider the possibility of renting the house during the offseasons, and of using it as a retirement home in later years.

A full study plan on this architect - designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing the HOUSE OF THE WEEK c-o of the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover costs of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan J-76 and J-77.

Today, House of the Week offers a choice of two vacation homes. Study plans of both come with an order for either.

Both houses are built for year-round use. One, design J-76 by architect Samuel Paul, is an ingenious T-shaped plan which affords maximum enjoyment of the surrounding scenery. The other, design J-77 by architect Lester Cohen, is a three-bedroom model whose A-frame principles make it adaptable to all sites.

DESIGN J-76

In architect Paul's plan a spacious screened porch with a dramatic cathedral ceiling occupies the center of the house and faces the rear (or "view") side between the adults' room and the kitchen-dining room. Fixed glass in the triangular sections above the main roof provide daylight from both sides.

A covered outdoor deck extends the width of the house at the rear and is carried uncovered along the kitchen side back to the children's play yard. Thus every room in the house has outdoor access.

The children's room, 15'4" by 12', is large enough for two double bunks or three singels plus ample indoor play space. The outdoor play area offers excellent supervision from the kitchen.

With the play area on one side and the parking area on the other the over-all shape approximates a square in dimensions of 38'4" wide by 49'4" deep. The house proper contains 953 square feet; the screened porch 246 square feet; and the decks 345 square feet.

DESIGN J-77

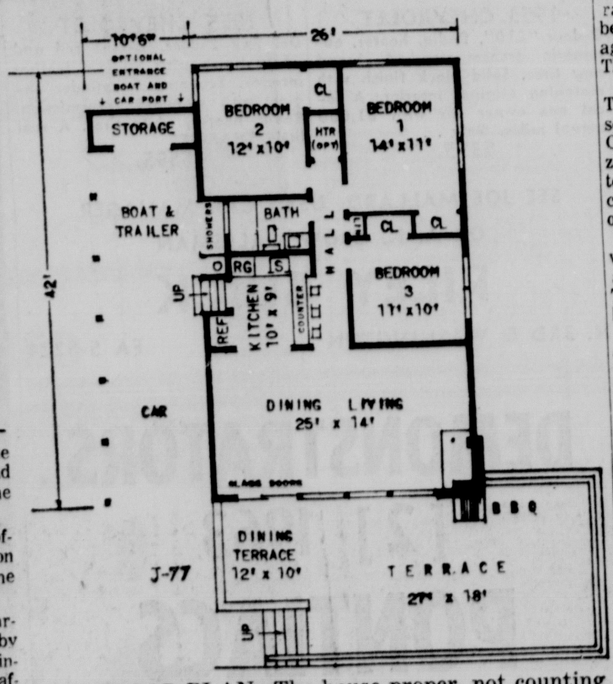

Architect Cohen's design has a stunning exterior look with the fixed glass of the windows extending clear to the soaring roof line.

The three bedrooms, bath, kitchen, and huge dining-living room occupy 1,092 square feet. This doesn't include the spacious front sun deck which, in a vacation house, becomes in effect part of the living area.

An exciting corner fireplace provides a cozy touch for winter vacations, and extends outside onto the terrace for summer barbecues. There also is an outdoor shower, besides the conventional indoor bathroom, which adds much to summer convenience.

The kitchen is efficient and has a long counter for casual snacks. There is plenty of room for formal dining in the 25' by 14' front room, and sliding doors lead to the terrace for outdoor dining.

The carport is 42' long and 10' 6" wide, plenty large for automobile, boat, trailer and storage facilities.

J-77 FLOOR PLAN: The house proper, not counting the deck, occupies 1,092 square feet. The 42'-long carport is plenty large for auto, boat, trailer and storage facilities as well as sheltered play area.

RED PROFESSOR

Suslov Moves Into Soviet's No. 2 Spot

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP)—The lanky, unsmiling figure most frequently seen at Premier Khrushchev's elbow these days is the Kremlin's little-known "Red Professor," Mikhail Andreyevich Suslov.

The dour Marxist theoretician, now 61, appears to have moved quietly into the Soviet hierarchy's No. 2 power seat vacated by ailing Frol R. Kozlov.

Suslov has taken over many of Kozlov's duties as Khrushchev's overseer of the massive party apparatus. He faces one of the toughest assignments on the Kremlin's docket—handling negotiations starting July 5 with the Communist Chinese.

Suslov has been Khrushchev's key adviser in the four-year-old ideological struggle with Peking's leaders. He is generally credited with mapping much of the Soviet day-to-day strategy.

FANATICAL

Ironically, he is regarded as the most doctrinaire of the party rulers and was thought to be sympathetically inclined toward Chinese views. He once was described by Western Kremlinologists as a fanatic Stalinist.

Some observers here believe Moscow's restraint and stubbornly conciliatory attitude in the face of vitriolic Chinese and Albanian attacks is largely due to Suslov's influence.

Suslov flew to Peking in 1959 to placate Peking's leaders who were fuming over Khrushchev's goodwill tour of the United States.

The Soviet leader himself showed up a few days later, straight from Washington, to answer the Chinese criticism of his talks with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Although Suslov appeared somewhat less enthusiastic than Khrushchev about the possibilities for relaxing East-West tensions by diplomacy at the summit, he firmly backed his chief's rejection of the Chinese protests.

Since that time, Khrushchev and Suslov appear to have been working closely together on relations with the Chinese.

The argument between the two capitals have been conducted in the jargon of Marxist ideology in sometimes subtly worded statements in official propaganda organs.

Suslov also has traveled to international Communist meetings where the Soviet-Chinese dispute has been highlighted.

Many students of Soviet affairs think Suslov served as a sort of bridge in the transitional period from Stalinism, through the brief period of Georgi M. Malenkov's premiership, to the era of Khrushchev.

At one time Suslov was regarded as a protege of Malenkov. Certainly he was a powerful figure when Malenkov served as Stalin's right-hand man. Suslov seemed to interpret the party to party members. He laid down the law to both satellite and foreign Communist parties.

He is a bookish, withdrawn figure. The son of a peasant in southern Russia, he joined the Communist party in 1921 at the age of 19.

The party sent him early in his career to a workers' university in Moscow.

He took an active part in the purge of party ranks in 1933-34 and rose quickly during the bloody purges of 1937-38. In 1941 he became a member of the Central Committee and was a political commissar during the war.

After the war, he became head of the Central Committee's agitation and propaganda department and in 1947 got the Central Committee secretary's job he still holds.

Later, Suslov began specializing in relations with foreign Communist parties and served briefly in 1949-50 as editor in chief of the party organ Pravda.

After Stalin's death Suslov appeared to have withdrawn into his propaganda work, steering clear of the struggle for power at the top of the Kremlin hierarchy.

He moved into the ruling Presidium in the wake of Malenkov's defeat by a Khrushchev-led opposition. Two years later he backed Khrushchev in the fight to oust his former allies, now known as the "antiparty group."

Despite Suslov's record of support for Khrushchev, he repeatedly is mentioned in speculation about a "hard" group in the Presidium which is unhappy about many of the premier's policies.

Veteran observers here have never noted any special warmth in relations between Khrushchev and Suslov.

The hard-driving Soviet leader's condescending attitude toward intellectuals may account for this seeming lack of rapport.

Cuban Veterans End Training

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A group of Bay of Pigs invasion veterans who have completed a training period with the U.S. Army at Ft. Jackson, S.C., reported Saturday they are organizing a combat unit in preparedness for any action against the Fidel Castro regime.

The group said its organization would not participate in exile politics.

"We expect to have hundreds in our force," a spokesman said.

A MYSTERIOUS blast early Saturday made this hole on the grounds of the Louisiana State Capitol, shattering windows in the state building. Another blast was set off at the LSU campus, also in Baton Rouge. No injuries were reported and police were unable to explain the blasts. Passersbys are looking at the hole. (AP Wirephoto)

1964 CONVENTION

Republicans Move To 'Frisco Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders are moving quietly to award their 1964 presidential nominating convention to San Francisco, probably in July.

Although the GOP National Committee's site subcommittee will not make a formal recommendation until a June 20 meeting in Denver, Colo., a highly placed Republican said Saturday the decision for San Francisco is all but sealed.

The parent national committee, meeting in Denver June 21, is expected to ratify choice of the site and a probable mid-July timing, despite some strong objections to choosing California.

The chief objection raised in GOP inner councils is that the California Republican party is torn by a conservative-moderate controversy, with no clear indication of the area from which its leadership will emerge.

The move of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon to New York has left California Republicans without the party's 1960 presidential nominee as a possible moderator among feuding factions.

The June 1964 California primary may produce a bitter battle between rival delegate slates that could impair the presidential nominee's general election drive to corral the state's 40 electoral votes.

Despite this possible backdrop of party strife, a majority of leaders think California is a state their nominee must carry if he is to beat President Kennedy. A national convention would give him a vast amount of publicity in this critical area.

Previously the site subcommittee had narrowed the field of possible convention cities to Miami Beach, Fla., Chicago and San Francisco.

In all, Miami Beach offered nearly a million dollars in cash and fringe benefits in its efforts to attract the Republicans.

There was some feeling among leaders that the choice of a Southern state for a convention would play into the hands of party leaders who want to push through the nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Others discounted this, saying that Republican hopes of carrying the South against Kennedy would be bolstered by a meeting in Florida, no matter who the nominee turned out to be.

Miami Beach was reported to have guaranteed that there would be no discrimination against Negro convention delegates or leaders. But what the city's leaders couldn't guarantee was that there would be no Cuban refugee picketing of the convention's sessions. This was a liability the subcommittee considered.

Chicago, which originally made no cash offer for the convention, was reported unofficially to have signified a willingness to put up $350,000. But its new lake shore Convention Hall was reported booked up at the time the Republican assembly of the chiefs of state, meeting once a year. A foreign ministers' council is to meet at least twice a year. The permanent secretariat will function here all year around.

A special committee to deal with disputes among member states also will be set up.

The leaders agreed in principle to seek reinforcement of unity, coordinate efforts to raise the standard of living, defend their sovereignty, eliminate the remnants of white colonialism in Africa and promote international cooperation within the United Nations.

Morocco's King Hassan II was not present when the charter was approved. He boycotted the meeting because Mauritania, which Morocco claims as its territory, participated.

Also absent was Togo's President Nicholas Grunitsky, hoisted to power after the assassination of President Sylvanus Olympio. The African nations were unable to agree on Grunitsky's participation at the summit.

Slight Thaw Appears In Race Talks

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A slight thaw appeared Saturday in frozen attempts for negotiation of racial conditions when four members of a Negro-elected committee agreed to meet with Mayor Allen Thompson.

The four, elected among 14 Tuesday night at a National Association for the Advancement of Colored People meeting as a citizens committee on human rights, telegraphed Thompson their acceptance and asked a statement of "ideas to be explored."

"Explore various ideas of best way to maintain harmony, law and order among all our citizens," Thompson said he telegraphed back.

A war of telegrams, indicative of the chill atmosphere between city hall and Negro groups seeking to end racial discrimination, has followed the demand of Negroes two weeks ago that negotiations start on their anti-discrimination requests.

In their acceptance the four brushed aside an earlier rejection of Thompson's request they meet with him as part of 10 Negroes Thmopson appointed for talks.

I. S. Sanders, chairman of the human rights committee; Rev. S. L. Whitney, Rev. G. R. Haughton and E. W. Banks said earlier they, and 10 others elected at the NAACP meeting were "democratically elected" and should represent the Negro community.

They challenged the right of six other Negroes appointed by Thompson to confer at city hall as not being eligible to represent the Negro community as they were not elected.

Jackson NAACP officers said demonstrations, including marches pickets and sit-ins, would come soon if negotiations on racial discrimination do not get underway.

Medgar Evers of Jackson, NAACP state field secretary, however, has refused to confirm when demonstrations would occur, apparently taking a wait-and-see toward the Monday meeting.

The Negro human rights committee has put forward a list of seven demands, including hiring of Negro policemen, and desegregation of schools, public facilities and lunch counters.

Italy's Next Premier Is Designated

Until a general election last month upset the Italian political scene, Moro was the Christian Democrats' "Mr. Inside" while Premier Amintore Fanfani was their "Mr. Outside."

But the election tarnished Fanfani's image and President Antonio Segni turned Saturday to Moro, a soft-spoken, 46-year-old Bari law professor who had been largely instrumental in forging the center-left coalition that Fanfani headed.

It was a coalition of the Christian Democrat party and the Republican and Democratic Socialist parties. The Marxist Socialist party of Pietro Nenni provided indirect support in parliament.

Minutes after receiving the mandate from Segni, Moro said he will try to base his government on the same parties, which control about 60 per cent of the votes in parliament.

His statement was vague concerning the Marxist Socialists. He said simply that they should be part of his majority. But he did not say whether they should have cabinet posts.

They did not have ministries in Fanfani's cabinet, and Nenni said Friday that his Socialists' role in any new government would be the same as it was under Fanfani.

Moro tried to reassure rightist Christian Democrats, who always have opposed the tilt leftward. He said he would seek to "bring to life a government capable of meeting the fundamental interests of the country and faithful to the Atlantic alliance."

Price Ceiling Is Urged In Sugar Costs

MONTGOMERY (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman Saturday was urged to immediately place a price ceiling on the sharply increasing cost of sugar.

State Agriculture Commissioner A. W. Todd wired Freeman the price of sugar throughout Alabama "is completely out of line" and hurting the housewife, manufacturers and bottlers.

Todd said the consumers were "suffering tremendously from the high prices they are having to pay.

"Let me urge you to place a price ceiling on sugar immediately to save the small food industry of our state and nation and to protect the consumer at this time when the cost of living is at an all time high," Todd said.

Todd also asked Louisiana Agriculture Commissioner Dave Pearce to tell him how much sugar currently was in warehouses in his state, and urged the Alabama congressional delegation to support efforts to gain relief.

Sen. John Sparkman, chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee, Saturday started a third congressional probe of soaring sugar prices. He said he directed the committee staff to "go into this matter fully."

The Alabama Democrat said the committee "has the responsibility to the nation, to the Senate and to the American small business community to find out what is going on."

The Senate Finance Committee and a House banking subcommittee already are investigating.

Jonesville Club Axes Gym Issue

JONESVILLE (Special) — The Junior Chamber of Commerce here has gone on record as opposing a proposed $160,000 school bond issue with respect to constructing a new gymnasium in Jonesville.

The Jaycees in support of a bond issue for building new colored class rooms here and at Sicily Island. In a nine-point statement to clarify their stand the Jaycees commented: "We believe that academic education should be our first importance and physical education of secondary importance."

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ad Traps Killer of 44 Years

A 77-year-old retired packing plant worker was arrested in Fresno on a charge of killing his wife in Pittsburg, 44 years ago. Nick Kasanovich had been sought since the slaying January 24, 1915. Ted Botula, chief homicide detective said Kasanovich's arrest resulted from a Want Ad that he placed in a national Serbian newspaper in an attempt to locate some relatives. An assistant Allegheny County District Attorney, remembered the name and the unsolved slaying and notified Fresno police.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
I have four boys from three to eleven.
Here's a way to keep them busy: Save all your empty soap boxes.
The children love to stack them and make forts and houses with or without a card table. They build "highways" and drive their cars and bicycles through them.
These boxes don't take up much room in a garage or basement, and when they get worn out . . . just throw them away. They may be replaced each week as another box is emptied when you do that inevitable laundry.

Rolls from paper towels and bathroom tissue, etc., can also be saved. They make nice, neat log cabins. Just fasten them together with paper clips.
Mrs. D. Hawk

DEAR HELOISE:
This may help someone: A damp sponge is excellent for cleaning window screens—rolls the dust into balls that drop down into the window sill where it is easy to pick them up with a vacuum cleaner.
You have to rinse the sponge occasionally, of course.
M. O.

GOING TO MOVE?

DEAR HELOISE:
Here are a couple of tips that we use in our moving business.
The day before you move disconnect your refrigerator and allow it to dry out thoroughly. Then sprinkle the freezer and refrigerator section with baking soda. When you are moved into your new home, take a damp sponge and wipe the soda from the refrigerator and freezer. Your unit will smell as fresh as spring and will be clean.
I also suggest that when the washing machine is first used (after a long-distance move) the housewife should add two tablespoons of soda in her first wash. This will clean and sweeten the rubber parts of the washer and make for brighter washes and less damage claims for me!
Hugh C. White, Jr.
Transfer and Storage Co.

TOO MUCH STARCH

DEAR HELOISE:
I keep a wet washcloth handy when ironing and when I see a "glop" of starch on a garment . . . I rub it well with the wet cloth and then finish my ironing. Works fine and it's my answer to "glops" of starch on clothing.
A reader

[illegible] PROBLEM

DEAR HELOISE:
If you have a tricky seam to press such as a shaped sleeve, put a towel over your hand, (folded several times so as not to burn your hand) and then all you have to do is push the towel into the sleeve of the dress. Then press. You'll be surprised how easily this can be done and what nice results you will have.
And for those who make jelly, I use a piece of nylon net to strain my juice. It's the only thing I have found that will wash nice and clean and leave no stains. It can be used over and over again.
R. Powell

JEWELRY DEPT.

DEAR HELOISE:
A jeweler cleaned a set of silver jewelry for me by using a soft bristle brush which he wet under a faucet and rubbed over a cake of mild laundry soap.

He lathered the jewelry and then poured baking soda generously over it—from a fat salt shaker—and scrubbed.
My jewelry came out just like new.
C. M. B.

ALL TUCKED IN

DEAR HELOISE:
Do you mothers have trouble keeping the bottom end of quilts and blankets tucked in at night?
I take the good part of a worn-out sheet and baste it along the bottom of blankets, etc. in the center part of the blanket, just about the width of the mattress, but not quite.
Leave a nice large piece and tuck it way under the mattress itself, and your bed-making will be a breeze.
You will not need to remove the quilt even to change the sheets, as the quilt can rest on the floor when turned back. It is then all ready to be brought back up smoothly over the bed again after the sheets have been changed.
Mrs. William Smith

IF YOU USE GARLIC

DEAR HELOISE:
When I purchase garlic, I peel it all at once and store it in a container in my freezer compartment. It is always ready for use, eliminates waste, and saves time.
I remove garlic and onion odors from my hands by rubbing them with dry salt before I wash them. This completely removes the odor.
May Anderson

PUNCTURE PROOF

DEAR HELOISE:
I use rubber gloves for household chores and always had to purchase new ones because my fingernails cut through the ends of the fingers.
Now I wear thin cotton gloves under the rubber ones and the gloves last much longer. Too, it keeps the hands from perspiring.
Bonnie Blurton

* * *

Now, aren't you tricky to think of this? Just love the idea—
Heloise

CONTOUR COVERS

DEAR HELOISE:
When your bottom contour sheets wear out . . . use 'em for ironing board covers. Just rip them in two.
The contour corner fits the neck of the ironing board and is made to order! Cut to size and tack or use ironing board pins on the rest of it. It works beautifully.

EASY PUDDING

DEAR HELOISE:
When I make pudding for my children I pour it into paper drinking cups until it is firm. This not only saves time, broken plates, but no washing dishes after dessert!
Marge

HOT POTATOES

DEAR HELOISE:
If baked potatoes get too crisp, put a damp cloth over them in the serving dish for a few minutes before serving.

Success Story Of A Growing College

NORTHEAST LOUISIANA STATE COLLEGE has an attractive campus, a capable faculty and talented, eager students. This aerial view of the campus, taken from the south, shows how the College has grown. All the buildings north of the football stadium, plus Stubbs Hall (at extreme right) and the College Union Building (white roof) have been built in the last 10 years and all but five of these in the last three years. Northeast, once a junior college, is now one of the fastest-growing institutions of higher learning in Louisiana and, with the purchase of 60.8 acres across Bayou DeSiard, is looking forward to even more expansion and greater service to the people of northeast Louisiana and the state.

This special section of the Morning World is devoted to Northeast Louisiana State College, one of the faster developing institutions of higher learning in Louisiana.

The College sets a new all-time high enrollment with the opening of every semester. With 3,315 students registered in the fall, the enrollment has leaped to almost four times as great as the 849 enrolled 10 years ago and represents an increase of 2,466 or about 290 per cent in only 10 years.

COMPONENTS

Northeast State is a multiple-purpose institution that offers opportunities for the personal and professional devlopment of each student it serves. Programs are designed to develop a broad cultural background that will help each student to live a full, rich, and well-balanced life and to offer him opportunities for specialized education necessary for success in a chosen career.

COURSES

The coures of study are administered under the divisions of business administration, education, fine arts, liberal arts, pharmacy, pure and applied sciences, and the graduate program. These academic divisions are discussed in other stories in this issue.

Also presented in this special section are stories that, when combined, will give a comprehensive picture of how a college — Northeast State in particular — functions, for Northeast has an outstanding faculty, a diversified curriculum, full academic recognition, modern teaching facilities, a hard-working, dedicated administration and staff, and enthusiastic, inquiring students.

No Substitute Available For Good Teacher

"There is no substitute for the good teacher."

The faculty is the backbone of any institution of higher learning and Northeast State seeks to provide its students with the best available teachers.

At the beginning of the 1962-63 school year, Northeast had 174 faculty members, not including ROTC personnel. The College faculty is drawn from a wide range of outstanding graduate schools and 59 members hold doctoral degrees, a large total for a school of Northeast's size.

The number of faculty members holding doctoral degrees has increased each year for the past four years. In 1959 the College had 39 doctors on its faculty, 49 in 1960 and 53 in 1961.

Northeast State faculty members have one main purpose — to help their students learn. They have two primary interests, their subject and their students. Faculty members are always glad to help, in class or out, students who are eager to learn.

They strive to provide the best possible instruction, maintain scholastic standards which will challenge their students, develop within each student an appreciation of the American heritage and arouse within them a devotion to democratic ideals and government.

They are active in local, state and national professional organizations and also participate fully in the social religious and civic life of the campus and the community.

Faculty Group Runs Athletics

The committee supervises the athletic program run by Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Jack Rowan. The excellence of the Northeast program was proved this spring when the College won the Gulf States Conference All-Sports Trophy.

Chairman of the Faculty Athletic Committee is Edward C. Whatley, associate professor of biology. Other members of the committee are E. H. Allen of the agriculture department; W. C. Buchanan of the Division of Liberal Arts; W. R. Hammond, dean of the Division of Liberal Arts; A. S. Huffman, chairman of the department of physical education; Arnold R. Kilpatrick of the Division of Education; John L. Luffey of the Division of Business Administration; Marcus Mapp, Chairman of the department of geology; and L. L. Price, chairman of the department of agriculture.

THE PRESENT AND FUTURE campus of Northeast State is shown here. At left, with the buildings in black, is the present campus while across Bayou DeSiard, bordered by broken lines, is the new 60.8 acres recently purchased by the College. Plans are already being made for utilization of the new land, which assures that Northeast's progress will not be slowed by lack of space.

60.8 ACRES

New Land Assures Future Of Expanding Institution

Northeast Louisiana State College is nearing completion of a three-year $5½ million construction program already preparing for more expansion.

Early this year the College completed acquisition of approximately 60 acres of land across Bayou DeSiard, probably the greatest single development for Northeast since its establishment as a degree - granting institution.

The additional land insures that the College's development will not be slowed by lack of space.

NEW BUILDINGS

Northeast's present campus is studded with beautiful new buildings built in the $5½ million construction program, now complete except for finishing of work on campus streets. Approximately 60 per cent, $3,100,000, of the $5½ million was financed with revenue-producing bonds secured from Housing and Home Finance Agency and will not be paid by taxpayers. The bonds are to be retired from room rent in the dormitories, revenue from the cafeteria, the snack bar in the College Union Building and other services provided to students.

Occupied under this construction program were Monroe Hall for 166 women; Ouachita Hall for 152 men; the new College Union Building; Sandel Library; Garrett Hall, the biology - geology building; Madison Hall for 300 men; Gunby Dining Hall, a modern cafeteria for 1,500 students; Breard Hall housing 150 women; a new bookstore; and an extension of Brown Hall Gymnasium.

With all dormitories under the three-year project now completed, Northeast has eight dormitories to house more than 1,200 students, with 758 in air-conditioned buildings.

The construction program has changed the face of the campus. Wide concrete streets now circle the campus in front of gleaming new buildings where students study, play and live.

EXTENSIVE PLANS

But this change will not be as great as the alteration expected within the next five years. In order to meet the challenge of providing adequate facilities for the predicted increased enrollment, the administration has made extensive plans for the College's future.

According to President George T. Walker, tentative plans call for a new dormitory for men, a gymnasium for men, a classroom building, a bridge across the Bayou, removal and expansion of the football stadium, rebuilding of the track, construction of a baseball field, softball diamonds and other physical education areas, tennis courts, ROTC facilities, relocation of existing temporary buildings including the warehouse maintenance shop, the agriculture shop, the ROTC dormitory, and ROTC classroom buildings, the renovation of Bry Hall and renovation of Brown Hall Auditorium and expansion of stage facilities.

The new men's dormitory has already been approved by the State Board of Education. The million-dollar building will be the first of many new structures on the 60.8 acres across Bayou DeSiard from the present campus.

ATHLETIC FACILITIES

New athletic facilities will be built across the Bayou and space now occupied by these facilities, the ROTC buildings and the maintenance shops will be converted to classroom and laboratory buildings.

All future men's dormitories will be built across the Bayou with men's residence halls on the present campus to be turned into women's dorms.

Students will travel between the new land and the present campus over a bridge which will be an extension of Hippolite Street.

The dormitory to be built on the additional land will house 350 students and will be similar to the residence halls recently built on the present campus. All of the new dormitories are air-conditioned. Madison Hall and Breard Hall were occupied in June of 1961 while Monroe and Ouachita were opened last fall.

The College Union Building, one of the finest in the South, opened last fall also. The latest building to be completed on the campus is Sandel Library. A two-story structure with room for 150,000 books, the library opened May 6. It was designed to allow the addition of another floor later if desired.

This recent construction and work to come on the land across the Bayou will allow Northeast to reach its full potential of service to the people of northeast Louisiana and the entire state.

Northeast Trying To Meet Demand

The tremendous strides being made in advancing the physical plant and the academic standards at Northeast Louisiana State College are outlined rather thoroughly in stories throughout this special issue of the Morning World. Everyone who has visited the campus lately will note the expansive improvement of visible accomplishments. But will these improvements keep pace with the needs?

We constantly hear about the upsurge in college enrollments due to hit within another year. Just what is all this hubbub about the slogan, "The college door is closing"?

FACTORS

Several factors are involved in the predictions that there will be a shortage of capacity for college admissions. First is the increasing birth rate. While the number of deaths per year has increased approximately 27 per cent, the number of births has increased approximately 93 per cent.

The American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers predicts that there will be 82,823 college students in Louisiana in 1965; 114,847 in 1970; and 149,594 in 1975. Approximately 63,000 were enrolled in 1961.

What will cause this influx to the colleges? The first factor of increasing births doesn't mean anything except that there'll be more persons of college age available to attend institutions of higher learning.

Many environmental factors, added to the growth in number of potential college students, will cause the upswing of increasing college enrollments. But two of these factors are most noteworthy.

One is the keen desire of all high school graduates to attend college. Society, by a many-fingered growth, has added pressure for young people to seek higher education. Once, a high school diploma was sufficient for young people to get good jobs. Now the competition for all available positions is greater.

ESTIMATES

Reliable authorities estimate that in 1970 there will be 60 per cent more jobs than now for professional and skilled technical people, 25 per cent more for semi-skilled workers, and no more than now for unskilled workers.

Consequently, a college degree now is almost a necessity for young people looking forward to good jobs. The pursuit of this sheepskin will be a cause of the expected vaulting of college admissions.

Not only does society's demand for a college education influence young people. Society now accentuates social, as well as professional, need of a college degree as prestige for the young citizen. The two influences placed on young people by the emphasis on college training during this space age are sufficient to cause increased college enrollments.

But the second environmental factor not only abets the first but also lends the practical means of accomplishing attendance of college. This factor is that an expanding economy has created an increasing capacity to attend college. Simply, more people can afford to go to college. Too, more colleges are providing scholarships — both academic and work — to students who need financial assistance.

There can be little doubt that increasing college enrollments are now about to leap upward. Sidney G. Tickton of the Ford Foundation sums up the reasons for this enrollment trend by saying that a combination of an increased number of young people, an increased desire to go to college, and an increased capacity to afford a college education can be expected to double college and university enrollments in 10 years and to triple them in 25 years.

At Northeast State, the administration is attempting with considerable success to "Keep the College Door Open!" Think of the fruits of the effort. Think of the advances mankind will achieve in general and Louisianans in particular as Northeast and other colleges meet the demand for college trained persons.

Consider the advances of orbiting space capsules, intercontinental jet flights, atomic power, electronic brains, industrial automation, the rapid transformation of communication via satellites—all recent revolutionary phases of modern life that are now fact.

Study the changes in social and political progress, the birth of new nations, the amazing results of medical research, and the new forms of art, music, architecture, and literature, to name a few additional advances now inherent in the world society.

Times are changing — indeed, have already changed greatly in the past 10 years — and with this change comes better facilities for better education. Students now live in air-conditioned dormitories, with two-room suites connected by private bath. Modern instructional buildings are air-conditioned and equipped best to serve individual course teaching.

The building of modern facilities and the acquiring of improved, increased faculties indicate that Northeast definitely is striving to keep the college door open for any high school graduate who has the ability and the interest.

Science Fair Is Big Event

One of the big events each year on the Northeast State campus is the Science Fair. The ninth annual region 3 Science Fair was held at Northeast this year with schools from throughout the area entering exhibits which won ribbons at the individual school shows.

The fair is presented each year to promote interest in science and give students opportunities to demonstrate their scientific ability.

Vital Work Is Directed By Nicholson

A very important man at Northeast State, but one few students ever come in contact with, is the dean of administration, James M. Nicholson.

Dean Nicholson is in charge of three departments necessary to the functioning of the college. They are operations and maintenance, which includes auto service, buildings and grounds; the business offices, accounting, office services and purchasing; and auxiliary enterprises, the bookstore, bowling alley, cafeteria, post office, snack bar, and barber and beauty shops in the College Union Building which are rented to non-college employees.

AUTO SERVICES

Ulma M. Bryant is in charge of auto services and sees that the College's vehicles are kept in good running order. Hurvie M. Moak is in charge of the maintenance of the College's buildings and their facilities, and James M. Neill keeps the College grounds in shape.

M. Linwood Malone is completing his first year as the College's purchasing agent. Larry V. Bonner, a Northeast graduate, is auditor and Mrs. Aileen B. Tarver is in charge of office services, which does printing for the College.

OTHERS

Mrs. Lettie A. Aswell is in charge of the College's new Gunby Dining Hall and Mrs. Ferdie Jones runs the College Bookstore. Mrs. Mackie L. Emerson is postmistress of the Northeast Station post office and Mrs. Jackie Anita Shows is in charge of the College Union snack bar. Bill Creed is manager of the Union bowling lanes and games room.

Dean Nicholson, a former oil company executive and LSU auditor, received his B.S. degree from Louisiana Tech and his M.B.A. from LSU. He served as a naval officer in World War II, being discharged a lieutenant commander.

Dance And Drill Team Performs At Grid Games

One of the high points of Northeast State home football games is the appearance of the Dance and Drill Team, a group of lovely young ladies who perform dance routines before the game and during halftime.

The team also performs at conference basketball games, in parades and at various civic club meetings.

Organized in the fall of 1960, the group has performed at the State Fair game between Northeast and Southwestern and has been acclaimed for their presicion marching and clever routines.

Scholarships of $30 per semester are awarded by the Northeast Booster's Club to women chosen for membership in the organization.

THIS SUMMER

Six Conferences Are Set At NE Education Center

Northeast Louisiana State College's Special Education Center will conduct six conferences and workshops this summer beginning June 12 with a Reading Institute.

Also scheduled this summer at the center is a Conference on Crippled Children, a Programmed Study for Gifted Children, an Arts and Crafts Workshop for Teachers of the Mentally Retarded, a Workshop for Teachers of the Exceptionally Able and a Workshop on the Education of the Emotionally Disturbed.

The Reading Institute, to run June 12 through July 26, will have Miss Sarah Nell Taylor of the Special Education Center as director and instructor. She will be assisted by Miss Mary Ann Baird of Brookhaven, Miss.

SPECIALISTS

Dr. Mary C. Austin of Harvard University, Dr. Albert Kingston of the University of Georgia and Dr. Don Parker, senior editor of Science Research Associates, are nationally known reading specialists who will participate in the institute.

The Reading Institute will have a two - phase program. A limited number of elementary and high school students needing remedial reading may enroll for non-credit and receive individual corrective instruction while in-service teachers enrolled may receive six semester hours of credit in education 146, Teaching of Remedial Reading, and education 147, Diagnosis and Correction of Reading Difficulties.

ANALYSIS

The Conference on Crippled Children will be an analysis of orthopedic and other physical involvements in children and the psychological and social effects of such disabilities. The conference should be of interest to regular teachers as well as special class teachers, supervisors therapists, counselors and nurses.

Students in the elementary and secondary schools whose I. Q. scores are 15 or above are invited to participate in the Programmed Study for Gifted Children. Students may pursue subjects like foreign languages, mathematics, science, English and geography with self-study materials furnished by the Special Education Center.

RE-EVALUATING

The Arts and Crafts Workshop will be devoted to re-evaluating existing classroom arts and the exchanging of practical ideas that would be useful in teaching mentally retarded children.

The Workshop for Teachers of the Exceptionally Able will be useful to teachers and other school personnel who are interested in current trends and practices in the education of gifted children.

Designed to help teachers identify early students with emotional problems, the Workshop on the Education of the Emotionally Disturbed will provide suggestions for preventing and alleviating these problems.

All three of the workshops carry two hours of graduate or undergraduate credit except the Arts and Crafts Workshop which carries two hours of undergraduate credit.

College Choir Given Praise Around State

The Northeast State Choir has drawn applause and praise throughout the state for its excellent performances.

Directed by Davis Bingham, assistant professor of music, the musical group presents several concerts throughout the year. It concluded this school year's activities with appearances at high schools and before civic groups May 9-10 in Baton Rouge and Tioga.

The group's May 9-10 performances came on its annual tour. Each spring the Choir travels to some part of the state for several appearances. Last year the group sang in the Shreveport area.

PERFORMANCES

Several performances are scheduled each year on the campus and in and around Monroe. The Choir presented a program of sacred music in Grace Episcopal Church in November.

Each year the Choir and members of church choirs from Monroe and West Monroe present Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," in Brown Auditorium. The 80-voice Northeast Concert Choir and approximately 40 singers from church choirs formed the Messiah chorus last December.

Also an annual event is the Northeast Christmas program, held each year just before the Christmas holidays begin.

FINAL APPEARANCE

The Choir's final appearance in Monroe this school year was "The Testament of Freedom," which climaxed "I Am An American Day" in the Twin Cities May 7. The concert included music based on the writings of Thomas Jefferson and popular numbers such as "Autumn Leaves," "Far-Away Places" and "Tonight."

Director Bingham has appeared as soloist on the nation-wide broadcast of The Baptist Hour and for the Louisville Symphony Orchestra, played leading roles in opera association productions in Louisville, Chattanooga and Shreveport, and was director of the Eighth Army Choir, 1952-54.

Largest of Northeast State's academic divisions with 1,037 students registered this semester, the Division of Education offers a total of 21 courses of study leading to bachelor's degrees.

Since 1961, the division has offered work leading to master's degrees, thus providing increased opportunities for potential teachers and teachers of northeast Louisiana and the rest of the state to prepare themselves for the big job of educating our youth.

Graduate degrees in education offered at Northeast are master of arts in education in English, social science and speech; master of science in education in biology, business, chemistry, health and physical education, mathematics and physics; master of education in biology, chemistry, education, English, health and physical education, mathematics, physics, social science and speech; and master of music education in music.

UNDERGRADUATE COURSES

Undergraduate courses of study in the division are art and a teaching minor; biology and a teaching minor; business and a teaching minor; chemistry and a teaching minor; elementary education; English and a teaching minor; French and a teaching minor; health and physical education and a teaching minor for men; health and physical education and a teaching minor for women; home economics and a teaching minor; mathematics and a teaching minor; music (band and orchestra, instrumental and vocal, piano, and vocal); physics and a teaching minor; school library science and an elementary education major; school library science and a secondary teaching major; social studies and a teaching minor; Spanish and a teaching minor; and speech and a teaching minor.

Students of the division take courses in their major subject which give them a thorough understanding and knowledge of the subject and, through their professional education courses, are taught how and why people learn. They become acquainted with the materials, techniques and methods that speed the learning process.

POTENTIAL

Northeast education students may be certified to teach the mentally retarded by supplementing their regular work with appropriate courses.

In addition to their classroom work, education students receive practical experience in supervised student teaching. Student teaching may consist of as few as 10 hours per week or as much as the entire school day, five days a week, depending on the student teacher's major.

Student teaching is offered in cooperating schools in the Ouachita Parish and Monroe City school systems — Ouachita High, West Monroe High, Neville High, Robert E. Lee Junior High, Ouachita Junior High, Thomas Jefferson Junior High and Lexington, Clara Hall, Claiborne, Highland, Lakeshort, Crosley and Sherrouse elementary schools.

The department of health and physical education, headed by Alva S. Huffman, conducts classes in activity courses such as soccer, volleyball, touch football, tennis, badminton, gymnastics, bowling, golf, archery, dancing and swimming, as well as professional courses which prepare the student for careers as coaches, recreation directors, teachers of physical education and athletic administrators.

SPONSORS

Also under the Division of Education is the Special Education Center, established in cooperation with the State Department of Education in 1955 to render educational diagnostic services to the exceptional children of northeast Louisiana. The center serves the school systems of Caldwell, Catahoula, East Carroll, Franklin, Ouachita, Morehouse, Richland, and West Carroll parishes and the city of Monroe.

Children who benefit from the free services of the center include the blind and partially blind, the deaf and hard of hearing, the crippled and those with special health problems, the speech defective, the emotionally disturbed and socially maladjusted, the very able and the mentally retarded.

WORKSHOPS

This summer the center, whose director is Dr. Lavelle Haynes, has scheduled several conferences and workshops. A Reading Institute has been set for June 12-July 26; a Conference on Crippled Children July 1, 2 and 3; a Programmed Study for Gifted Children July 1-August 9; an Arts and Crafts Workshop for Teachers of the Mentally Retarded July 22-August 2; a Workshop for Teachers of the Exceptionally Able August 5-16; and a Workshop on the Education of the Emotionally Disturbed August 10 - August 30.

Students enrolled in the Division of Education are given the opportunity to join the T. O. Brown Chapter of the Student Louisiana Teachers' Association.

Dean of the division is Dr. Eugene Holtzclaw. A native of Choudrant, Dr. Holtzclaw graduated from Louisiana Tech with a bachelor of arts degree and received his M. S. and Ed.D. degrees from the University of Arkansas. He has been dean of the division since 1958.

Campus Leisure Activities Offered

Attending college means work. Getting a college degree is a serious business and demands the major share of the student's time. However, there's time for fun and Northeast Louisiana State College students can spend their leisure time in dozens of campus activities.

Sports contribute much to the fun and excitement of college life. In the fall there's football and all that goes with it — pep rallies, parades, band music and post-game dances. In the winter, basketball takes over and Northeast students can join one of the most enthusiastic rooting sections in the Gulf States Conference. With spring come lazy afternoons in the sun watching the Indian baseball team in action and nights watching some of the nation's top track and field athletes perform.

For the sports fan who is not content to sit and watch from the sidelines, Northeast offers a fine intramural program of team and individual sports.

TOP PLAYS

The Northeast Concerts Association brings top Broadway plays and musicals and great entertainment figures to Northeast State students and the people of the Twin Cities each year. "Carnival" Jose Greco and his Spanish Dancers, "Sound of Music," the Vienna Boys Choir and the Dallas Symphony Orchestra are just some of the presentations of the Concerts Association in the past two years.

Other plays and musicals are presented each year by the Division of Fine Arts,"Papa Is All," and "Brigadoon," being staged this school year. Major campus productions held each spring are the Miss Northeast Pageant and "Redskins," the annual student variety show.

Movies are shown periodically in the College Union auditorium and concerts by the Northeast Band, Choir and Jazz Ensemble are eagerly - awaited events.

Big-name bands often play for dances or give concerts on the campus. Some of the year's top social events on campus are the Mardi Gras, Dixie and Military Balls.

"Sadie Hawkins Day," "Go West Day," the Greek Week Songfest and the Women's Recreation Association, "Powder Puff" football game are other top events.

MANY EVENTS

Organizational banquets, picnics and parties are held each spring along with musical recitals.

These are just some — by no means all — of the college activities enjoyed by Northeast State students. The College attempts, through its Division of Student Services, and other agencies, to provide wholesome social, recreational and cultural activities for all its students.

Scene of many of these activities is the beautiful new College Union Building. The opening of the two - story building last fall was a landmark in the College's efforts to provide its students with the best possible facilities.

Located in the College Union Building are a 220-seat auditorium, eight bowling lanes, a barber shop, a beauty parlor, a snack bar and dining patio, two large commuter lounges and stereo, TV and game rooms.

The snack bar on the main floor has two dining areas. The adjoining patio is equipped with umbrella tables.

Cafeteria-style meals are served in the snack bar as well as short orders.

Also on the main floor is the game area and the barber and beauty shops. Students can play billiards, ping pong and table games in the games area, as well as bowl.

Upstairs is the auditorium, where meetings, speeches and art exhibits are held. Students may sit and relax in comfortable lounge furniture, watch TV or listen to records in the spacious communter lounges. Also on the second floor are rooms for meeting of fraternities, sororities and other student and faculty - staff organizations .

INDIAN EMBLEM

Northeast's Indian emblem set in mosaic tile dominates the outside appearance of the College Union Building.

The College Union Building was a part of Northeast's recent $5½ million building program along with other buildings including four new residence halls.

The new dormitories are air-conditioned throughout and feature comfortable suites of two rooms connected by baths.

Built-in closets in each room have storage compartments for luggage and other items. Beds with box springs and inner-spring mattresses, two chairs and a chest of drawers complete the room furnishings.

The dormitories have spacious lounges and snack kitchens equipped with stoves, refrigerators and sinks.

Each of the new buildings has an inter-com system.

Once mainly a commuter college, Northeast has increased dormitory space tremendously in the past three years. The infirmary provides limited medical and nursing care for mildly ill students and a voluntary plan of group accident and hospitalization insurance, sponsored by the Student Government Association, is available to all full-time students.

Social Groups Provide Home While Away

Social fraternities and sororities at Northeast Louisiana State College provide a "home away from home" for students accepted as members.

The organizations take part in campus activities, provide numerous social functions for their members and encourage scholarship.

Social sororities at Northeast are Lambda Tau Chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi and Alpha Rho nities are Gamma Nu Chapter nities are Comma Nu Chapter of Kappa Alpha Order. Beta Nu Chapter of Sigma Tau Gamma and Epsilon Mu Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon.

These sororities and fraternities conduct "Rush Week" during the fall and spring semesters, cosponsor the annual Greek Week which culminates in a song fest and dance and sponsor many dinners, dances and picnics throughout the year. Highlight of each organization's year is the annual spring formal.

Broad Sports Program For NE Students

A student does not have to play on a varsity team or watch from the grandstand to enjoy sports at Northeast State. The school has an excellent intramural program that attracted an estimated 1,600 participants this year.

Directed by Dr. Robert L. Murdock, Jr., associate professor of health and physical education, Northeast State's intramural program offers competition in touch football, basketball, softball, volley ball, bowling, ping pong, checkers, horseshoes, badminton, golf and track.

TWO LEAGUES

Twelve teams played in two touch football leagues last fall, each team playing 10 games, and two league champions met in a playoff.

All team sports are divided into organization and independent leagues. Next year Murdock hopes to organize dormitory leagues also.

Sixteen teams played intramural basketball; teams in one league playing nine games and clubs in the other playing 12.

In softball, 12 teams played 10 games each with the league champions meeting in a two-out-of-three playoff.

LONGER SEASON

No volley ball competition was held this year because the football season lasted longer than usual but Murdock plans to return it to the program next fall.

At the conclusion of the team sports seasons, trophies are awarded the winning teams and all-star teams are selected. Players chosen on the all-star teams receive medals.

An intramural track meet is held each spring and tournaments in bowling, ping pong, checkers, horseshoes, badminton, billiards and golf are held at various times through the school year.

TO NEW RECORDS

Up And Over Soars Pennel

John Pennel is not the "down to earth" type of young man. The word for him is "Up."

The Northeast Louisiana State pole vaulter has been shattering world records with almost monotonous regularity lately. On March 23 he went 16-3 to erase the world standard of 16-2½. On April 10 he went 16-4 to break his own record. On April 30, after Brian Sternberg had set a record of 16-5 three days before, Pennel soared 16 feet, 6¾ inches, to take possession of the record again.

Beginning with his 16-3 effort, his first vault of 16 feet or better, in the Memphis Relays, Pennel has broken the 16-foot barrier more than any other vaulter in the world. At this writing, he has cleared 16 eight times, all within a 10-week period.

LONG ON TOP

A 22-year-old senior, Pennel has been one of America's top college vaulters ever since he entered Northeast in the fall of 1959. He was the first college freshman to ever clear 15 feet, going 15-¼ with an aluminum pole in 1960 and had bettered the height nine times before breaking into the 16-foot ranks.

Pennel cleared 15-9 the weekend before the Memphis Relays but cracked his favorite pole. He received a new one borrowed from Rice's Fred Hansen a few days before the Memphis meet and rode it to the record on the 23rd. Three days later he went 16-¼ in the Florida Relays, 16-4 officials had to stack soft drink cases under the stands, which reached only 15 feet. He went 16-4 in the Florida Relays, 16-4 for a new record in Natchitoches and then beat his pole's former owner, Hansen, with a 16-¼ effort in the Southwestern Relays.

PRESENT RECORD

He cleared 16-6¾ in Northeast's first home meet for the present record, went 16-0 in the Northeast Invitational and 16-1 in the Northeast Invitational and in the Gulf States Conference meet May 11 as Northeast ended its regular season.

Despite his great success in the vault, Pennel is not a specialist. He also broad jumped, threw the javelin and tossed the discus for Northeast this year and holds the national record for the softball throw with 315 feet.

The star athlete also is an excellent student. Last summer he made the honor roll with no grade below a B.

Pennel plans to enter Northeast State's graduate program when he graduates with his degree in health and physical education next January and hopes to represent his country in the 1964 Olympic Games.

Enrollment Sets New Records At Northeast State

Enrollment at Northeast Louisiana State College set records both last fall and this spring.

Enrollment last fall was 3,315, the highest total ever for the growing institution. The fall enrollment marked the first time Northeast had gone over the 3,000 mark.

In February a total of 3,027 students registered for the spring semester. The total was 301 more than last year, an increase of slightly more than 11 per cent and 35 per cent over the 1,948 enrolled five years ago and an increase of 267 per cent over the 822 enrolled 10 years ago.

Former N E Student Is Busy On TV

By LYNN GARRETT
EDITOR OF N.E. ALUMNI PUBLICATIONS

One of the busiest men on Garry Moore's weekly television show is a former Northeast student and one-time actor with the Monroe Little Theatre.

He's Bill Harp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harp of Bastrop.

As set decorator for the Moore show, Harp locates and selects all decorations and properties for the show and supervises construction of the many and intricate sets.

In a recent letter to the Northeast Louisiana State College alumni office, Harp mentioned a particularly interesting note concerning a show of several months ago.

SEVERAL SETS

Viewers will recall Carol Burnett and the Dodge City set. Harp pointed out that there had to be four of the "breakaway" sets—enough for rehearsals and the actual show—and numerous items in each set had to break without injurying Miss Burnett. This included guns, tables, chandeliers, bottles and glasses.

Harp went on to Louisiana State University after completing two years at Northeast in 1942. He holds the BA and MA degrees from LSU and has also attended Morningside College in Sioux City, Iowa, and the New York School of Interior Design.

Eight years of acting, producing, directing and designing in stock companies throughout the United States included work with the Red Barn Theatre, Lake Whalom Playhouse, Mt. Gretna Playhouse, Provincetown Playhouse, Pinehurst Playhouse and various off-Broadway productions.

DRAMA PROFESSOR

For two years, Harp was professor of drama at the University of Georgia's Atlanta division.

Then, before joining the Moore show five years ago during its first season, Harp was a decorator on Omnibus, Appointment With Adventure, Excursion, Studio One, U.S. Steel House, DX Unknown, and several others.

He comments that almost the entire staff has been with Garry Moore from three to five years.

"It has become one of the rarities of show business," Harp adds. "It's a happy family, which is really a tribute to Garry, one of the nicest men alive."

LaGrange Cops Festival First

LaGrange High School of Lake Charles won first place in the sweepstakes competition of the annual Speech and Drama Festival at Northeast Louisiana State College in February.

The Lake Charles school scored 120 points to edge Ruston, which had 116. Fair Park was third and Istrouma fourth.

An annual event at Northeast State, the Speech and Drama Festival attracts students from high schools all over the state. The event is sponsored by the Division of Fine Arts.

Eight Departments In Vital Division

Eight separate departments, each under a chairman, form the Division of Pure and Applied Sciences at Northeast State.

The division prepares students for innumerable positions in industry, education and business and also gives pre-professional training in such fields as dentistry, engineering, forestry, medicine, veterinary medicine, vocational agriculture and medical technology.

Beginning this summer, the division will offer master of science degrees in biology, chemistry, geology, mathematics and physics. Since 1961 degrees of master of science in education in biology, chemistry, mathematics and physics and Master of Education in biology, chemistry, mathematics and physics have been awarded.

MAY CHOOSE

Classrooms are well-equipped with all materials necessary to insure excellent training. Modern laboratories serve students in soil testing, dairy products, animal nutrition and physiology, cotton grading and horticulture.

Other facilities available are local farms and livestock herds, dairy processing plants, packing houses, freezer plants and food processing plants. Purebred herds are available for livestock judging classes and local farm machinery businesses are used for farm tractor and machinery classes.

Chairman of the department is L. L. Price.

Chairman of the biology department is Dr. B. Earl Prince. A staff of eight, including seven Ph.D.'s, offers courses in bacteriology, ecology, limnology, organic evolution, plant morphology and anatomy, systematic botany, plant physiology, mycology, plant pathology, marine botany, introductory zoology, anatomy and physiology, entomology, genetics, embryology, parasitology, ichthyology, herpetology, mammalogy and ornithology.

LAB, FIELD WORK

This department each year offers laboratory and field work in marine zoology. Monday through Saturday during the week of Easter the marine zoology field course is held at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, Ocean Springs Miss., for the collection, classification and study of marine organisms. The students meet one hour per week throughout the semester to prepare for the field work and organize data.

A course in marine invertebrate zoology is conducted each summer under the direction of the staff of the Gulf Coast Marine Laboratory and another in marine vertebrate zoology and ichthyology.

The chemistry department offers the standard four-year program leading to a bachelor's degree with a major concentration in chemistry. The program is set up along guide lines established by the American Chemical Society and is in general agreement with its recommendations. The chemistry major takes what amounts to a year's concentration in course work in each of the four major areas — general chemistry, analytical chemistry, organic and physical chemistry.

Northeast chemistry students work in modern, well - equipped laboratories, equal or superior to those of many larger colleges and universities.

FACULTY

Headed by Dr. William K. Easley, the faculty of the department is composed of nine persons, six of whom hold Ph.D degrees in chemistry.

Many of the faculty members have received state and national recognition for research. Miss Frances P. Baldwin, assistant professor, recently had a paper presented at the national meeting of the American Chemical Society showing that lithium nitride reacts with acid chlorides, contrary to earlier reports.

Students of geology at Northeast State have a definite seller's market for themselves upon graduation. According to a study by the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America, there will be only 200 college graduates to fill 600 new openings in the petroleum industry this summer.

Headed by Marcus Mapp, the department of geology offers a well - rounded course of study for the student aiming for a career in geology or the petroleum industry. Courses are taught in physical and historical geology, rocks and minerals, micropaleontology, paleontology, structural geology, geomorphology, petroleum geology, crystallography and mineralogy, optical mineralogy and other phases of the subject.

Offered in the summer only is field geology. Students of this are quartered on the campus of Henderson State Teachers College in Arkadelphia, Ark., and work at the field camp headquarters in the foothills of the Ouachita mountains. Map study, detailed section measuring and related rock and fossil study, geologic and structural mapping using topographic maps and aerial photographs and side trips to nearby points of interest, such as caves, mines and quarries, are included in the course.

OTHER COURSES

The department of home economics, headed by Miss Frances Kelso, offers excellent training for careers in college and secondary school teaching, extension work, dietetics and institutional management, business and the important job of homemaking.

Courses are offered in such subjects as family nutrition and food selection and preparation, diet therapy, clothing selection and construction, home planning and furnishings, household equipment, institutional management and organization, and tailoring.

The mathematics department offers courses leading to bachelor of science degrees in mathematics and mathematics education. The department also has a pre-engineering program for students who will complete their work at other institutions.

This year the mathematics and goeology departments conducted the Science and Mathematics In-Service Institute under a grant from the National Science Foundation. Participants received a travel allowance, fees for books and exemption from tuition and other fees under the grant. Objective of the Institute was to provide training in mathematics and earth science for teachers needing to improve themselves in these fields or those wishing refresher courses.

Dr. Daniel E. Dupree, chairman of the mathematics department, and four other faculty members — Roberick A. Hickman Jr., associate professor of mathematics, Frank Harmon, associate professor of mathematics; Jerry L. Linnstaedter, instructor in mathematics; and Dr. H. Lawrence Browning Jr., assistant professor of chemistry — recently submitted a report to the Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala., which is currently being used in computing the best, most economical flight path for the Saturn missle.

THE REPORT

The report, "A Recursion Process for the Generation of Orthogonal Polynomials in Several Variables," is the second since Northeast State was awarded a grant of $11,987.20 from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) last spring for research in developing methods for solving problems associated with space vehicles.

One of the youngest departments of the college, the department of nursing was inaugurated in 1960. The first class will graduate in June of next year. Graduates of the nursing program are prepared to take the licensing examination for recognition as registered nurses.

A shortage of nurses in the South makes this field an attractive one for capable young women. According to latest available statistics, the southern states have only 173 nurses per 100,000 population while the minimum standard suggested by the National League for Nursing is 300 per 100,000.

PREPARATION

Students of the nursing department take courses in liberal arts, sciences and the humanities concurrent with professional courses. The facilities of St. Francis Hospital, E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital and clinics of the Ouachita Parish Health Unit and other agencies are used in training Northeast's student nurses. The students practice nursing in laboratory courses and then are under the direct supervision of faculty members in off - campus training.

Students who complete the program of four years and a summer are awarded bachelor of science in nursing degrees.

The physics department, whose chairman is Glenn F. Powres, offers instruction in one of the most vital and challenging fields in this age of space.

Northeast has modern facilities for the teaching of these courses including equipment purchased as a result of an $11,800 grant from the Atomic Energy Commission.

Dean of the Division of Pure and Applied Science is Dr. Aaron P. Seamster. A native of Arkansas, Dean Seamster received his bachelor of science and master of science degrees from Oklahoma A&M (now Oklahoma State) and his Ph.D. degree in zoology from the University of Notre Dame.

'THE AGE OF REPTILES' is the title of this display being studied by two students in Garrett Hall, Northeast State's new biology-geology building. The biology and geology departments are two of eight departments in the Division of Pure and Applied Science at Northeast. Others are chemistry, agriculture, home economics, physics, nursing and mathematics.

GRADUATE WORK VITAL

More Persons Attending College Than In The Past

Life in America is becoming more complex and challenging. Young men and women are called upon to do jobs more demanding and difficult than were their parents, work that requires more training and education.

As a result, more people are attending college and more are pursuing graduate degrees than ever before.

Once necessary only for teachers and in a few other select fields, the graduate degree is now desirable — and often necessary — in nearly every career field.

Northeast Louisiana State College is helping meet the demand for more highly-trained men and women through its graduate program.

PROGRAM GROWING

The college's graduate program, like the rest of the school, is growing. Opened for the first time in 1961, the graduate program is already the third largest in enrollment of all the institutions under the State Board of Education.

In February of this year, the State Board authorized the college to grant three additional graduate degrees. The newly-authorized degrees expected to give impetus to the already-expanded graduate enrollment.

Since the summer of 1961 Northeast has offered work leading to the degrees of master of music education; master of arts in education in English, social science and speech; master of science in education in biology, business, chemistry, education, English, health and physical education, mathematics, physics, social science and speech.

The new graduate programs were authorized to broaden opportunities for students to earn master's degrees in the liberal arts and sciences without professional education requirements. They are master of arts in English and in history; master of science in biology, chemistry, geology, mathematics and physics; and master of music.

LARGE ENROLLMENT

Two hundred and thirty-one students are presently enrolled in the graduate program at Northeast with 23 of these expected to complete requirements for degrees at the end of this semester.

Northeast's graduate program is under the general supervision of the Graduate Council. The council recommends policies concerning the graduate program, subject to the approval of the president, and is responsible for the organization, administration and supervision of the program.

Dr. Clint O. Hanna, dean of instruction, is the chief administrative officer for the program. Holder of a B.S. degree from Union University and M.A. and Ed.D. degrees from George Peabody College, Dr. Hanna has been dean of instruction since 1960. He is charged with the responsibility of initiating graduate program policies, recommending action and administering the program as conceived by the Graduate Council.

REQUIREMENT

The graduate program requires the earning of 30 semester hours of graduate work. This program may require 24 hours of course work and six hours allowed for a thesis or may require 30 hours of course work and no thesis.

Northeast's graduate program was established to provide opportunities for qualified men and women to improve their professional competancy through advanced study and scholarly research, for promoting the welfare of general society by developing a broader and deeper understanding of human knowledge and for preparing for further graduate study. To implement such opportunities the college offers the student the daily use of its library and an acquaintance with older scholars.

Classwork at the graduate level can be no more than a guide for extended research and reading. Students are expected to do superior work and to master subjects rather than meet minimum requirements and comply simply with formal standards.

The graduate student must assume far greater responsibility than the undergraduate in selecting a specialized program that will best meet his own particular needs and better prepare him for life in today's complex and changing society.

Honorary Clubs Play Vital Roles

Professional and honorary fraternities and clubs are an important part of academic and student life at Northeast Louisiana State College. Many of the campus organizations have received state and national recognition, the latest being Pi Sigma Epsilon, the sales fraternity.

The Zeta Chapter at Northeast, smallest of 32 Pi Sigma Epsilon chapters in the United States, this year was runnerup for the Top Chapter Award at the organization's national convention in Philadelphia and Zeta's faculty advisor, Assitant Professor of Business Administration Dwight D. Vines, won the Top Advisor Award presented by Sales and Marketing Executives International for his contributions.

OTHER AWARDS

This year's honors were not the first for Zeta Chapter. For two consecutive years, 1961 and 1962, the fraternity won the Top Sales Project Award at the national convention.

The programs and activities of Zeta Chapter and the other professional and honorary groups on campus are designed to help members become better prepared for their chosen fields. This is done in a variety of ways.

Professional campus organizations draw people with similar interests together. They discuss common problems and new developments in the field. They develop a common bond.

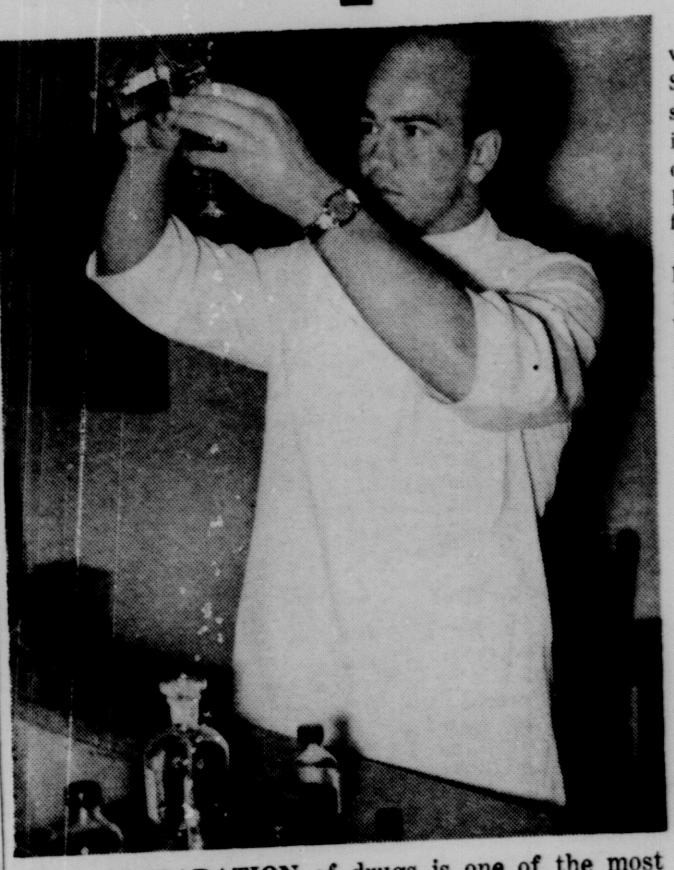

OPPORTUNITIES

Secondly, student members are able to meet men and women now working in fields the students will eventually enter and, through them, are able to better understand what will be expected of them after graduation and the problems and rewards of their future careers.

Professional organizations often provide opportunities for students desiring part-time or full - time jobs. The contacts provided through the organizations and the jobs are valuable throughout the student's college years and frequently lead to job opportunities after graduation.

Finally, honorary and professional fraternities and clubs educate their members through their projects and encourage leadership, initiative and high ideals.

Professional and honorary fraternities, societies and organizations at Northeast State are Omicron Delta Kappa (leadership); Phi Alpha Theta (history); Rho Chi (pharmacy); American Pharmaceutical Association, Student Branch; Kappa Epsilon Pharmaceutical Fraternity for Women; Kappa Psi (pharmacy); Phi Delta Chi (pharmacy); American Chemical Society, Student Affiliate; Delta Demeter (agriculture); Delta Omicron (music); Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia (music); Phi Beta (speech and music); The Jesters (speech); Kappa Pi (art); Scabbard and Blade (military); The Fusileers (military); Pi Sigma Epsilon (business); Sigma Tau Delta (English); Writers Club (English); Student Louisiana Teachers Association; Student Nursing Association (Nursing); Alpha Mu Upsilon (accounting); Beta Sigma (biology); Home Economics Club; Veterans Clubs; Mu Alpha Theta (pure and applied sciences); Northeast Geographical Society; Northeast Louisiana Geological Society; Pre-law Club; Northeast Honor Society; Senior Board (honor); Circle "K" (service); Socal Science Club; and Women's Recreation Association.

THE PREPARATION of drugs is one of the most important arts of healing. Here one of Northeast State's students in the School of Pharmacy prepares a prescription in one of his laboratory courses.

One of the younger academic divisions at Northeast State, the School of Pharmacy is the only state-supported pharmacy school in Louisiana and offers graduates of the state's high schools excellent training in a challenging profession at minimum cost.

Authorized by the State Board of Education on August 11, 1956, the School opened the following month with 66 students. Previously the only pharmacy schools in the state were at two private institutions in New Orleans.

The School of Pharmacy has graduated 165 pharmacists since its beginning and has 343 students currently enrolled in pre-pharmacy and pharmacy.

PRODUCES SPECIALISTS

A member of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, accredited by the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education and approved by the Louisiana State Board of Pharmacy, the School of Pharmacy produces specialists in the ever-expanding science of drugs. Graduates may go into one of several fields within the profession, most into retail distribution in drug stores, apothecary shops and in chain stores. Others may practice their profession in hospitals, a number will become manufacturers, sales service representatives, researchers and teachers and some may become editors of drug journals.

The School has an excellent faculty — six of the seven staff members have doctor's degrees — and is headed by Dean Ralph Wilson, graduate of the University of Oklahoma and pharmacy dean of Ferris Institute in Big Rapids, Mich., prior to taking the post at Northeast.

Its physical facilities are excellent also. The School is housed in Caldwell Hall, a modern two-story buiding of approximately 19,000 square feet, and has well-equipped laboratories for prahmaceutical chemistry, pharmacy preparations, dispensing pharmacy, pharmacognosy and pharmacology.

FIRST GRADUATES

The first graduates of the School of Pharmacy in May, 1959, were graduates of a four-year program. In 1960 the School put into effect a five-year program.

Added to the curriculum under the five - year program were courses in retail pharmacy management, physical pharmacy and drug analysis, plus more electives.

Courses offered by the School fall into five types:

1. General Pharmacy (dispensing, calculations, history of the profession, manufacturing, physical pharmacy, animal health pharmacy, etc.);
2. Pharmacognosy (definitions, active constituents, preservation, source, use and dosage of drugs);
3. Pharmacology (properties, doses, actions, therapeutic and toxic effects of drugs);
4. Pharmaceutical Chemistry;
5. Pharmacy Administration (marketing, store management, pharmacy law, etc.).

PRE-PHARMACY

Before students begin taking their pharmacy courses, they are under the pre-pharmacy curriculum for two years and receive training in related fields such as chemistry, mathematics, physics, botany, zoology, etc. Pre-pharmacy programs are also offered at many other colleges and universities and many of Northeast's pharmacy students did their preparatory work at other schools.

Pharmacy majors may belong to one of several pharmaceutical honor societies, and professional and honorary fraternities. The Beta Chi Chapter of Rho Chi Society, open to pharmacy majors with a B average; the American Pharmaceutical Association, Student Branch; Kappa Epsilon Pharmaceutical Fraternity, Gamma Mu Chapter; and Phi Delta Chi Pharmaceutical Fraternity are organizations on campus which promote the advancement of pharmacy and encourage sound scholarship.

Many scholarships and grants are available to qualified pharmacy students, among them the Jones S. Davis Pharmacy Scholarships, the Monroe Wholesale Drug Company Scholarships and others.

Applicants for admission to the School of Pharmacy, in addition to meeting the requirements for admission to the College, must meet the requirements of the pre-pharmacy curriculum and must have earned a C average in their work.

AT COLLEGE HERE

Alumni Group's Activities Gain

With nearly 4,000 former students on the rolls, the Northeast Louisiana State College Alumni Association is becoming increasingly more active.

Recently, the Association sponsored the first Spring Alumni Day ever held at Northeast State.

The events began with a tour of the campus and new buildings. A picnic supper was served free to former students and their families and Alumni Association President James W. Beaver introduced several campus personalities to the group.

After the picnic, alumni had an opportunity to attend "Redskins," annual campus production.

REASONS

Beaver said he feels interest in the Association is growing stronger all the time and cited as two reasons the frequent publication of the Alumni News, now being issued 11 times a year, and the organization of more alumni chapters.

Chapters are now organized in Bastrop, Shreveport and Tallulah, with plans well underway for a fourth chapter in Winnsboro, he said. Also, he pointed out that the local Association is a charter member of the Louisiana Alumni Council.

"Membership in the Council enables us to talk with representatives from other colleges to discuss mutual problems and learn more about alumni work," he added.

Beaver pointed out that alumni from throughout the world have contributed to the Association's scholarship fund. "At its last meeting, the Association board voted to give five $100 scholarships to five deserving students in the area," he said. "Many, many alumni have shown their interest by providing this $500."

Names of the recipients of the scholarships are to be announced at a later date.

PLANS MADE

Plans are also underway to form a Past Presidents' Council, to be composed of all former presidents of the Association. Alumni officials said that such a group "could be invaluable in furthering the group's work."

Past presidents are Pascal Norris, Gordon LeBlanc, Harry Liner, Floyd Holloway, Sam Rubin Jr., Buster Crowley, Wood Sers and Roland Carter.

Northeast's Band Is Fine Ambassador

The Northeast Band, under the direction of Associate Professor of Music Joe Barry Mullins, provides much of the color and excitement at Northeast football games each fall with its stirring music and its crisply - executed formations.

After football season, the Concert Band gives performances in Monroe and other parts of the state as well as in nearby states.

'FINEST CONCERT'

Last December the band gave a concert of classical music in Brown Auditorium and then performed at Greenville, Miss., High School before being featured in the Mid-South Clinic in Memphis, Tenn. After the concert at the clinic, the clinic director called the Band's performances "The finest concert ever performed here."

For the past two years, the Northeast Band has participated in the giant Mardi Gras Rex Parade in New Orleans.

In addition to the concerts in Greenville and Memphis and participation in the Mardi Gras, the Band also performed at halftime in the Northeast - University of Southwestern Louisiana football game in Shreveport's State Fair Stadium last fall.

BACKGROUND

Mullin has been director of the Indian Band since 1951. A native of Arkansas, he received his bachelor of music from Southwestern of Memphis and his master of music from George Peabody College.

STUDENTS BENEFIT

Testing Program Aids Counselors

At a growing college like Northeast State, one of the problems faced by guidance personnel is that individual students become lost in the mass and become merely numbers instead of people.

The main reason this does not happen at Northeast is the pre-entrance testing program.

Established three years ago, Northeast State's intensive pre-enrollment testing program enables guidance counselors and faculty advisors to know the student's capabilities, his strong and weak points, and thus be able to better guide him.

Guidance counselors are provided with results of the pre-entrance tests, taken by all Northeast freshmen, before they talk to him about college work. This information is also shared with the student's faculty advisor, who personally guides the student in selection of courses of study.

OFF CAMPUS TESTS

Northeast State was one of the first colleges or universities in the state to conduct pre-entrance testing off campus. The tests are conducted in most of the parishes of northeast Louisiana as well as at Northeast.

A total of 1,334 high school and transfer students, the most ever, were tested last year. All but 90 of the students were tested prior to the beginning of the fall semester. The 90, most of them from out of state or from distant parts of Louisiana, were tested during freshman orientation and results of the tests on all of the students were in the hands of advisors the next day for pre - registration counseling.

"We attempt to give as many students as possible the opportunity to take our tests in advance," says Herman R. Sigler, director of testing and guidance. "We have been very pleased with the response by students and the fine co-operation we have received from high school administrators."

OPPORTUNITY

Sigler points out that those taking the tests in advance have the opportunity to come to the Northeast campus for reviews of their tests and talks with faculty members before beginning school.

Sigler estimated that from 60 to 70 per cent of those tested off campus come to the campus later to review results of the tests. Many are accompanied by their parents, who are able to learn more about their children's capabilities and opportunities.

Students taking Northeast's pre-entrance tests are not required to attend the College. Many go to other schools, with the test results being forwarded to their college. The test may be taken by any high school senior.

The pre-entrance tests are conducted on and off campus during the spring and summer months. Any student desiring additional information on testing is urged to contact Sigler.

"Pre-entrance tests are designed to keep students in college rather than keep them out," says Dr. Fred Vogel, dean of student services at Northeast. "They aid students by identifying their strong points and enable us to help strengthen the student's weak points."

Johnson Top Cage Player And Coach

Lanny Johnson, Northeast State's first All-American in basketball, proved to be a pretty good coach also.

Johnson served as manager and graduate assistant to Coach Lenny Fant this winter after making All-America in 1962 and received two opportunities to coach the varsity club. The first time, when Coach Fant was absent because of a death in the family, the Northeast team defeated William Carey, 86-70, and set a school field goal record in the process.

Fant was absent later on in the season, this time because of illness, and Johnson took over again and again the team set a school field goal record in beating Spring Hill, 103-88.

Fant remarked jokingly later that "I'm afraid to get sick again, I may lose my job to Lanny."

BRIGHT VIEW

Johnson is not likely to repiace Fant, who guided the Indians to the Gulf States Conference championship in 1962, anytime soon, but he faces a promising coaching career.

As a player, the Northeast guard was one of the conference's all-time greats. He led the league in scoring in conference games twice, made the All-GSC team twice and was voted the circuit's outstanding player his senior year. He scored 1,366 points, a Northeast record, during his college career.

Johnson set or tied four other school records during his four years in an Indian uniform — highest season average (21.3), most field goals in career (532), most field goals in a game (16) and most points in a game (38), a record held by two other Indians.

In 1962 Johnson was named to the NAIA All-America first team and the Associated Press Little All-America second team.

He completed requirements for his B.S. degree in health and physical education in January and is now in the graduate program. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Johnson of Monroe and is married to the former Carol Shipp of Monroe.

AT NORTHEAST STATE

Dr. Walker First Served In 1936

Dr. George T. Walker, Northeast Louisiana State College's energetic chief executive, began serving Monroe's fast-growing college for the second time when he became president in July of 1958.

Dr. Walker was an instructor in commerce and then acting head of the department at Northeast Center of Louisiana State University from 1936 to 1938 when he left to become assistant professor of business administration at Southeastern Louisiana College. Northeast was then a junior college.

Twenty years and a few weeks later, Dr. Walker returned to Northeast as president.

A native of Jonesboro, Dr. Walker attended Northwestern State, graduating in 1935 with a bachelor of arts degree in business education. He graduated from Louisiana State University the following year with a master of science degree in accounting and in 1958 received his Ph.D. from LSU with a major in business administration.

In addition to his jobs at Northeast and Southeastern, Dr. Walker was assistant and associate professor of accounting and business administration at Southwestern in 1939-40; state supervisor of business education with the State Department of Education from 1940 to 1943; director of employee relations and civilian training in the Industrial Personnel Division of the New Orleans Port of Embarkation from 1943 to 1945; assistant to the dean of the Junior Division at LSU from 1945 to 1948; dean of the School of Applied Arts and Sciences and professor of business administration at Northwestern from 1948 to 1958 and also dean of administration from 1954 to 1958, when he came to Northeast. He also taught summer school classes at LSU for several years and at Women's College of the University of North Carolina in 1942. In 1931 and 1932 he was a salesman and retail store manager at Amite.

He has served as president of the Louisiana College Conference, as president of the Southwestern Social Science Association, on the board of directors of the Natchitoches Chamber of Commerce, as president of the Natchitoches Lions Club, president of the Louisiana Business Education Association, president of the Ouachita Parish United Givers Fund, vice president of the local council of the Boy Scouts of America, and received the Salvation Army Award as Citizen of the Year in 1962. He is presently a member of the Little Theatre board of directors, second vice president of the Executives' Dinner Club of Monroe and a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Northeast president is an elder of the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe. He is married and has two children and one grandchild.

Northeast Has Had 4 Names

Northeast Louisiana State College has had four names since it was established back in 1931.

The College's first name was Ouachita Parish Junior College. The school, then a junior college, kept this name until 1934 when it became affiliated with Louisiana State University. With the transfer to LSU, the school was renamed Northeast Center of LSU.

In 1939, the name was changed again, this time to Northeast Junior College of LSU.

In 1950 the state legislature approved the expansion of the College into a four-year institution and its transfer from the Louisiana State University Board of Supervisors to the State Board of Education. The name was changed to Northeast Louisiana State College.

What is an educated person?

It is not one who has great knowledge in one — but only one — field, but one who has a solid foundation in all the basic fields of knowledge. At Northeast this foundation is provided by the Division of Liberal Arts.

Every student at Northeast, no matter what his major, takes some Liberal Arts courses — English, languages, journalism, economics, geography, government, history, and sociology. For the student majoring in other fields, these courses serve to broaden his outlook and interests and make his education a well - rounded one.

For the Liberal Arts major, the Division gives the student a basic foundation which prepares him for future specialization in career areas such as business and industrial research, climatology and cartography, college teaching, economics, government and politics, law, management, radio, television, journalism, public relations and social welfare.

DEGREES

Students may earn bachelor of arts degrees in economics, English, foreign languages, geography, government, history, journalism, sociology, pre - law and pre - social work in the liberal arts division.

Master's degrees awarded are master of arts in education in English and social science; Master of Education in English and social science; and master of arts in English and history.

Recently introduced in the Division of Liberal Arts is a curriculum designed for students planning to enter radio and television news. Students under the new curriculum write, edit and broadcast news on a 15-minute program broadcast on KLSE-TV, the state education station in Monroe.

An annual major event in this division is the Publications Workshop. It attracts hundreds of area high school students to the campus to hear talks and panel discussions on school newspapers, newspaper and radio - TV writing, school yearbooks, photography and creative writing. Speakers at the workshop include prominent newspapermen and TV newsmen of the state, outstanding high school and college newspaper and yearbook sponsors, yearbook company representatives and nationally famous personalities such as CBS newsman Dan Rather and Garland Roark, author of well - known novels.

FIELD STUDY TOUR

The Field Study Tour sponsored by the Division of Liberal Arts was inaugurated last summer with a tour of the northwestern United States including stops in Denver, Yellowstone National Park, San Francisco, Lake Tahoe, Salt Lake City, the Royal Gorge, Victoria, Canada, and the Seattle World's Fair.

This year's tour through the American Southwest and Mexico, to begin August 14, includes stops in Taos, New Mexico, Las Vegas, Los Angeles, Beverly Hills, Hollywood, San Diego, Yuma, Tucson, El Paso, San Antonio and Monterey and Mexico City, Mexico. In Mexico City, trips are scheduled to an archaeological museum, the Shrine of Guadalupe, the University of Mexico and the nearby pyramids.

The tours are open to anyone eligible to be in college. Those making the tour can receive six hours of undergraduate credit, three in history and three in geography, and graduate students may receive three hours of credit in either history or geography.

Fraternities, societies and clubs sponsored by the Division of Liberal Arts include the Epsilon Tau Chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, national history honor society; Beta Zeta Chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, a national English fraternity; the Writers Club, a member of the College Writers Society of Louisiana which participates in the state College Writers' Contest and the Southern Literary Festival; and the Social Science Club.

Dr. William R. Hammond, a member of the Northeast State faculty for 31 years, is dean of the Division of Liberal Arts. Dean Hammond received his bachelor of arts degree from Western Kentucky State College and his master of arts and Ph.D. degrees from George Peabody College.

BOWLING in the new College Union Building is one of the favorite activities of Northeast State students. The building has eight modern lanes and other recreational facilities.

Business Careers Open To Grads

TYPING is one of the courses taught in Northeast State's secretarial science department. The College offers one-year, two - year and four - year curriculums in secretarial science in the Division of Business Administration.

Business is one of the most challenging and rewarding careers open to a college graduate. The great American system of free enterprise, which has made our standard of living the envy of the world, continues to make our economy the most prosperous anywhere.

New products and better old ones, thanks to great technological advances, appear on the market every day and an ever-increasing number of people trained in business are needed to distribute and sell them.

Northeast Louisiana State's Division of Business Administration is an excellent source of the business training necessary for men in today's expanding economy.

IN MANY POSTS

Graduates of the division go into a number of positions and business enterprises — advertising, business machine operator, cashier, executive secretary, industrial accountant, office manager, personnel director, public accountant, purchasing agent, retailing, sales management, secretarial service, statistician and wholesaling, to name just a few.

The various curricula offered by the Division of Business Administration are arranged to allow the student wide latitude in selecting which one of these business fields in which he or she wishes to specialize.

The accounting program in the Division of Business Administration is aimed at three types of students, those whose main interest is accounting and who will take approximately 30 hours of the subject; those whose main business is general business, marketing or secretarial training and who will take from six to twelve hours of basic accounting; and those whose main business is general business, marketing or secretarial training and who will take from six to 12 hours of basic accounting; and those whose main interest is business teacher training and who will take 12 hours of basic accounting.

REQUIRED COURSES

The required accounting courses in the non-accounting programs of study are designed to provide the students with a mastery of basic accounting in order that they will be able to interpret accounting data. The required courses for business teacher training are considered sufficient to enable a graduate to do a good job of teaching bookkeeping in high schools. The student who demonstrates exceptional ability in these core courses is encouraged to continue the study of advanced courses in accounting leading to a B.S. degree in business with a major field of study in accounting.

Business administration courses range from principles and practices of business management to the use of business machines. Courses on specific areas of business like public utilities, transportation, real estate and insurance are offered along with ones on personal relations, business law, corporation finance and investments.

Students of secretarial science at Northeast have a choice of three programs of study, a one-year, two-year or four-year program. A one-year or two-year certificate is awarded upon completion of the required work. This program is offered for the girl who can spend only a short time preparing for her work. College credit earned in these programs may be applied toward a B.S. degree, the degree being offered upon completion of the four-year program. Students are encouraged to take the four - year course because of the opportunities available for the trained executive secretary.

PROFICIENCY

The girl trained in the shorter programs is proficient in shorthand, typing, and in the use of office machines. She also receives instruction in accounting, business letter writing, office practices, English and math. The four-year program includes these courses as well as advanced accounting, marketing, economics, business law, report writing, records, management, office management, psychology and elective business courses.

For those who prefer a career in teaching, there is the business education curriculum.

The Division of Business Administration has excellent facilities including all types of office and business machines for training its students.

Wilbur L. Perkins, who joined the college faculty in 1941, is acting dean of the division. A native of Louisiana, Perkins received his B.S. degree from Louisiana Tech and his M.B.A. degree from the University of Oklahoma. He has done other graduate work at New York University.

The division is sponsor of two professional fraternities — Pi Sigma Epsilon and Alpha Mu Upsilon. Alpha Mu Upsilon is an accounting fraternity open to accounting majors with a C plus average in accounting and a C overall average. Pi Sigma Epsilon, a sales fraternity, is open to all business majors. The local chapter, the smallest of the 32 in the national fraternity, this year was selected the No. 2 chapter in the organization and advisor Dwight D. Vines, assistant professor of business administration, took the top advisor award at the organization's national convention in Philadelphia.

Each year an outstanding student degree in business administration or banking at Northeast receives the Ouachita National Bank Educational Trust Fund Scholarship. One scholarship a year is awarded and is open to high school graduates of the business area served by the bank who have high scholastic averages, good character and leadership qualities. Recipients are required to maintain a B average in college work.

IN EUROPEAN TOUR

Jazz Ensemble Is Highly Rated

Northeast Louisiana State College students think the school's Jazz Ensemble is one of the best college or university muscial groups in the country. Other people think so, too, like the United Service Organizations (USO) which sent the Ensemble to Europe this past winter to entertain U.S. troops.

American soldiers in Europe and Europeans gave the Ensemble the same reception it has received in Louisiana and other parts of the South—hearty applause and shouts for "More!"

The brainchild of Director John F. "Del" Sawyer, assistant professor of music at Northeast, the Jazz Ensemble was formed in 1959 and was an instant hit. The 1959 group consisted of 18 members, only two of which had any previous experience in jazz. The Ensemble made its official debut in a November concert and soon was presenting concerts in nearby high schools.

IN CONCERTS

Since that first year, the Ensemble has appeared in concert throughout Louisiana and Mississippi. One of the highlights of the Ensemble's seasons for the past three years has been performances at the Miss Louisiana Beauty Pageant in Lake Providence.

The Ensemble won its European tour in competition with college musical and entertainment groups from all over America. Winners were selected by the National Music Council Armed Forces Overseas Touring Committee on the basis of tape recordings, programs, pictures, reviews and letters of recommendation.

Leaving Monroe on a cold morning, January 28, the Ensemble flew to McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey and then to Europe. They gave performances before servicemen in bases in and near Frankfurt, Nuremberg, and West Berlin, Germany, and Paris, France, and other points.

TOURED SITES

In between performances, Ensemble members toured historical sites, visited museums and castles, climbed mountains, took hundreds of pictures and, in general, had a big time.

The troupe climaxed its tour with a performance in Paris and then had a week off to enjoy the beautiful city before returning to the United States.

After returning to Northeast on the night of April 1, the Ensemble members performed their annual job of providing music at the Miss Northeast Pageant, then settled back into normal college life. The group performs each year at various campus activities, including the "Redskins" variety show.

European tours are nothing new for Director Sawyer. He toured the continent and the Middle East with the Robert Shaw Chorale and Orchestra before entering college work. A native of Alabama who grew up in Chattanooga, Sawyer is a graduate of the University of Mississippi and George Peabody College.

Twirl Early For Success, Says Cherie

Want to be Miss Majorette of America?

Here's how — start twirling at age 11, have a nice smile, be very pretty, be very talented and, most important, work very hard.

That's the secret of success for Cherie Martin, Northeast State's featured twirler who won the Miss Majorette of America title in February. The freshman beauty from Pineville defeated entrants from 30 states and Canada in the national contest in St. Paul, Minn.

PRELIMINARY

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Martin of Pineville, Cherie earned the right to compete in the national competition, sponsored by the National Baton Twirling Association, by being named Miss Majorette of Louisiana for the third consecutive year last October in Baton Rouge.

Competition at St. Paul included judging in costume and evening gowns as well as twirling.

Miss Martin came to Northeast last fall after collecting more than 100 trophies since she began twirling at age 11. She has been Dixie National Champion for two years, state champion for three years and last year placed fourth in the national Miss Majorette contest. She was chief twirler at Pineville High School and guest twirler at Louisiana College for two years.

OTHER HONORS

In addition to being featured twirler in high school, Cherie was a member of the National Honor Society and holds a scholarship at Northeast.

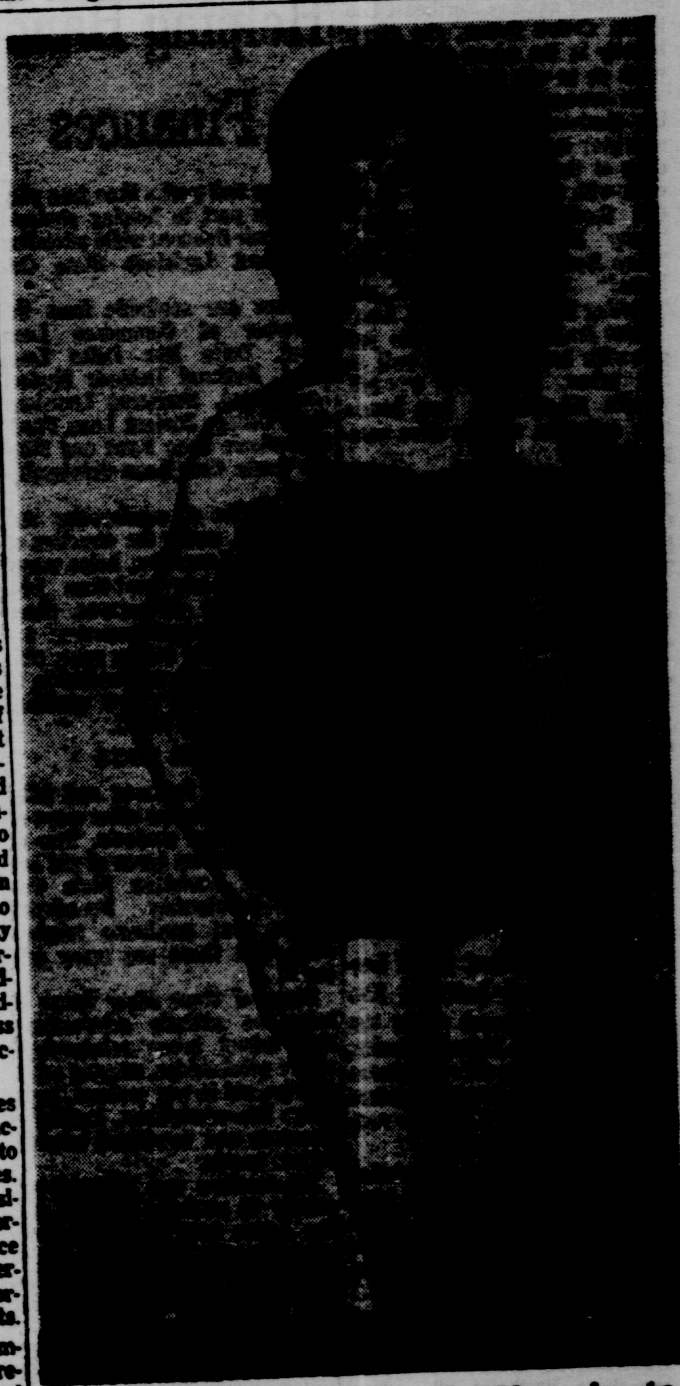

Early this month, Cherie was runnerup in the Miss Northeast Pageant. A business education major at Northeast, Miss Martin hopes to be a NBTA teacher and judge.

Frat Sponsors Blood Typing

Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity at Northeast Louisiana State, sponsored a drive last fall to have the blood typed of all Northeast State students.

The typing was free of charge and each person taking part was supplied with an identification card bearing his blood type.

MISS NORTHEAST of 1963 is a West Monroe beauty, Julia Wilhite. She will compete in the Miss Louisiana Pageant in Lake Providence in July. The present Miss Louisiana, Diana Jane Smith of Oak Ridge, is a Northeast student.

Indian Athletes Set World Records

SPORTS MEAN exciting action, like this which occured in a recent Northeast - East Texas State football game.

Northeast has a program of seven varsity sports and this year won the Gulf States Conference All - Sports Trophy.

Northeast State has a full program of varsity sports and an outstanding one. This year the college won the Gulf States Conference All-Sports Trophy, awarded annually to the school which scores the most points in all sports.

Each institution in the six-school conference is awarded six points for first place in a particular sport, five for second place, etc.

Northeast tied for the top number of championships in the conference this year with two—the tennis and track titles. Last year the Indians brought home more championships than any other team—three.

VARSITY SPORTS

The college fields teams in seven varsity sports, football, cross country, basketball, baseball, golf, tennis and track. Some of the nation's finest athletes have performed in Indian uniforms—linebacker and defensive captain Smokey Stover of the American Football League champion Dallas Texans; Joe Driskill, three-times all-GSC end and a defensive halfback with the Chicago Cardinals before entering the army last year; halfback Aubrey Wade, like Driskill a former second team all-American choice; All-American basketballer Lanny Johnson; pole vaulter John Pennel; and the Styron twins, Don and Dave.

Pennel this spring has become one of the world's most famous track and field athletes. The 22-year-old senior first burst into the international limelight by vaulting 16 feet, three inches, in the Memphis Relays March 23 and has since gone 16-4 for a new record and 16-6¾ for the present world standard. Pennel at this writing has cleared 16 feet eight times in 10 weeks—an unparalled feat.

WORLD RECORDS

With Pennel on the record books, Northeast now has two world track record holders among its students. The other is Don Styron, the brilliant hurdler who holds the world standard of 21.9 in the 220-yard low hurdles. Styron, twice named the world's greatest all-around hurdler by Track & Field News, has now completed his college eligibility.

Don's brother, Dave, shares two U. S. sprint records—6.0 in the 60-yard dash and 7.0 in the 70 yard dash. Don shares the national standard of 6.7 in the 60-yard low hurdles.

The Styrons, Pennel and other great athletes like Randall Walker, Dalton LeBlanc, Jerry Dyes, Hoy Rogers and Buddy Eiland have made Northeast the dominant track team in the South for the past five years. The school, which did not field a full-fledged team or even have a track until 1958, has since produced two world record holders, two undefeated seasons and four Gulf States Conference championships.

Northeast has finished first in 46 of 71 track meets in the past six years, failing to finish in the top four only once since 1958—and the Indians run against the best in meets like the Southwestern Recreation, the Florida Relays, and the Southwestern Relays.

Also, Northeast's top individual stars have competed in major indoor and outdoor meets like the Coliseum Relays in Los Angeles, the Millrose Games in New York, the Mason-Dixon Games in Louisville, the Will Rogers Games in Fort Worth, the Drake Relays, the Modesto Relays, the Compton Relays, the Telegram-Maple Leaf Games in Toronto, Canada, and the Sugar Bowl Meet.

VICTORY REPORTS

This year's Indian track team, led by Pennel, Walker and LeBlanc, won seven meets including the conference run while the tennis team won 10 of 12 dual matches and the conference title. Indian freshman Margo Alvarez was the GSC's singles champion.

The chief of Indian athletics is Jack Rowan, athletic director and head football coach. A native of West Virginia, Rowan was a star quarterback at that state's Concord College and coached state championship high school teams at Mullens, West Virginia, and Byrd High of Shreveport before coming to Northeast in 1958, winning GSC "Coach of the Year" honors in his initial season.

Northeast's overall athletic program has reached its peak during Rowan's term as athletic director. The school finished third in the All-Sports Trophy standings in 1961 and 1962 before finishing on top this year.

Rowan is assisted by football aides Jim Coats, Bob DeMoss, George Luffey and Leon Manley.

Manley can call on his experience as a starting tackle on some of Oklahoma's finest teams and four years of professional football in coaching Tribe tackles. Manley was a member of the 1950 College All-Stars squad and played pro ball with Green Bay and Edmonton of the Canadian league before turning to college coaching.

ANOTHER OKLAHOMAN

DeMoss is another Oklahoman, playing guard and blocking back on the great Oklahoma A&M (now Oklahoma State) teams which went to the 1945 Cotton Bowl and 1946 Sugar Bowl. He coaches Tribe guards and centers in the fall and guides Indian golfers in the spring. Northeast had its highest finish ever in golf this year under DeMoss, coming in second in the GSC tournament.

Coats, a former Louisiana College wingback, coached state championship teams in both football and baseball at Delhi and Neville before joining the Northeast staff as backfield coach. He took over tennis when the sport was added to the college athletic program in 1961. He coached his inexperienced team to a tie for third place in 1961, built for the future last year when his graduation-riddled team finished in a tie for fifth and sent his netters all the way to the top this spring.

Luffey was an outstanding football end and baseball pitcher at Neville High and Southwestern in his school days, making the all-GSC team in baseball, and pitched two years in the Evangeline League before entering the coaching profession. The dean of Northeast coaches in length of service, he has been end coach and baseball mentor since 1954. He has tutored some of the GSC's finest ends during his career, notably Driskill and Charlie Barnes, both of whom went on to play professional ball.

CAGE COACH

Former Centenary star Lenny Fant is Northeast's basketball coach. The tall former Mississippian has coached teams at Louisiana College, East Texas Baptist and Northeast to 135 victories in 247 games and earned "Coach of the Year" honors in the GSC last year after guiding his Indians to the league title. His 1962-63 team finished in a tie for second in the conference and produced the league scoring leader in conference games for the third consecutive year. All-American Johnson led in 1961 and 1962 and all-GSC guard Stuart Toms was tops this winter.

Bob Groseclose has guided Northeast teams to two conference cross country championships and two track titles since taking over a coach of these sports in 1960. A three-sport star at Texas Christian, Groseclose coached Abilene, Tex., High School teams to three state titles and 51 victories in 65 meets before coming to Northeast.

In addition to the seven varsity sports, Northeast also fields a gymnastics team coached by Barry Johnson, instructor in health and physical education. The Indian gymnasts have finished first in five of nine meets, including the Southern AAU and Louisiana Collegiate Championships, in the two years of the team's existence.

Scholarships Aid Qualified Students

Lack of money is one of the primary causes and the Northeast Louisiana State College Scholarship Foundation was formed to help provide some assistance.

Currently, nine students are attending Northeast State with assistance from the Foundation. They are strong testimony that dedicated study in high school pays dividends toward getting a college education.

The nine are Cecilia Bland, Betty Earl, Margret Hendrix, Cherie Martin, Mary Jane Parnell, Bob Pfrimmer, Bonnie Shelton, Dennis Warner and Johnette Crow Ward.

ON HONOR ROLL

James O. Lancaster, supervisor of scholarships and placement and secretary - treasurer of the Foundation, points out that all nine are on the honor roll.

"All are outstanding students," he commented. "Miss Martin recently gained recognition throughout the country when she was selected as 'Miss Majorette of America.' "

Garland Shell is president of the Scholarship Foundation, with Eugene B. Scott as vice president and Lancaster as secretary-treasurer.

ALSO AVAILABLE

Also available at Northeast State are academic scholarships. Students seeking these must qualify by outstanding performance on the Northeast Louisiana State College Qualifying Scholarship Test and-or the National Merit Scholarship Examination.

Current holders of academic scholarships at Northeast State are Donna Faye Cox, William Joseph Quenan Jr., Cheryl Lee Saine, Roxanne Becker, Paula Lawrence, E. D. Coates Jr. Nelda Jean Thames, Frances Walters, Carol Ann Beeman, Charleen Morizot, Judy Kay Wisinger, Dorothy Hammett Borden, Robert Eugene Groth, Nancy O'Quinn, Linda Louise Price, Dinah Lewis, Essie Mae Nugent, Carolyn Sallie Flynn.

BASIS

Some of the special grants based on academic accomplishments that are available at NLSC are the Jones S. Davis pharmacy scholarship, Monroe Wholesale Drug Co. pharmacy scholarship, Twin City Symphony Orchestra scholarships, Ouachita National Bank scholarships, Pyrenees scholarships, Western Star Lodge No. 24 F. and A.M. scholarships and T. H. Harris scholarships.

Quality students will find that many sources of help are ready to give assistance to those seeking a college education at Northeast State.

Don Styron Low Hurdles Record Setter

Somebody cracked not long ago that the reason the NCAA and many conferences dropped the 220-yard low hurdles event after last season was that Don Styron had stopped running it.

While that statement may not be altogether true, the event did lose a lot of its glamor when the lean Northeast State flyer completed his college eligibility.

Rated the greatest low hurdler of all time, Styron holds the world record in the 220-yard event, a 21.9 clocking made in 1960, and was twice named the world's greatest hurdler, highs, lows and intermediates, by Track & Field News. He is a former National AAU hurdles champion.

OTHER RECORDS

Styron, in addition to this world record, holds the Gulf States Conference standards of 13.9 in the 120 - yard high hurdles and 22.3 in the lows and shares the American record of 6.7 in the 60 - yard lows.

Don and twin brother Dave put Northeast on the map in track, leading Indian teams through undefeated seasons in 1960 and 1962. Dave, a sprinter who shares a couple of U.S. indoor records, and Don formed a team in themselves, and gained national fame as the "Twin Track Terrors of the Bayous."

Don, in addition to running his hurdles specialities, ran on four relay teams and occasionally in the sprints during his Northeast career. He holds a total of eight Northeast records and shares four relay standards.

ARMY ROTC

Flight Program Set At Northeast

The Army Reserve Officers Training Corps begins its 14th year on the Northeast State campus next fall with a new flight program.

The flight program will be available to all senior military students who are accepted and pass the required flight aptitute and physical examinations. The course of instruction will consist of 35 hours of ground instruction and 36½ hours of flight instruction.

Each cadet completing this program will be awarded a private pilot's license and will be given the opportunity to continue in the Army Aviation Program once he has reported to active duty as a second lieutenant.

Approximately 10 flight training openings will be provided for this course of instruction at Northeast next year.

All physically fit male students at Northeast without previous military training are required to complete at least two years in the ROTC, with a four-year program designed for students who wish to secure commissions as second lieutenants.

Cadets who complete the four-year program go on to serve in all branches of the Army in all parts of the world.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said, "College trains leaders for tomorrow. . .The academic curriculum will provide the background of knowledge essential for leadership, but actual practice in leading others is of inestimable value.

"While you may gain experience in this direction on athletic teams and in various class and on-campus activities, the ROTC is a ready - made course designed and perfected to develop the qualities of leadership required in both military and civil enterprise."

The College established the ROTC in 1950. Today the 683 cadets enrolled in the program receive instruction in weapons, communications, map reading, military history, military law, leadership, tactics, drill and other areas prescribed by the Department of the Army.

The College program is divided into two courses—basic and advanced. The basic course, required of all male students who are physically qualified but who have had no prior military service, is taken during the first two years. The advanced course is reserved for selected students qualified to pursue the course of instruction for commissions as second lieutenants in the Regular Army or in the Reserve components of the Army.

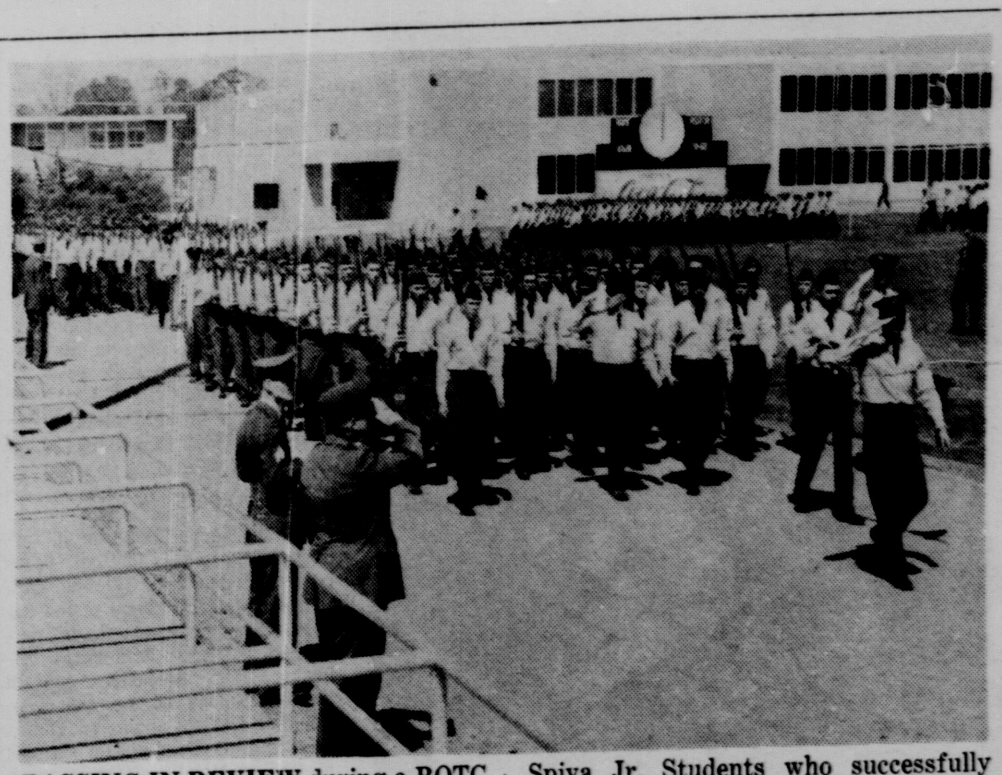

In addition to training in the classroom and on the drill field, the ROTC offers a well-rounded program of extracurricular activities, including:

The Scabbard and Blade Society—Founded in 1904 at the University of Wisconsin, the society has as its purpose the fostering of interest in military pursuits and the encouragement of good citizenship and patriotism.

The Fusileers—Formerly the Pershing Rifles, the precision drill organization engages in half-time performances at Northeast's home football games, parades and other ceremonies.

The Small-Bore Rifle Team — Organized to promote interest in markmanship, the cadet rifle team competes in many matches, both postal and shoulder-to-shoulder competition, with other College ROTC rifle teams.

Military Ball—One of the social highlights of the year at Northeast is the annual Military Ball, co-sponsored by the Scabbard and Blade and the Fusileers.

PASSING IN REVIEW during a ROTC inspection is Company "B". The reviewing faculty members are Sgt. William M. Williams and Major Derrell Spiva Jr. Students who successfully complete the ROTC program at Northeast receive commissions in the U. S. Army.

Facilities, Enrollment Gain, Academic Status Advances

When colleges grow as rapidly in physical facilities and enrollment as Northeast State has, what happens to the academic standards?

With 3,315 students registered during the fall semester and with completion of a construction program valued in excess of $5½ million during the past three years, Northeast State has grown tremendously, having increased enrollment by about 290 per cent in only 10 years and having doubled permanent floor space of facilities during the past three years.

Is the College an over-grown child, having matured physically but not having kept pace inwardly? Maintaining high academic standards while increasing enrollment rapidly is not an easy job, but there are several reasons for believing Northeast has done so.

MANY WITH DOCTORATES

First the number of full - time faculty members holding doctoral degrees has greatly increased. According to Dr. Clint O. Hanna, dean of instruction, Northeast State had 39 faculty members with doctoral degrees in the fall of 1959. One year later, there was a total of 49. In 1961 there was a total of 53 and last fall there were 59.

Secondly, the College is attracting not merely more students but better students. Herman R. Sigler, director of testing and guidance, says that each year the incoming freshmen at Northeast are scoring higher on pre - entrance tests.

"We compare the scores of our freshmen each year with the national average," Sigler says. "For the past three years the scores of our freshmen have been higher each year in comparison with the national norm."

Also, Sigler said, "our scholarship students are scoring higher each year than those of previous years."

Thirdly, more students hold academic scholarships than ever before. This year a total of 108 students hold academic scholarships at Northeast State.

Northeast was established to meet the educational needs of the young men and women of Louisiana and to function as a cultural and community service center for its surrounding area.

IMPROVEMENT

The administration has constantly sought to improve academic standards. It has added additional courses, changed old ones to better fit current needs, instituted additional programs and employed qualified teachers to implement these changes and additions.

As a result, scholastic standards have improved, with the quality of instruction being strengthened each year. The College has maintained its constant efforts to provide adequate instructors in order that all students can receive as much individual attention and assistance as possible.

Northeast State is a member in good standing of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and of the National Association of Schools of Music. The School of Pharmacy is accredited by the American Counsel on Pharmaceutical Education.

The College is also a member of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, American Council on Education, Association of American Colleges, Council on Social Work Education, and National Commission on Accrediting.

Some of the organizations are accrediting agencies, the watchdogs over academic standards in public schools, colleges and universities.

As College officials have attempted to arrange a varied program of scholastic, extracurricular and professional opportunities to fit all students, the emphasis has been to train young people fully. Never losing sight that the primary purpose of the College is to promote the intellectural growth of each student, the administration has constantly kept in mind that each student needs training to help him live a full, rich, well - balanced life and at the same time to give him specialized education necessary for success in a chosen career.

The division of student services at Northeast State is designed to help students in many ways. The entire organization from amicable Dean Fred J. Vogel down is always concerned with every student's welfare.

Personnel from this division frequently have the first contact with high school graduates who expect to attend Northeast. The director of testing and guidance, Herman Sigler, and fellow staff members of this division give the orientation guidance tests for entering undergraduates. These same tests are used by James O. Lancaster, director of scholarships and placement, to screen students who need financial assistance in the form of scholarships, grants, loans or work.

The tests are also used in the guidance program by students' advisers and all have the opportunity of private counselling sessions with Mr. Sigler.

Once students have been tested, they may seek formal admission to the College. Registrar Lake Oxford, another member of Dean Vogel's staff, is the official to write for admission application forms.

When students have been admitted and are enrolled in Northeast, they find they can seek and receive plenty of aid — whether that aid be guidance in personal affairs, financial assistance in the way of academic or work scholarships, or such help as remedial reading through the reading laboratory under the direction of Dr. Woodrow Flanary.

The counselors to men and women students, Jack Collins and Miss Alma Lufcy, respectively, supervise life in the dormitories and help students with personal problems.

The division provides a director of social activities, Obed Kirkpatrick, and College Union hostesses to assist students with organized recreation and organizational meetings.

Not only are students helped with scholarships and jobs while at Northeast, but Mr. Lancaster's office, aided by alumni editor Lynn Garrett, also helps Northeast graduates find jobs, then keeps them informed about the College.

Social fraternities and sororities are administered through the dean's office, and the Student Government Association, with Dean Vogel as adviser, aids greatly with the social and extracurricular affairs of the student body.

Dean Vogel says, "If a person wants to go to college, we'll help him find a way to attend Northeast. Once he's here, we'll help him get a college education."

ONE OF THE TOP attractions of any Northeast State home football game is the Precision Dance & Drill Team. These beautiful and talented young ladies also perform at Northeast home conference basketball games and at other functions.

Northeast Coed Captures Title

A Northeast State freshman, Miss Beverly Sumrall of Lake Providence, is "Miss Stock Show of 1963."

The 19-year-old speech education major won the annual beauty contest at Delhi in February.

Two other Northeast coeds placed second and third in the judging. Second was Gail Sawyer of Oak Grove while Glenda Sue Young of West Monroe was third.

Diana Smith Kept Busy As Beauty Queen

On the night of July 4, Northeast State coed Diana Jane Smith will end a very busy 12 months. On that night Diana Jane, Miss Louisiana of 1962, will crown her successor as the state's fairest in the annual beauty pageant in Lake Providence.

Since winning the title last July, Miss Louisiana has enjoyed a "Day" in her honor in Monroe; competed in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., appeared at numerous beauty pageants and special events throughout the state; attended the annual Mardi Gras Ball in Washington, D.C.; and continued with her school work at Northeast. She is scheduled to graduate in June with a Bachelor of Music degree in instrumental music.

MISS NORTHEAST

Diana was Miss Northeast of 1961 and was runnerup in the Miss Louisiana Pageant and last year, competing as Miss Northeast Louisiana Cotton Queen, she scored heavily in the talent division and went on to win the coveted title.

An accomplished performer on the electronic organ, Miss Smith won over the judges and the audience at the Miss Louisiana Pageant with a musical tour of the Old South — "Quiet Vilage," "Lazy River," "Bill Bailey," "Way Down Yonder in New Orleans," "Sabre Dance," and "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee."

Miss Smith impressed the judges with her beauty as well as her talent. She is 5' 6" tall, weighs 118 pounds, has brown hair and eyes and an olive complexion.

A member of the Honor Society and "Who's Who In American Colleges and Unversities," Diana is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Smith of Oak Ridge.

THE FINE ARTS Division at Northeast State produces many outstanding stage productions each year. This scene is from one of them, "Brigadoon," a musical presented this spring.

Eight Northeast Players Named To "All" Teams

A total of eight Northeast Louisiana State athletes made All-Gulf States Conference teams in football, baseball and basketball this school year.

Tackle Ross Nolan, guard Larry Rambin and halfback Ken Newton of Northeast made the grade in football. Nolan, a senior, was named to the all - star team selected by the league coaches. Nolan also made the all - conference eleven last year.

Guard Larry Rambin, another senior, made the All - GSC team nambed by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association. Rambin was a second team choice the previous year.

Halfback Newton was named to the coaches' all - league team. He is the only non - senior among the three Northeast all - stars. He's a junior.

In baseball, outfielder Alton Thomas, catcher Eddie Kincaid and pitcher Ed Quimby made the coaches' All - GSC team. Stuart Toms (1st team) and Jimmy Walker (2nd team) were All - GSC in basketball.

Students Get Helping Hand In Finances

Loans are available from the Chamber of Commerce Loan Fund, Delta Rho Delta Loan Fund, National Defense Student Loan Fund, Northeast Louisiana State College Student Loan Fund, Panhellenic Loan Fund and Monroe Quota Club Loan Scholarship Fund.

The office of scholarships and placement, under the direction of James O. Lancaster, helps many students obtain part-time jobs both on and off campus. Since estimated campus expenses average less than $600 a year, officials note, ways are available to help more and more qualified students attend NLSC.

OTHER WAYS

In addition to loans and jobs, Northeast State has other ways of helping worthy students. Two of the better-known types of aid are Northeast Louisiana State College Scholarship Foundation grants, and academic scholarships. But there are many others.

Some of these other forms of help are athletic scholarships, high school honor scholarships, music scholarships, nursing scholarships, aid to war orphans, legislative fee exemptions, legislative warrants and vocational rehabilitation grants.

Scholarships are awarded primarily to students of high ability. Loans may be arranged for students with "C" averages or better, and students with satisfactory grades are eligible for part-time jobs.

IN THE SOUTH

Sandel Library One Of Finest

The students of Northeast Louisiana State College have, since May 6, been enjoying one of the finest library buildings in the South.

Sandel Library opened for business this month after Northeast's librarian, Mrs. Maud Bentrup, and her hard-working staff — with the aid of the Northeast student body — completed moving the books from the library's old location in Bry Hall.

DREAM COME TRUE

The new Sandel Library, a dream come true for Mrs. Bentrup, is a air-conditioned, two-story building which will hold approximately 150,000 books in open stacks. The building is now adequate for Northeast's needs but later, with more books and broadened services, it may become crowded as did Bry Hall. When that time comes, a third floor may be added. The building was constructed with a foundation sufficiently strong to allow the addition of a third floor when desired.

Among the new or improved services the library offers are public typing rooms, a portable sound center, the bibliography room, the audio visual rooms and photo duplicating facilities.

Typing rooms on both floors may be used by students or faculty members who wish to copy something from books or magazines. The photo duplicating facilities may also be used for copying. For a small service charge, whole pages may be duplicated—an especially welcome service for graduate students who must do a great deal of research.

The portable sound center, mounted on rollers, may be moved to any part of the library, where students may listen to records of great music, literature, history and foreign languages.

Library users may look up the books or periodicals with information on the subject they are studying in the bibliography room while the audio visual room on the second floor will be used by librarians, faculty members or groups who wish to show slides or films.

SPACIOUS

The library contains 57,000 square feet of floor area and follows the divisional plan with reading and shelving areas divided for social sciences, the humanities and pure and applied sciences.

Recently designated an offical depository for government publications by the U.S. Division of Public Documents, Sandel Library and the faculty are the two greatest sources of knowledge at Northeast.

Mrs. Bentrup has headed the library staff since 1954. She received a bachelor of arts degree from Louisiana State University and a B.S. degree in library science from the University of Illinois. The Northeast librarian formerly served on the library staff at LSU and the University of Southwestern Louisiana.

Indian Mentor Wins In Three

Coats produced championship teams in baseball and football during his high school coaching days at Delhi and Neville of Monroe. This spring he added tennis to his list when his Indian netters defeated Northwestern for the Gulf States Conference title.

Students in Northeast State's Division of Fine Arts learn to do by doing. They paint and sculpture and exhibit their work in campus art shows, they act in the division's many dramatic productions, they play musical instruments in the Jazz Ensemble or band and they sing in the college choir or in musical productions—activities that provide the best kind of planned learning experiences for the fine arts student as well as help make attending Northeast an interesting and rewarding experience for all students.

The division schedules two major dramatic and musical productions each school year, usually a three-act play in the fall and a musical in the spring. This year the play "Papa Is All" was presented in the fall and the musical "Brigadoon" this spring. Also presented each spring is a series of one-act plays.

Each summer the division, in association with the Little Theatre of Monroe, holds the Summer Theatre Workshop for college students, in-service teachers, community theatre directors, actors and technicians and recreation directors.

Featuring concentrated study in children's theatre, acting and play production and stagecraft and lighting, the workshop stages from two to three major productions each summer in Strauss Playhouse, new home of the Monroe Little Theatre.

Workshop courses are speech 103 (stagecraft, three hours), speech 107 (play reading and history of the theatre, three hours), speech 109 (stage lighting, three hours), speech 183 (rehearsal and productions, two hours) and speech 190 (children's theatre, three hours). Speech 107 and 190 are acceptable for graduate credit.

Also scheduled each summer is the Youth Music Festival, which features instruction in band, choral work, orchestra and twirling from outstanding instructors from throughout the country.

Each spring high school students from throughout the state attend the Speech and Drama Festival to compete in debating, individual events and one-act drama.

This year Northeast art students exhibited their work in the Kappa Pi Department Art Show and the annual Graduating Senior Show. Kappa Pi is a national art-fraternity. The two shows were part of a series of art exhibits on campus this year which included work by Northeast students, local professional artists and artists from throughout America and the world.

One of the outstanding college musical groups in the country, Northeast State's Jazz Ensemble this spring made a tour, sponsored by United Service Organizations (USO) and the Defense Department, of U. S. military bases in Europe — a once-in-a lifetime experience for the student musicians. The Ensemble members, to quote an army officer who escorted the group on the tour, "combine the enthusiasm of the college student with the polished consistency of the professional."

The Ensemble provides the music at various campus productions, such as the Miss Northeast Pageant and "Redskins," the annual college variety show, makes frequent appearances throughout the state and has played for the past three years at the Miss Louisiana pageant.

Northeast's excellent band, directed by Joe Barry Mullins, has drawn applause throughout the state for its fine performances. The band performs at all Northeast home football games and at least one road game each year, gives performances at local high schools, makes a tour through some part of the state each spring and has performed at Mardi Gras in New Orleans for the past two years.

Directed by Davis Bingham, the Northeast choir presents "Handel's "Messiah" each Christmas as well as other concerts on campus and in Monroe each school year. The choir also makes a tour each spring, performing in the Shreveport area last year and at high schools and before civic clubs in the Baton Rouge and Alexandria areas this spring.

Fine arts students also appear in college television and radio shows staged by the Northeast Radio and Television Productions Committee as well as in motion pictures. George Brian, associate professor of speech, is making a movie on the history of Monroe with the help of fine arts students.

These activities and class work offer excellent training to young men and women interested in careers in ceramics, commercial art, illustration, jewelry making, leather craft, painting, sculpture, typography, weaving, textile designing, acting, announcing and newscasting, play directing, program writing, conducting (band, choral, orchestral), music supervision, professional performance (church organist, accompanist, soloist), and teaching.

In addition, the courses and activities of the fine arts division are useful and necessary for students concentrating in other fields. The course in public speaking and participation on college debate teams, for example, train students to be at ease before large groups, to think on their feet and to speak clearly and forcefully—abilities necessary for success in any field.

Students of the Division of Fine Arts who wish to further prepare themselves for their careers after graduation may enter the Graduate Program. The Master of Music Education degree is awarded at Northeast as well as the Master of Music. The Master of Education degree is awarded in speech along with the Master of Arts in Education in speech.

Many organizations whose purpose is to promote interest in the fine arts are active at Northeast. They are Omicron Epsilon Chapter of Delta Omicron for women in music; Delta Alpha Chapter of Kappa Pi for art majors and minors; Alpha Nu Chapter of Phi Beta, a speech and music fraternity; Eta Iota Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, a music fraternity; and the Jesters, a club open to all students interested in dramatics, radio, television and debating.

Scholarships available to qualified fine arts students, in addition to the academic and Scholarship Foundation grants, are the Twin City Symphony Orchestra and band, orchestra and choir scholarships.

Dean of the Division of Fine Arts is Dr. Harry M. Lemert, who first joined the Northeast faculty in 1939.
